CIRCLE K TO SPONSOR AMERICANISM WEEK

The week of November 9-16 has been designated Americanism Week as sponsored by the Circle K Clubs of Kentucky and Tennessee. The announcement was made recently by Curwee Witt, Governor of the Tennessee-Kentucky District of Circle K International.

The Trevecca Circle K Club will be sponsoring on Veterans Day an "Americanism" Chapel, according to David Dodge, President of the local club. Mr. Jesse Safley, an officer of the Nashville Commerce Union Bank and past president of the Downtown Kiwanis Club, will be the speaker for the chapel service.

The Kentucky-Tennessee clubs, convening in Owensboro, Kentucky last spring, unanimously resolved that an Americanism Week program be carried throughout the District. Wide and enthusiastic participation is expected on behalf of the clubs as they carry this program to the respective campuses and communities.

Witt said that Americanism Week "is not to be an attempt at glorifying personalities; it is not concerned with the persons presently operating governmental systems, nor is it concerned with national foreign or domestic policies. Rather, it is a program of appreciation of the principles and ideals upon which a great nation was founded."

He went on to say, "We feel there is a cause to redirect a peoples pre-occupation with personalities, human imperfections, and contemporary inequities, and occasionally call for an expression of common faith in the basic concept of our country's foundation and existence."

Encounters Conduct Atlanta Workshop

The Encounters hit Atlanta, Georgia tomorrow, launching their road presentation which will be repeated throughout this academic year. The new public relations group will conduct a 2½ hour workshop with religious leaders Saturday afternoon at Atlanta First Church of the Nazarene and present their first on-the-road concert Saturday night at Atlanta First. The following day the 26 member group will present two concerts at Brookhaven Church of the Nazarene before returning to Nashville.

SOPHONORES TO UNVEIL BEAUTY

The Sophomore class is sponsoring a Reverse Beauty Pageant tomorrow night at 8:00 in McClurkan Auditorium.

This pageant will have ten male contestants with their female escorts. Contestants will be judged by a panel of students. The contestants will be judged on performance in three main areas. They are: talent, beauty, and poise (taken from the question and answer period).

The winner will be named Queen of the Sugar Bowl for 1969-1970.

Honor Society Plans '69-70 Academic Year

The Honor Society held its first meeting of the year on Wednesday, October 18. Officers for the 1969-1970 school year were elected.

They are as follows: President, Ted Hill; Vice-President, Richard Bowden; Secretary, Connie Farwell; and Reporter, Lynda Taylor. The club chose Professor Finger as their faculty sponsor.

New members will be inducted in a special chapel program. This program is tentatively set for October 30.

The Honor Society, organized last year, will submit its constitution this year.

One of the club's first areas of consideration will be privileges for those who have maintained high academic standing.

Membership requirements for Honor Society are that a cumulative average of 3.5 be maintained for one year and that the student be at least a sophomore.

While talking about plans for this year, Ted Hill, President, stated "We want the Honor Society to function so that it will be a privilege and an honor to be a member. We want to give the student something to strive for—not only in the area of academic honor but also in that of practical benefits."

TNC TO SET PRECEDENCE WITH FIRST HOMECOMING

A big pep-rally, bon-fire combination will kick off the first of the Homecoming events on Thursday, Nov. 13th. Weather permitting, students will gather outside the College Center on the patio and form a Snake ECNAD which will wind its way over the campus to end up on the field behind the P.E. Center. Here the four classes will compete in gathering burnable junk to be used for the bonfire. It will all be gathered together after the judging and then be burned. Coach Bill Boner will give a short pep talk. The Alphas and the Betas will work together to form a pep skit to be presented at this time. The Deltas and the Gammas will be working on a similar project. The entire evening is being sponsored by the varsity cheerleaders.

Friday morning's chapel service starts the actual festivities of a combined Homecoming and Founders Day week-end. Richard M. "Pek" Gunn is the special speaker. He is hailed as one of America's top humorists. He is known for his humorous verse and is the author of the book, "Tumblin' Creek Tales." Special music will be brought by the Senior Men's Quartet from First Church.

A Flower Memorial Service is scheduled for Friday afternoon at 3:00. It is in honor of Rev. J. O. McClurkan, founder of Trevecca College. After a short service a wreath will be placed on Rev. McClurkan's grave at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Upon conclusion of the memorial service there will be an Open House for all dorms and buildings. All buildings will be open for public inspection during this time.

Two basketball games are also on the agenda for Friday night. The first game will be the Alumni versus the All-Stars. It will begin at 6:30. The second game is at 8:00 and is between Trevecca and Atlanta Christian College. During half time of the second game Trevecca's first Homecoming Queen will be presented. Halftime entertainment during the varsity game will be provided by the Encounters. There will be a formal Post-Game Reception at the College Center following the varsity game. The charge will be $1.00 for students and $1.50 for adults.

Saturday from 7:30 until 9:00 there will be a family breakfast served in the cafeteria, followed at 12:00 by special group luncheons. The final activity will be a concert at 8:00 featuring Mr. Bill Pursell, an outstanding concert pianist. Accompanying Mr. Pursell will be a Nashville guitarist, a percussionist, and a string bass player. He entertains with music that is light classical and popular music. This is another of the Artist Series and will be free to all students. It will cost adults $1.00.

Kathy Moore and Linda Sparks are among the first students to make use of the new home economics facilities located in the Science Building.

HOME EC LAB ENHANCES SCIENCE FACILITIES

Seeing "broader horizons" Trevecca adds a new department to her curriculum this year. Majors and minors are now available in home economics education for those desiring to teach home economics at the secondary level and are available in general home economics for those desiring work in industry or government.

A large kitchen on the third floor of the new Science Building serves as both a lab and lecture room for the two courses being offered this quarter. A total of 37 girls are enrolled in either or both Foods Preservation and Preparation and Housing, Equipment and Care.

Heading the department is

Miss Virginia King from Flint, Michigan. She holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Home Economics from Olivet Nazarene College and a Master of Science degree in Family Life Education from Eastern Michigan University.

In a recent interview Miss King said that one of her first duties when she arrived in Nashville the first of September was to help purchase equipment for the department. Accommodations for the four individual kitchen units and one demonstration unit include four ranges, two refrigerators, two dishwashers, a washer and a dryer. These General Electric applian-

STUDENTS NAMED TO LIFE COUNCIL

The Student Life Council has released the names of students to serve on its council and committees for 1969-1970. The student member on the Student Life Council is Mr. Jordan Conger.

Many committees fall under the Student Life Council. Each committee has at least one student member. Committees and members are: Chapel and Religious Life, Mr. David Dodge; Cultural Enrichment, Miss Connie Farwell and Mr. Dale Killingsworth; Student Welfare, Miss Teresa Johnson and Mr. Rick Egnor; and Social Life, Mr. Mark Goodwin.

The Student Life Council, with advice from its committees, makes all policy in regard to student activities, organizations, publications, cultural development of students, etc. The Dean of Students chairs the Student Life Council.

The Intercollegiate Athletic Board is also in the area of Student Life and is chaired by the Dean of Students. The student member of this board is Mr. Preston Ponce.

The Intercollegiate Athletic Board advises the President of the college concerning all matters pertaining to the intercollegiate athletic program, including types of sports played, standards and rules, and finances.

These groups are composed of appropriate administrators, faculty, and student members elected annually.

FINALLY A HOMECOMING TRADITION

After man years Trevecca has finally joined the bandwagon. One week from today a new tradition, at least for T.N.C., will be set with the combination of Homecoming and Founders Day. Now, like our sister institutions, a time has been designated for the alumni, parents, and friends of the school to come and see Trevecca in action.

At least one school administrator described the Trevecca Homecoming as a time when the administration opens the doors of the college and says to everyone, "come and see what T.N.C. has." As a matter of fact this is probably the basic philosophy behind most college homecomings—it is a very valid philosophy, at least from the standpoint of public relations.

The decision to have this most important event come sometime last year and during the latter portion of spring quarter a Homecoming Commission was appointed. Students, alumni, faculty, and administrators were represented on the Commission chaired by Trevecca President, Dr. Mark Moore.

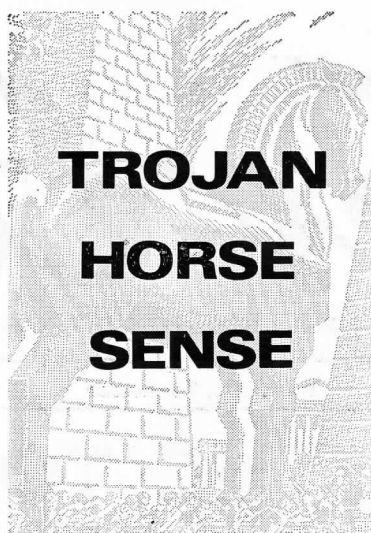

Apparently work must have begun early after the Commission was appointed, because the schedule of the major events was soon distributed by the college publications and the all-school calendar. The Commission must be commended for its work in scheduling and arranging the Homecoming events. For the first Homecoming the schedule can at least be equally compared to T.N.C.'s sister institutions, some of which are considered real pros at homecoming procedures.

However, since there are no VIPs on campus this week-end and since Homecoming is not until next week, this writer would like to make some criticism, which hopefully will be interpreted as constructive, of the homecoming events.

The Commission seemingly and unfortunately gave control of the individual events of homecoming to smaller committees who were assigned to finish up the Commission's work on the details. Until a late fourth quarter meeting last week no one knew for sure what the committees had done. It was only three weeks ago that a method was devised in selecting the homecoming queen and even then the pageantry of the event was not definite.

The post-game reception is to be catered, but two weeks ago no one seemed to know who was doing the catering. Perhaps the Commission missed the boat altogether by excluding for the most part a valuable resource, the student clubs and classes. There should have been display competition between the clubs or dorms in one section of the college and the classes could have been used more in the queen pageantry.

Blame for these minor details can of course be placed on no one, it probably was just an oversight by some. At any rate this is just one man's opinion and can be used for what it is worth. Homecoming at Trevecca can and probably will develop into the biggest event during the school year. It should be remembered that the first year of doing anything different is always hectic and so it may be for T.N.C.'s homecoming. It is necessary to remember that an important tradition is being handled, so let it be handled carefully. DLM

TROJAN HORSE SENSE

IT'S UP TO YOU

By John Teter

It's just not fair! All they want to do is take privileges away from the students! How do they expect clubs to operate without a meeting time? Why should they do away with the Club Chapel?

These, and similar remarks, will fill the air if, and when, the Chapel policy is revised to eliminate the Club Chapel, and judging by participation in the first two Club Chapels they just may be eliminated.

The student body has been told that the Club Chapel is on a trial basis and interest must be shown if it is to continue. Everyone may not agree with this, but it is the policy; and if little participation and interest is shown in club meetings, they will be dropped from the Chapel schedule.

The clubs must have a time to meet, such as this Chapel, if they are to operate effectively. Their effective operation will benefit the entire campus and student body, but only if everyone attends a club of his/her interest and takes part in its activity.

It has been very discouraging for those who are active in a club to watch a majority of the students scatter across the campus when released for club meetings. The active and interested ones then go to their meetings and wonder if it will be possible to meet next quarter. Much ado has been made about requests for more privileges, but it makes very little sense to ask for more while rejecting, by lack of participation, one that is given. The time for action is now. Participation in a club's activities can add much to the enjoyment of college days. Get involved now and take advantage of this privilege before it is taken away. Everyone can find a club to suit his/her interest and take an active part in it. This will assure the continuing of Club Chapel and will add much to personal enrichment.

Failure to do this will result in the loss of Club Chapel privileges, and if this loss occurs there will be no reason to ask why. The answer will be obvious.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

GOOD WORK

Dear Editor:

I received a Trev-Echoes through the mail from my brother. I found it to be very interesting and better than last years. The all-around news coverage and the writing has improved very much.

Trevecca is a fine college and the Trev-Echoes is a compliment to the college. Keep up the good work, I really enjoy reading it.

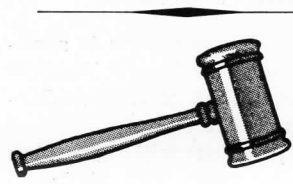

Sincerely,

SHAKEN-UP?

Dear Editor,

How often is a Trevecca student shaken off of his hill-top and included in contemporary thought? Thanks to new additions to the faculty and programs like last week's Student Council-sponsored Worship Service, Trevecca's lofty position on top this hill doesn't seem quite so lonely or removed. Jim Quiggins

Letters are opinions of the writers. All letters must be submitted one week prior to publication and not exceed 300 words.

Gavel Garble

By Charles Davis

"I've looked at life from both sides now . . ." This expresses the purpose of the Thursday, student sponsored assemblies. During this one hour a week, several different sides of life are presented to the student, enlarging his frame of reference to assist in educating him for life off of "the hill". These different sides are intended to stimulate, not necessarily reinforce, the student's thinking. If life is a series of experiences, then these presentations give depth to this series, as we inch our way toward our own realization of life. Regardless of the apparent progress we make in this direction, . . . "it's life's illusions we recall, we really don't know life at all."

facilities, but soon she will be working with the Academic Council to make recommendations concerning courses to be offered in the future.

Next quarter, another room adjacent to the kitchen, will be used for sewing classes. Equipment for this room is to be decided on soon.

When asked what part she thought the Home Economics Department should play in Trevecca's future, Miss King said, "I hope the department becomes an integral part of Trevecca. Not only do we want to reach the young woman who has an interest in becoming a better homemaker, but we hope to go further to train women who want to go beyond the home."

STUDENT-FACULTY FORUM

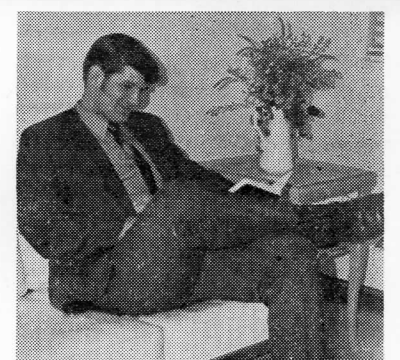

The Student-Faculty Forum, consisting of an equal number of students and faculty members, is a sounding board for campus issues. Its purpose is to serve as a clearing house and to build better understanding between students and faculty. There is open and free discussion of matters that concern the college community and relate to its members.

The Forum has no legislative authority of itself, but it makes recommendations to the proper committees for action in all areas of school policy.

The first meeting of this year's Forum was held on October 22. This was an organizational meeting for the purpose of discussing materials, dates to meet, and rules for functioning. At the present time their plans are to have at least one meeting a quarter and possibly even one a month.

Civitan Valley District Organized Pepper Elected

On October 6, 1969, the Civitan Club held its district organizational meeting at David Lipscomb College. It was attended by delegates from each of the five clubs on this district; one co-ed club at Austin Peay, the Civitan Clubs and Civinettes Clubs at Trevecca and David Lipscomb. There was one representative sent for each ten members of the local clubs. These representatives voted for district officers for this year.

Leroy Pepper, President of Trevecca's Civitan Club, was elected governor of the Collegiate Civitan Valley District at a recent convention.

Elected to the office of Governor was Leroy Pepper of Trevecca Nazarene College. Deputy Governor is Steve Batson of Austin Peay. Other officers elected were the following: Secretary, Sue Ann Deese of David Lipscomb; Treasurer, Randall Burton of David Lipscomb; three lieutenant governors; Kathy Karnes of Austin Peay, Loretta Holloway of Trevecca, and George Parks of David Lipscomb.

Leroy Pepper's job as Governor will be directing work on the district level, promoting relationships among clubs, relating ideas, and organizing new clubs. He feels that this district represents a real potential because it is just in its beginning stages. The district itself was chartered at the district banquet which was held at the Downtown Sheraton. The charter was presented by the International Director of Collegiate Civitans.

EMPHASIS

by DR. T. E. MARTIN

Arn't You Afraid? Yes

My trip to the Holy Land has been postponed for two weeks. The reason is that the one who was to be our guide felt the situation there was hazardous. So we have been re-assigned to another trip which leaves two weeks later. I was not surprised since the news is filled with reports of tension and fighting. Besides that, many of our friends are concerned and keep asking about the feasibility of our going. When the matter is discussed, I am usually asked if I am not afraid. I always say no. But really I am. One would not be realistic and not recognize that there is always danger when the passions of men are as explosive as they are in the Middle East and as thoroughly aroused as they are now.

Why go then if there is danger? Well where could you go and not be subject to risks? A few days ago a man was shot while driving across a bridge in this city. Apparently there was no warning. Another car just came along side of him as he was driving on the bridge. The driver of the second car shot him and sped on. Such things could happen to anyone anywhere. I remember a report in the paper several years ago. A man's mother called him and said that she had dreamed he was killed while at work. She begged him not to go that day. He thought it was silly but had some time off coming and so to humor her he called in that he would not be at work. He wanted to do things around the house anyway. He was working at an emory wheel in his garage when it suddenly broke and a piece struck him in the head and killed him instantly. We live in a world that has dangers. One will not avoid them.

I go to the Holy Land to catch the thrill of seeing the land where Jesus was born. I want to walk where He walked. But I know He walked where danger was so common then, if not more so, than it is now. To be there when there is tension and the danger of an outbreak of fighting at any moment is to be in the kind of situation in which He lived and died. There was death of every kind stalking the land then. Disease was prevalent. Hunger and tragedy were everywhere. Violent death was not uncommon on the roadways of His time. Jerusalem knew rioting and slaughter. He commented on the death of men when the tower of Siloam fell. He mourned the men who were slain between the porch and the altar. He was crucified with political prisoners. The man who was released by His crucifixion was a notorious guerilla of the Al Fatah type. The whole turbulent situation then only insures that I shall visit the places where He walked at a time when the risks are much like they were when He was there.

I go even though afraid because I believe the value of the trip is great enough to make the risk worth taking. When we only know the places as being far away and having strange-sounding names there is an air of unreality about all we read. It is easy to drift into the habit of reading the Bible as one reads a fairy story. That is about 10% fact and 90% imagination. In the first place there is so little given of background as to make one bring a lot of imagination to it. You, without realizing it, make up the world in which the things you are reading about happened. Often the range of our fantasy makes it a very strange world indeed. So strange it is that events and people about which we read are swept away from reality by the rush of our imagination.

It is worth taking the risk to go and see how real are the places where He walked. The very difference between what you imagine and what it is really like brings the people and events into a real world. You not only understand what seemed strange when you read it but you also find the truth taking meaningful shape. It is a real land with real people in it. He was here. The things you've read about really could and did happen. You stand on ancient spots and know that Jesus Christ is come in flesh to the glory of God. No danger is so great as to keep one from this experience. Walking where He walked is to walk with Him and have your heart strangely warmed.

Campus

Co-eds

By Linda Sartin

While you are reading this column, 85% of the students on this campus are suffering from lack of sleep. It seems on most campuses lack of sleep and college goes hand in hand.

There's the voluntary sleep deprivation that goes before a philosophy exam or a history term paper and the restlessness or sleeplessness that come with a new environment, a new lifestyle, a new set of stresses and pressures. Then there is your dormitory mattress, either it is harder than you are used to or all your life at home you had a double bed. At home you never had to cope with the clacking of typewriters, the slamming of doors, or the kids down the hall giggling. It seems that the college always manages to put the owls with the larks. The owl always has a glaring lamp. The lark is usually equipped with a loud clock radio alarm.

One way to cut down on the quantity of sleep you need may be to improve on the quality of sleep you get. You can feel great with 5-6 hours sleep if it is deep relaxed sleep, but you will need 9-12 hours if you go to bed worrying about the exam the next day or if other tensions are getting to you.

Here are some suggested hints to improve your sleep. Milk at bed time is not just psychological. It has been proven that it helps one to fall into a deep sleep. Tests on athletes show that moderate exercise, any time up to three hours before bed, improves sleep in general.

Often sleeping pills do more harm than good. Moral: Avoid cheap sleep. During days of stress, it may help to supplement your regular sleep with naps. Just remember, sleep can't be made up. You can't go for 48 hours without sleep and then sleep 15 to make up for lost sleep.

Only if you have to produce a paper the very next morning or you haven't even read, let alone reviewed, the test material, does staying up all night make sense. Be warned, that your perceptions may not be as sharp, nor your memory as clear, after a sleepless night. However, if you must you must. A high protein dinner will help give you staying power. Orange juice will do you more good than an overdose of coffee. And if you can fit in a 3 hour nap in the wee hours of morning you will feel better. You shouldn't sleep less than 3 hours, that will just make you sleepier.

Remember no matter how pressed you are, sleep is as important as eating or social activity. Don't cheat yourself!!

Uniqueness Is The Rule For Lorry

By Rodonna Guy

The word ordinary could not be applied to Trevecca College or the student body. If we were to look for a word to describe the two, it would have to be uniqueness. The college strives not to be classified as just the ordinary Christian college and the students strive not to be just average American students.

In these attempts our eyes are focused on a Trevecca student whose hobbies are very unusual and contrast from one extreme to the other. Lorry Speer, an eighteen year old Michigan girl, has somehow included karate and making extremely large cakes into her hobbies.

Lorry has been taking karate for the last eight months. She has just received her green belt and has gone from 7th cup to 5th cup. She has been taking karate lessons in her home town from a Club called Cha Kwan do Chum do Kwan. The type of karate she is taking comes from Sol Korea. When asked what her future plans were concerning karate, she replied, "I plan on going further into karate to achieve a black belt". This will take her another twelve to eighteen months.

As we look into her second hobby, we find Lorry in the kitchen making cakes. The cakes she makes are not the common or ordinary ones. She has insisted on the extremely large ones. The largest one she has made is a nine tier cake standing six feet tall which she made for the wedding of her pastor's daughter. She makes these cakes and presents them as gifts for weddings, birthdays, etc. Also, Lorry has sold a lot of her cakes for which she has received a total income close to three hundred dollars for last year.

Lorry has managed to combine these two very different and unusual hobbies. She has not had the opportunity to bake very many cakes but plans to do more while she is here.

Pep Club Reorganizes

After a not-too-successful attempt last year, the Pep Club is reorganizing this year in hopes of establishing itself as a part of our intercollegiate activity. Under the direction of Barbara Sartin, interested students met on Monday, November 3 to get going again. At the organizational meeting, officers were elected and various committees were appointed. Since the first game is so close, the club wants to start functioning immediately.

The purpose of the club is to promote school spirit and to support the basketball team and cheerleaders. Members are asked to pay a small amount of dues and will sit in a special section at the intercollegiate games.

This year the club will be working closer with the cheerleaders learning the cheers, chants and side line cheers. The alternate cheerleaders, Barbara and Martha Sartin, will be leading pep section at all home games.

Gammas Score Upset Schock Alphas 16-6

Wednesday afternoon the previously winless Gammas became winners for real as they stunned the proud Alphas 16-6. Fumbles and inspired play were the keys to the Gamma upset.

Early in the first quarter Tommy Legg recovered an Alpha fumble on the 20 yard line where the inspired "Green Wave" led by the running of Dennis Snodgrass, drove inside the 6 yard line, where an off-sides penalty moved the ball to the 1 yard line. Quarterback David Hand then sneaked across for the score. Hand then passed to halfback Ernie Hinson for 2 points. The Gammas led 8-0. The Gammas kicked off and two plays later lightning struck the Alphas again as Halfback Al Boatman lost the handle on the ball and Wayne Weaver recovered the fumble on the Alpha 15 yard line. Hand then found Hinson all alone in the end zone and the Gammas had another 6 points. "Do it All" Hinson then ran for the 2 points and the "Greenies" led 16-0. In the fourth quarter Halfback Al Boatman got the Alphas on the scoreboard with an electrifying 60 yard run. The conversion attempt failed.

To add insult to injury the Gammas were forced to play most of the game with only 9 men and yet were still able to defeat the Alphas.

Trojans Makes '69 Debut

Preparing for the Tuesday night opener, Trojan Charlie Torrain pours in two of his 19 points in a practice scrimmage with Commodore freshmen. The game resulted in a 79-76 loss for the Trojans.

Trevecca College VS Johnson Bible College Tuesday 8:00

"We are as ready as we can be", says Bill Boner about the opening game of the Intercollegiate Basketball Season for Trevecca's Trojans. The game proves to be one of surprises for both squads since neither has seen the other in action. In preparation for this game and the season, the Trojans will have seen six scrimmages, the most notable one with the Commodores Freshman team. Johnson Bible College is in the Southern Christian Conference in which it finished fourth in a field of eight last year. They promise to be a relatively strong team.

Trojan fans can expect to see a man-to-man defense employed by TNC and a 1, 3, 1 sliding zone, which is a home-made Bill Boner special. They will also see the press, both the full and half court variety. On the scoring side of things, the Trojans will "run and gun". Boner sees his team as a running one with plenty of depth. He points out though, defense is a weak point. Boner says his team is ready with the many weeks of practice and fundamentals drilled into their fiber. Boner also says that the first part of this season will determine whether Trevecca has a great or good basketball record. He plans for no losses.

Serving as co-captains for the team this year are Mike Sexton and Tim Kemp. An official starting five for the team is not apparent at this time implies Boner because of the depth and unity of the team. Boner practices a game-to-game strategy and his players will reflect that, as he adjusts to the situation in each ball game. As a whole though, the team will function with speed in equalizing height.

In looking forward to this specific game, the only predominant thought in the minds of the players and coach is to win. Ted Hill

V.I.P. Game Lacks Zip

A completely defensive game is the proper and only description of this year's V.I.P. football game. Due to the lack of practice, one day to be exact, neither offense could maintain a substantial drive.

The only score of the game came late in the first quarter when Chuck Chambers, for the red team tackled green quarterback David Hand in the green's end zone for a two-point safety.

Al Boatman spear-headed the red attack with several long runs. However, fumbles and bad hand-offs stopped the red team from scoring on at least three different occasions.

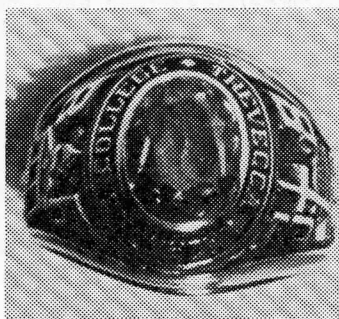

Dennis Snodgrass was the back-field man of the day for the green team. The converted half-back center made his own way through the opposition's line time and time again.

But let us not forget that defense was the name of the game. Fred Huff, Jim Ponce and Ernie Hinson led the green team in their defensive maneuvers. While Preston Ponce, Ricci Lynn, and Chuck Chambers were the red teams defensive stars.
