COMPLETIO ENTRANCE

After nearly two years a dream is becoming a reality at Trevecca. In March, 1962, the board of trustees authorized the improvement of the entrance and driveway approaching the campus from Murfreesboro Road.

Formerly the entrance to Trevecca was marked by a four-foot by sixfoot illuminated sign. Visitors sometimes experienced difficulty in locating the entrance to our college.

During the fall quarter of last year the faculty and student body together raised 20 per cent of the total cost of the project, or approximately $2,800, as an all-school project. John Sugg and Steve Oliver operated as co-chairmen of the project committee. John concentrated on the offcampus solicitation of funds while Steve concentrated his efforts directly with the school. Letters were written to churches and businesses throughout the zone. According to John Sugg, "the overall response was much greater than we originally anticipated.'

The Boosters' Club also contributed a percentage of each member's annual dues, which amount to five dollars per year, toward this project. Membership to this club is solicited by choirs, trios and quartets which represent Trevecca Nazarene College throughout the Southeastern

The new entranceway utilizes a full 100 feet fronting on Murfreesboro Road. Concrete pillars support the 52-foot archway which gives a clearance of 16 feet. Two walls, one nearly three feet higher than the other, accentuates the "stepping stone" effect of the structure as it mounts higher and higher, climaxing in the center with the overhead archway. Three posts are built into each wall. Each post is crowned with a mounted electric light of frosted glass, giving a total of six lamps on top of the walls. Two 500-watt flood lights illuminate the entranceway overhead displaying the words TRE-VECCA NAZARENE COLLEGE. The two-drive surface will, when completed in the near future, be divided by grass, planters and shrubbery.

Trevecca's president, Dr. William Greathouse, voiced the sentiments of the faculty and student body when he commented, "This is one of Trevecca's finest accomplishments of campus beauty. We hope this project will be a symbol of what lies behind its walls, and will lend to Trevecca not only its architectural grandeur but a dignity as well."

Briggs W. Burkhalter Construction Company of Nashville is the contractor and Miller, Patton and Associates are the architects and engineers who designed the entranceway.

SENIOR DAY ANNOU

Trevecca's second annual Senior Day will commence Thursday, October 1 and continue through Friday night, October 2. High school seniors from all over the Southeastern zone will visit the Trevecca campus and get a sample of what life on a Christian college campus is like.

The Senior day committee is expecting over 400 Seniors to attend the two day gathering. Registration of Seniors is planned for Thursday between 10:00 A.M. and 4:00 P.M.

Activities for Senior Day will begin Thursday afternoon with a football game between two of the Greek societies. A get-acquainted party is planned for Thursday on the athletic field. Games, singing, and "ice-breaking" are in store for the evening.

Seniors will begin Friday's activities with guided tours of the campus. Larry Huggins will be in charge of the tours and will divide the Seniors into touring groups. After the tours the students will have an opportunity to visit classes of their choosing. During the Friday chapel service, Dr. Mendell Taylor, fall revival speaker, will speak to the seniors, and student body. At 2:00 in the afternoon, the film "The Great Transition" will be shown and several faculty members and student leaders will speak on various phases of campus life. A question and answer period will follow these speakers.

Administration Reorganizes

The formation of the Council for Institutional Research and Planning was announced September 17 by Vice President L. P. Gresham, chairman of the new council. One of its purposes will be to study the structure and organizations of the newlyorganized faculty committees. This council will endeavor to seek solutions to the problems of each committee, and after a period of study will also set the boundaries and scope of each committee's work.

The administrative organization of the college was expanded this summer. The most important change was the grouping of the faculty committees into three councils with a coordinating council at the head. The Administrative Council is composed of the following committees: Personnel and Finance, Buildings and Campus Improvements, College Development, Publicity and Publications, Faculty Policies and Duties, Catalog, Scholarships, and Student Recruitment. The committees composing the Academic Council are: Admissions and Retentions, Curriculum, Library, Teacher Education, and Academic Calendar. The committees of Chapel and Religious Life, Social Life, Student Activities, Student Publications, and Student Welfare comprise the Student Life

The organizing of these committees was done for three purposes: to prevent overlapping of activity, to prevent self-interest, and to better coordinate planning, direction and actions of the different faculty committees. With these changes the college can expect to work more effectively in the interests of both faculty and students.

Dr. Gresham said that the student body could be of great aid to the new committees. He further stated that when a student had a need or a problem, he should consult a faculty member related to the committee associated with that particular area. "This will accent the need for a clarification of duties." If students take their questions to the committee, it will function effectively in their behalf. He also said that students' actions will show what committees are needed and which ones may not be needed. If necessary, new committees will be formed to better handle students' problems.

Enrollment Records Set

Trevecca Nazarene College broke two of its attendance records during this fall quarter's registration, as 260 freshmen poured onto the campus from 21 states.

Not only was a freshmen enrollment record set, but also the previous record for total enrollment for any one quarter was broken, as 560 students officially registered for the fall quarter. This is a 23 per cent increase over last year's attendance, giving an actual increase of 100 stu-

Prof. E. Drell Allen, dean of admissions, states, "I am anticipating an outstanding year for Trevecca and looking forward to future years, for even now we are receiving applications for the coming winter quarter and next year's fall registra-

TAYLOR WILL BE FALL REVIVAL EVANGELI

Dr. Mendell Taylor

Dr. Mendell Taylor, dean of the Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, Missouri, has been selected as speaker for Trevecca's Fall Revival which will begin on September 27 and continue through the following Sunday, October 4. This revival is annually sponsored jointly by College Hill Church and Trevecca and is one of three revivals held yearly at the college.

Doctor Taylor, in addition to his duties as dean of the seminary, is also professor of Church History and Missions. He is much in demand as lecturer, evangelist, camp meet- ences.

ing speaker, and youth worker throughout the entire Church of the

His undergraduate degree was earned at Bethany Nazarene College, and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees were taken at the University of Oklahoma. Bethany also conferred on him the D.D. Dr. Taylor is one of the original faculty members at the seminary, having served since its founding in 1945. He has held the office of dean for the past several

During his years of travel for the church, Dr. Taylor has spoken on all four Nazarene college campuses. He is well known in this area, having conducted a very successful revival last year at Nashville First Church.

The fall revival has become a tradition at Trevecca College, as it can set the spiritual tone for the entire school year. Dr. Taylor will be speaking to the students and faculty each morning in chapel at the 11 o'clock hour, Monday through Friday. Evening services will be held at 7:30 at College Hill Church, as will all Sunday services.

With the expected 300 seniors invading the campus for Senior Days Thursday and Friday of revival week, it is possible that services those evenings will be moved to Mc-Clurkan Auditorium to accommodate the expected overflow audi-

Six New Teachers Augment Faculty

With the beginning of the fall Ph.D. degree in church history at quarter, the faculty of Trevecca College has been increased by the addition of six full-time teachers. They are: Dr. L. Paul Gresham, Mr. Harry Russell, Mrs. Lois Blanchard, Mr. William Strickland, Mr. H. Ray Dunning, and Mrs. Sylvia Dodson.

Dr. Gresham is the new vicepresident in charge of academic affairs. He earned his M.A. degree from the University of Oklahoma and the Ph.D. degree from Vanderbilt University. Dr. Gresham is no stranger to Trevecca, as he was on the staff here from 1946 to 1954. After a period of service in Pasadena College, Pasadena, California, where he served as professor of history and chairman of the Department of Social Studies, he has returned to the staff of Trevecca.

Professor Russell earned the B.S. in Ed. and M.A. degrees from Ohio University, and comes to Trevecca from the staff of Marshali University in Huntington, West Virginia. He will be head of the Department of Speech. Mrs. Blanchard is a graduate of Olivet Nazarene College, Kankakee, Illinois, where she earned an A.B. degree. Her M.A. degree was received from the University of Florida. She is teaching in the Department of English Language and Literature.

Professor Strickland has completed his residence work for the Vanderbilt University. His undergraduate work was done at Trevecca, and his B.D. degree was earned from the Nazarene Theo-Missouri. He is teaching in the Department of Religion.

Professor Dunning has also completed his residence requirements for the Ph.D. degree at Vanderbilt University, where he also received his M.A. degree. The A.B. degree was earned from Trevecca and a B.D. degree from Nazarene Theological Seminary. Mr. Dunning is teaching in the Department of Religion and is head of the Department of Philosophy.

Mrs. Dodson is joining the faculty full-time after having taught parttime for the last three years. She earned hmer A.B. degree from Trevecca and the M.A. degree from Peabody College in Nashville. She is teaching piano and music theory in the Department of Music.

In addition to these, three visiting instructors are being added to the staff. They are Dr. T. E. Martin and Rev. Edward F. Cox in the Department of Religion, and Mr. Herman Parrish in the Department of Science.

Rev. David Erickson and Mr. John Chilton also were added as staff members. Rev. Erickson is the new field secretary, and Mr. Chilton is the comptroller.

THREE ASPECTS OF Editorial Cartoon COLLEGE LIFE

Religious . . .

The religious aspect of campus life at Trevecca can be illustrated as a dip of ice cream on a piece of pecan pie. It has also been referred to as the plus in an "education-plus" one receives when graduating from Trevecca. It is what we also might call the polishing touch.

There are many things which combine to make religion such an important part of our campus. There are many places in God's word where He admonishes us to work for eternal things rather than those of earth.

Our Christian Workers Association plays a major role in the religious aspect of T. N. C. Here lie opportunities of spiritual growth and learning for all who are interested. No one is limited. All can contribute and all can profit with only a small effort.

To hear a professor pray for each student before a class lecture begins, or to pause in the middle of a long weary day for a chapel service, where all our cares of life-studies, work, and other daily diversions- may be exchanged for a time of communion with Him, somehow stimulates and spurs us on to take full advantage of this added plus here on our college campus.

The weeks of scheduled revivals from time to time play an important role in the religious aspect of Trevecca. To see scores of young people step out and move to Christ is something thrilling to our hearts and it adds even more to the religious aspect of campus life.

Not only does Christ tell us to "go and teach all nations"—but He also tells us to "make a joyful noise unto the Lord." Our choirs that cry out the praises of God in beautiful music also play a distinct part in this aspect of campus life.

A few students have shown poor attitudes toward many of the religious opportunities here on our campus. Perhaps we need to search our hearts and see if we are guilty, perhaps not intentionally, but only by being a little careless. Should we try to discourage those things which in the end will triumph? Remember the song "A charge to keep I have, a God to glorify, A never dying soul to save and fit it for the sky."

May I urge you as students of a Christ-centered college to unite in keeping the religious aspect the most important aspect of your college lives? -Ken Walker

Academic . . .

In April of the 1963-64 school year, Dr. Lee Shevel, IBM research scientist, visited Trevecca's campus as "student council lecturer." Dr. Shevel was impressed with our campus in all aspects exept one—the academic aspect. He felt that although we students excelled in many phases of campus life, we lacked sufficient interest in our studies.

Quite naturally, comments such as these made by Dr. Shevel created a certain amount of resentment among our students. Many realized, however, that Dr. Shevel's observations held enough truth to merit consideration.

Certainly the freshman class of 1963-64 is to be commended for its efforts to increase academic standards here at T. N. C. Of the seventeen members of our present honor society, nine were members of the 1963-64 freshman

The 1964-65 school year promises to be a banner year in the elevation of academic standards on our campus. The addition of five new teachers, each either possessing a doctorate or in the process of acquiring one, creates even greater proficiency in student instruction. The Speech and English department will be strengthened by the addition of Prof. Russell and Prof. Blanchard. An intercollegiate debate team is now being organized and should be functioning by winter quarter. Dr. Gresham, and Profs. Dunning and Strickland will instruct in the history, philosophy, and religion departments

The library has extended its closing time during the week until 10:00 p.m. The Student Council expressed its interest in the academic phase of campus life in the form of an "Academic Committee" which met at the Leadership Conference on Thursday, September 24.

The prime asset of academic elevation, however, does not lie in the Student Council, the Academic Committee, or the Honor Society; it lies in the determination and dedication of each of you, the students of Trevecca

Only by your efforts, your enthusiasm, and your dedication to purpose can we hope to create a spirit of academic and intellectual enthusiasm essential to the program of a progressive college.

-Dick Bailey

A new year at Trevecca! The beginning is important as are the attitudes and impressions to be carried through this year. Before you lie the greatest possibilities for your life's work yet experienced. A part of these possibilities exist in the social experiences and activities of the coming year. With this in mind, Trevecca tries to give the best it has to offer.

This quarter plays host first to the Freshman-Sophomore banquet, its theme being "Bon Voyage." Next is the Thanksgiving Banquet which has in the last two years, become a major banquet on campus. Then there is the Christmas Party, always one of the most exciting events of the school year. Perhaps the season adds to the gaiety along with the inspiring ideas with which Freshman make it colorful and exciting.

Winter quarter offers the Valentine Banquet, the formal affair of the year. An exciting evening is highlighted by the entertainment, atmosphere and perhaps most of all, your date for the evening. Basketball games also become an experience of this quarter. Friday evenings will be deviated to this thrilling sport with its wins and loses.

Spring quarter is the setting for extensive social activities. Class parties, picnics along with softball offers a choice for everyone. The Junior-Senior Banquet is the major event and is also formal. Commencement activities begin with the Spring Recital and include Class Night, the Alumni Banquet, and the commencement exercise.

Along with these rather special occasions go the usual events. Friday and Saturday night programs will provide enjoyment as well as definite intellectual experiences. Music recitals are a treat for those interested in this field while other more specialized activities appeal to smaller groups.

Find a place in which it is fitting and enjoyable for you to serve. Be wholeheartedly in favor of Trevecca and its social activities in this year 1964-65! —Jeanne Thrasher

I Live in Room "2-B"!

...Politics

Politics is defined as "the art or science of government; matters connected with the selection of officers of government and their administration of office." In this light every Christian is or should be engaged in politics at the minimum level-voting. A study was conducted in Chicago on the voting habits of the various professions. 95% of the bartenders, gamblers, and such professions voted. Only 50% of the clergy and the church people voted! Yet they are the ones who cry, "Politics are dirty!" A Chinese proverb says all that evil needs to triumph is for good men to do nothing!

Further involvement in politics is a personal choice. Quite often the Christian rationalizes his do-nothing policy on the basis that there are no good candidates running, or he does not know any of them. The remedy for the first excuse is for Christians to find someone with ability and then rally around him so that he can represent them in government. Surely there are true Christians who are as able as anyone now holding office. The remedy for the second excuse is for the Christian to stand up for whichever party he represents, let it be known, and then make it a point to meet the candidates. Some mere names have turned out to be attached to some fine, clean, upright citizens who are worthy of a Christian's vote.

Can a born-again Christian be elected to office? They can be exemplified by Mark Hatfield, governor of Oregon, and Walter Judd of Minnesota. If Christians are not elected, it may be due to other factors totally unrelated to their spiritual experience. They did not work hard enough, they did not have a personality that could be projected adequately to the public, or, those who should have voted for them, were indifferent and stayed home on

These days are crisis days in American history. What happens in the elections on November 3 will be a decisive factor in the course of our nation on all levels of government. Christians are the salt of the earth. They may be in the minority, but what they do will be important far beyond numerical strength. They need to rally to two calls: a call to prayer for a real revival and that God's man will be elected president; and, to get involved as deeply and actively in politics as their time and strength will allow.

LORD OF

William Golding's first novel, LORD OF THE FLIES, appeared in 1954 with unprecendented reviews . . . telling of Golding's complete control of the novel form and his superb all-encompassing vision of reality.

The theme of this symbolic masterpiece uses a group of young boys to accomplish its purpose, which is to show that the defects of society can be traced back to the defects of the human nature. The moral is that the shape of a society must depend on the ethical nature of the individual and not on any political system however apparently logical or respectable.

Although the story of boys on a desert island is within itself an exciting adventure, I must hastily say that Golding portrays through these boys all the twentieth-century methods of analysis of the human nature and its part in the society in which we live or in which we are dying.

LORD OF THE FLIES is a thought provoking book that the reader cannot put down until he finishes it, and even then it is not dismissed from his mind.

-John Sugg

Dear Editor,

I have chosen Trevecca Nazarene College to make preparations for God's ministry, not only for its educational values and facilities, but also for its spiritual qualities. I consider this of utmost importance in a day when we find the spiritual side of man under an assault simply by an over-emphasis of the material aspects.

I have found, to my enjoyment, the faculty and staff members realize the problems which confront the young Christian, or by the same token, which confront any young person. They have learned from being young once themselves, just how complex can become the thoughts and emotions of one of these young men and women.

We as students and followers of Christ must strive always to keep our standards high. The place to begin this training is in the home and in our schools. College, being a home and school to many students, places the responsibility solely upon our teachers and faculty members, who, in response to this confidence being placed in them, have carried the banner of Jesus Christ high indeed.

I had pictured Trevecca, before my arrival on campus, as a school of high ideals, academically and spiritually, which had been safeguarded against corruption by the prayers of righteous and upright men. Today, after one month of direct association with the school, it gives me great pleasure to say that I stand firm on MY FIRST IMPRESSION OF TREVECCA.

James R. Staats

Dear Editor,

Coming to Trevecca has been my one desire for several years. My being on campus, here and now, seems to be a dream come true.

As I arrived on Trevecca campus was excited, but deep down inside I had a peculiar feeling, a feeling commonly known as homesickness. I had often heard that homesickness is the worst sickness one can have. and I certainly believe it to be true. After just a few days at Trevecca this sensation seemed to fade. The friendly atmosphere is the trait that has eliminated this feeling.

Then the first day of classes was frightening, but yet there was a feeling that all would go well. In the high school I attended, prayer was very much out of order. It is a privilege to know that our instructors are Christians and their lives are examples to us as youth.

It appeared to me that as the upperclassmen arrived on campus there was an attachment of their lives to each other which was very outstanding. We, as freshmen, have this to look forward to as we learn together and as we grow together spiritually.

After being here one week, my impression of Trevecca has far surpassed my former expectations.

In previous years, Trevecca's honor society has been an honor society in name only and has not been active. This year through increased interest on the part of both students and faculty, the honor society plans to increase both its activities and its prestige.

To be a member of the Honor Society one must maintain an overall average of at least 2.5 for three consecutive quarters. One does not maintain an average of this caliber without many hours of hard, consistent work.

Those in charge of the library have consented to keep the library open until 10:00 p.m. instead of the usual 9:15 p.m. This is an endeavor to encourage students to use their time more profitably. It also gives students who work more time to use the library.

Officers for this year's Honor Society will be elected soon. The Student Council has planned an induction for the new members to be held sometime during the quarter.

These students are to be congratulated for their continued superior scho-

SOPHOMORES MAKE RATS OF FRESHMEN

The Freshman Class of 1964 will never forget Recognition Week. As the freshmen were crowned with "rat hats" and responded with a squeak, Rat Week was underway. The tired rats were entertained Monday night at a musical program under the leadership of Carla Brundige.

Having been awakened at 4:00 A.M. Tuesday, the freshmen were taken in front of the Fine Arts Building to warm up for an early morning hike. Upon arriving at the graveyard of the gypsyies, the legend of the graveyard was told by Billie Jean Cline, reminding the freshmen that gypsyies often come back during the night to mourn for their dead. Continuing through the gravevard, each freshman drew up with fear. It was not long until two gypsyies were discovered at a grave mourning for their dead. As the excitement cooled off, the hike was brought to an end. Realizing

The Student Council and guest faculty members joined forces yesterday at the Student Leadership Conference held at Montgomery Bell State Park. The purpose of the Conference was to study and discuss proposed plans for the 1964-65 school year, in an effort to make this the most productive year Trevecca has ever known. There will be one other such conference during the Spring

Big things are in store for Trevecca in the way of Friday and Saturday night programs. We will be telling you more about these as the year progresses. QUALITY is the key word in regard to programs this year. It is the desire of the Student Council that you will not only strive for quality in the entertainment you present, but in everything you do at Trevecca Nazarene College.

In Memory Of Esther

Esther Hyatt, who was a junior at Trevecca, was killed in a tragic automobile accident enroute from Nashville to her home in Jacksonville, Florida, on August 21.

Certainly the hearts of hundreds of Trevecca students have been grieved by her passing. She will never be forgotten, for she was loved deeply by all who knew her.

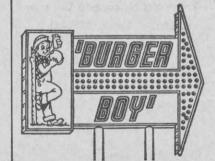

Esther had a radiance which is found only among those who know complete serenity. She by no means had a pensive face, but to those who knew her only casually, her unhurried manner made her seem a part of some bygone age of quiet, gentle people.

The thread of Esther's life is entangled with various activities of Trevecca. A spirit of cooperation seemed to permeate her whole being. She gave freely of her time and talent to God's service. If we look closely at the seams in the cloth of our life at Trevecca Nazarene College, we can find the stitches she sewed there.

She is gone. We did not thank her. We can write a thousand tributes to her memory and never change that fact. But by writing this, we can show the veneration done to her worth by the hearts of her fellow classmates.

Traveling Groups Represent College

Three groups, the Trebleaires Trio, Trevadores Quartet, and Evangelaires Quartet represented Trevecca this summer by singing in youth camps, assemblies, and churches all over the Southeastern Educational Zone.

Traveling for Trevecca Nazarene College is an experience that includes moments of fun, laughter, embarrassment, sadness, and rejoicing. Each phase is an integral part. Representing Trevecca Nazarene College is a vital responsibility. Much care was taken in selecting those students who were to accept this task. However great the responsibility, each of the three groups agree that it is also an unequaled privilege.

"Quaintly stating . . ." this is the way Kay Frey of the Trebleaires Trio began her speech each night of trio tour. Neither will Rev. Erickson's nightly routine question, "Have you ever carried the belongings of five women?" soon be forgotten. Many interesting places were included in the girls' tour. What could be more exciting to four young, unattached ladies than stopping at two Air Force Bases, two Army Bases, and singing to hospitalized Marines? Perhaps the most thrilling experience of their tour was in the Florida Youth Camp where one hundred seventy-five young people dedicated their lives to Christ.

The Trevadores' ten thousand mile tour included some nine states. Each member received a spiritual uplift from the very beginning of the tour. They witnessed God's love in the East Tennessee Youth Camp where nearly every young person enrolled found Christ as his personal Savior. Serving in camps perhaps provided the greatest thrill. They sang, witnessed, talked about T. N. C., played ball, and stayed up late in seven camps. They had the privilege of working with such youth speakers as Dr. Greathouse, Bob Hoots, and Paul Skiles. Other highlights of the tour included a television appearance in Bluefield, West Virginia, one flat tire, car trouble, and plenty of food. Reports say they generally handled themselves well at the table—especially Jim Hendershot, who can eat with the best of them.

Believe it or not, Carl Taylor learned to swim! Phil Thrasher was "chief recruiter," Larry Huggins sometimes "preached," and Jim Knight served as Papa, especially around pay day.

The Evangelaires Quartet had their first service in Cleveland, Mississippi. Three weeks later they turned north for two weeks in Tennessee, East Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia. The group's two day stay at Georgia Youth Camp was climaxed by a wonderful outpouring of the spirit of God in the evening service. The last two weeks of their tour were spent in West Virginia, where their Volkswagen crawled up one side of the mountains and slid down the other.

Summer touring for these groups is over, but their traveling will continue. Practically every weekend one or more of these groups will be singing somewhere on the zone. It is their desire that you will pray as they present the gospel in song.

been named director for the new T. N. C. athletic department. Under the new athletic system, Strickland will serve as transitional director until a full time director can be acquired.

Professor Strickland, possessing an excellent background in athletics, anticipates "further developing and strengthening of the athletic program at T. N. C." Throughout his life he has been active in sports, especially basketball, tennis, and golf. Some of his outstanding achievements are: All-City basketball guard while at Bailey Junior High; Intramural Tennis champion at Middle Tennessee State College; the first T. A. Professor William Strickland has porter. Upon the shoulders of this competent group will rest the responsibility of further developing the Trevecca athletic program. Last year the high level of enthusiasm and team spirit was largely due to the addition of football and basketball jerseys. This year even greater steps have been taken to increase team spirit and enthusiasm. New football equipment purchased recently includes pants, shoes, helmets, and pads. It is expected that this equipment will cut down sharply the injuries that plagued our athletic field last year. In addition, the prospect of a new gymnasium has caused considerable interest. Plans are to start construction as soon as possible. Professor Strickland is in sympathy with the needs of the Physical Education Department and has expressed interest sis on tennis and track." He included the possibility of a big field day in the spring. With the added help of every participant, Trevecca's new athletic department can make considerable progress toward its goal of a superior athletic department.

Frosh Draft Announced

The Trevecca Athletic Association, under the leadership of President Larry Knight, held its second annual draft of freshmen on September 15, 1964. The male candidates were judged on their abilities in football, basketball, and softball and the ladies in basketball and softball.

The draft was placed on a twoyear trial basis last year and has proven to be successful. The purpose of this system is to divide the teams as evenly as possible. This allows the competition to be stiffer and brings out the spirit and enthusiasm of the players as well as the fans. Before this system was effected, the students joined the society of their choosing. This sometimes allowed one team to become too strong, thus causing the games to become monotonous.

Each society needed strengthening in the various sports. There were several outstanding prospects to choose from which made the bidding exciting. The Alphas won first choice. They concentrated on improving their basketball team and beefing up their line in football. They were hurt by graduation in basketball but have improved themselves with several additions. The Deltas, weak in basketball the last two years, concentrated on that sport. They chose several prospects who should help them considerably. They also improved their football at positions that were weak. Having won the softball championship they placed emphasis on basketball and football. The Betas, needing assistance in football and softball, drafted some players that should help them in these areas. Their basketball team, champions the last five years, is intact and needed no additions.

The enthusiasm and desire on the part of the rookie athletes could lead to a successful year for Trevecca athletics. If the spirit and keen competition displayed last year continues, T. N. C. athletic participation should reach a new level.

LARRY KNIGHT T.A.A. President

"Take me out to the ballgame." Big things began happening yesterday as the 1964-65 athletic program got under way. The new season brings about many new faces and promises to stage an unpredictable but enthusiastic football campaign.

Look back for a moment to the previous football season results. The Betas won out, but it was no easy road. After fourteen games had been played, the Alpha team and the Beta team were tied. The Betas won a close one 12-8. The season ended with the Betas at 9-6, the Alphas at 8-7 and the

Looking forward to this year's outcome, it will be hard to keep back the fact that the new freshmen will make their mark. It cannot be denied that this year's teams will have much greater depth as well as some outstanding

Coming back to the Deltas this year at their regular positions will be Barney Baggott and David Stucki at halfbacks, Wayne Dollar at quarterback, Jim Hendershot and Jan Forman at end positions, Phil Thrasher at center and Bob Say and Al Carey at guards. The Deltas with Dollar's throwing arm and the speed of Baggott, Forman and Stucki will probably stick to its regular passing offense.

The Betas will sport nearly the same backfield with only the quarterback spot in question. Returning will be Carl Taylor and Larry Knight at halfbacks, Jim Knight at right end with left end still questionable. Jim Tabers and Ron Hall at guards, and center spot is left open.

The Alpha society seems to be the strongest, having good speed and good weight. Troy Miley and Vernon Henderson will be running halfbacks, David Bays will be at quarterback, Lester Byington and Charles Woody at ends, Bob Sutton at one guard and the rest to be filled later.
