99ER'S CONFERENCE TOMORROW; BROOKS HAYS TO SPEAK

Principal speaker for the annual 99ers Council Banquet and Installation of officers will be former Congressman Brooks Hays. He is widely known in religious, educational, and political circles and is one of the country's most entertaining speakers.

Mr. Hays is a well-known churchman, having served two terms as president of the Southern Baptist Convention, in 1957-58 and 1958-59. He is the author of THIS WORLD: A CHRISTIAN WORKSHOP, published by the Broadman Press; A SOUTHERN MODERATE SPEAKS, by the University of North Carolina Press; and a co-author with Dr. John E. Steely of THE BAPTIST WAY OF LIFE, Prentice-Hall. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the National Conference of Christians and Jews and a member of the laymen's committee of Religion In American Life.

In an address on the floor of the House of Representatives on February 2, 1949, he outlined the Arkansas Plan to extend full civil rights to minority groups without sacrificing the historic principles and traditions of any geographical section of the country. His constructive work on the civil rights legislation accounted for his appointment to the Platform Committee of the Democratic National Conventions in 1952 and 1956. Mr. Hays was elected to the 78th Congress in 1942 and was re-elected to succeeding congresses through the 85th. For eight years he was a member of the Banking and Currency Committee and after 1950 served on the Committee on Foreign Affairs. In 1961 President Kennedy appointed him Assistant Secretary of State for Congressional Relations and then Special Assistant to the President.

The banquet will be held Saturday, May 27, at 6:30 p.m. in the Trevecca College Cafeteria. Mr. Hays will be introduced by Mr. Otis Williams of Little Rock, Arkansas.

The newly elected officers will be installed at the meeting by the Honorable Richard Fulton, Congressman, 5th District Tennessee.

Dr. A. B. Mackey, President Emeritus of Trevecca Nazarene College, will be presented with a lifetime membership to the 99ers Council for twenty-five years of devoted leadership as president of the college. Mrs. Mackey will share in the presentation honors.

Musical entertainment will be directed by Robert MacKenzie, Creative Director for Benson Printing Company, Nashville.

Those planning to attend the annual banquet should make reservations as early as possible as accommodations are limited.

TAYLOR SPEAKS FOR COMMENCEMENT

Dr. Mendel Taylor, professor of Church History at Nazarene Theological Seminary, Kansas City, is speaker for Commencement at Trevecca Nazarene College, Tuesday,

WNAZ Signs On

A dedication ceremony for WNAZ-FM radio station was held today on the campus of Trevecca Nazarene College. Dr. Lloyd Byron, Chaplain of the college, directed ribbon cutting ceremonies. Dr. William Greathouse, President of the college, represented the administration at the ceremony. Representing the radio station were Professor Harry Russell, Chairman of the Department of Speech; Mr. Bonnie Fraustro, Director of Broadcasting; Professor Edwin Lejeune, Chairman of the Programming Committee; and Keith Vennum, student body president.

WNAZ is the first education FM radio station on an open channel to be operated by a college in Metropolitan Nashville. The station will be on the air from 3:00 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. seven days a week. Eventually the air time will extend into the evening.

Professor Russell explained that the programming is divided into two major areas: classical and semi-classical music, both secular and religious; and educational programs in the various disciplines.

Professor Lejeune emphasized that quality control will be exercised in three areas—academic, classical, and religious.

WHO'S WHO ELECTS THIRTEEN

Thirteen juniors at Trevecca Nazarene College have been elected to WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES for the 1967-68 school year.

A short biography of each scholar will be included in the organization's annual publication.

Representing six different states, the honor students are: Cecil Cook, Kennesaw, Georgia; Miss Pat Danley, Covington, Kentucky; Miss Karen Dean, Jacksonville, Florida; Robert Duncan, Indianapolis, Indiana; Mark Greathouse, Nashville, Tennessee; Herb McMillian, Covington, Kentucky; Miss Marla Moore, Kannapolis, North Carolina; Ray Moore, Louisville, Kentucky; David Nixon, Miami, Florida; Miss Annetta Osenton, Ashland, Kentucky; Miss Ellen Phillips, Nashville, Tennessee; Miss Charlene Ann Smith, Gainesville, Florida; and Miss Louise Stenbridge, Dade City, Florida.

A screening committee considers each candidate's scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities, citizenship and service to the school, and promise of future usefulness.

The nominees are then selected by vote of the student body, and the national organization then passes approval on each student's election.

Who's Who awards each member a certificate of recognition, to be presented on Honors and Awards Day the following spring. It also provides a placement of reference service to assist members seeking employment, scholarships, or fellowships.

Ninety to Graduate

Ninety members of the Class of 1967 will become Trevecca graduates either in May or in August. Of this number approximately 39 are preparing for the teaching profession (elementary education, secondary education, education-psychology). About twenty graduates are preparing for full-time church service (the ordained ministry, Christian education, music education). Those with specialized fields of study include ten in history, nine in English or Speech, four in biology, three in mathematics, three in business administration, and one in philosophy.

HAYS SPEAKS

On campus tomorrow distinguished Christian leaders of business, politics and education will be gathering for the Leadership Training Conference and Workshop sponsored jointly by the 99ers Council for Business and Professional Development and the Trevecca College Alumni Association.

Theme of the conference is "Christian Creativity for a Changing World." Headlining the list of participants will be former Congressman Brooks Hays, special assistant to the President of the United States. He will be introduced at 11 a.m. on a platform constructed over the steps to the McClurkan Building by Tennessee Governor Buford Ellington. Mr. Hays' topic will be "Life in Four Worlds." This address is open to the public free of charge. A good number of students, faculty and administrators are expected to attend.

During the day workshops will be conducted. Special arrangements have been worked out so that students may attend these workshops, as well as the 11 a.m. address, free of charge, provided that the number of registrants does not exceed the cut-off mark for that particular workshop. The participants for each workshop will be limited to approximately 60 persons.

Tomorrow evening, at 6:30 in the College Cafeteria, the Honorable Richard Fulton, Congressman, 5th District, Tennessee, will install the newly elected officers of the 99ers Council at the organization's annual banquet. Former Congressman Hays will be the principle speaker. His topic for this address will be "A Hot Bed of Tranquility."

Mr. Hays is an entertaining speaker. He is a highly respected man in educational, political and religious circles.

At a time when other colleges and universities are strange bedfellows with anti-Americanism, it is a credit to Trevecca College that she is hosting a conference of those concerned with Christian responsibilities to a changing world.

Governor Buford Ellington proclaims the week of May 22-28 as Creative Christian Education Week. Standing left to right are: Herb McMillian, Executive Secretary for the 99ers Council; Mrs. Crystine Soyars, Secretary of the Trevecca College Alumni Association; Governor Ellington; and Lloyd H. Griffin, 99ers Council President.

History in the Making

by Sharon Holmes

—Stokely Carmichael has stepped down from his position as chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and has been succeeded by Herbert Rap Brown. Carmichael says he will return to his real interest, that of organizing in the field. Brown has promised to continue Carmichael's black power and anti-Vietnam war policies.

—The first two annual Methodist conferences to vote—Georgia and Wyoming—have approved the proposed 1968 union of the Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren churches. A two-thirds vote of the delegates to the annual conferences of both denominations is necessary before the merger would go into effect. Thus, it still remains to be seen whether the proposed merger will become a reality.

—The London government approved last Friday the construction of a third major international airport in London to provide for the air travel boom that is expected in the 1970's.

—The Venezuelan government announced last weekend that it had smashed a guerrilla landing led by officers of Castro's Cuban Communist Army. Venezuela now plans to seek action against the Castro regime through international organizations.

—Madelyn Wall, M.A., Mathematics, George Peabody College. Mrs. Wall is a graduate of Austin Peay College, and in addition to her masters study has done a year's graduate work at both Peabody and the University of North Carolina. She was on the teaching staff of Trevecca from 1945-48, and again in 1952-53. For the past ten years she has taught on the high school level in Durham, N. C.

LETTERS

April 12, 1967

Dear Editor,

Never in my college career have I been as provoked, in affairs dealing with student government, as I have been by the absurd procedure of casting ballots in our recent student government officers election. It can only be indicative of inefficient and unqualified leadership. If by now you do not know what I am referring to, it was the placing of student identification numbers on a supposedly and constitutionally ordered secret ballot. In no way could these ballots be called secret. The constitution of the student body calls for government elections to be run by the Australian Ballot System, so called because of its origin. "The Australian ballot, . . . is a form of official balloting that affords the voter the chance to vote secretly," Encyclopedia Britannica, 1962 "Ballot." I'm not saying I'm afraid anyone is going to look at my ballot, I'm saying they can. If things are not to be done legally in student government, where are they to be done legally? For student leaders to overlook and thumb their nose at such not only shows their lack of desire to do what is right, but also shows their stupidity. I suggest our leaders learn the fundamentals of our constitution. Our student government owes the candidates and the student body a letter of apology for their bungling and lack of responsibility, at the very least.

For us, as a student body, to allow things such as these to happen not only reflects on our leaders but the student body itself.

Sincerely,
Philip Thrasher

Dear Editor:

I think someone has their hand in the student's pocket. The new DARDA is nice but very expensive at $9.75 each. Last fall we students were told that the $25 general fee covered our DARDA, but last week we were forced to pay an additional $1.50.

The student, who traditionally has a money shortage, has to pay $9.75 for his yearbook; the faculty can obtain one for only $5.00; the various offices are furnished free ones; and the Zone Preachers, who do their duty and pay their budgets, receive free ones. I don't begrudge the faculty a DARDA at cost, nor the Zone Preachers a free one, but I don't feel that we students should foot the bill. It looks as if this is what we are doing.

We students should be entitled to a full accounting of the income and the outgo and a statement of the unit cost. Students should receive the DARDA at cost before anyone else.

Whose hand is in my pocket? I don't know; everyone blames someone else. Can someone tell me?

The Office of Japanese Culture
May 10, 1967

Dear Friends, The Member of "Trev-Echoes."

Time flies like an arrow. It seems as it were yesterday that I came here to Nashville and now I am leaving for my homeland Japan. I really enjoyed my study at Trevecca. Fellow faculty members were nice, and students were fresh and spiritual.

I have studied much about the United States during my stay here in Tennessee, and I am delighted to go back to my homeland with countless spiritual gifts. I love America and her nice people, and I shall never forget my wonderful memories.

Whenever I think of America, I think of Trevecca College in Tennessee. When you think of Japan, please recollect my name, Tack Niho, and remember I am praying for you in the Land of the Rising Sun. I pray to God that our brotherhood and friendship last forever.

May God keep and bless you always,

Until I meet you again,
Sayonara, and Yours in Christ,
Tack Niho

The 1967 Darda was dedicated to Professor and Mrs. M. E. Redford. Here Darda Editor Ellen Phillips makes the presentation to the Redfords.

Dale Sievers, M.A., Spanish, University of Kansas City. A graduate of Olivet Nazarene College, Mr. Sievers has ten years of service as a missionary among the Spanish-speaking peoples of Central and South America. As a missionary he taught in our Nazarene institutions and for the past two years has been on the faculty of Central High School in Kansas City.

William Sloan, Ed.D. candidate, Education, University of Kentucky. Mr. Sloan brings a broad background of both public school and college teaching. A graduate of Asbury College, he taught education at Olivet Nazarene College and for four years was acting head of the education department there. He has also taught at Asbury College and for the past six years has been on the faculty of Manchester College.

Through The Open Door

What are you doing this summer? A good question right now, although not an easy one for all of you to answer. If you can answer with a positive affirmative, "more power to you"; but if not, if you have nothing in sight, may you locate soon the work you need as well as the work you prefer.

Actually I am not as much interested in where you will be working or what you will be doing as I am in what you will make out of your work. For I am concerned that you will make it significant, however small or menial it may be. Make it important.

You may not be engaged in your life work this summer, but that can be no excuse for slighting your work, for performing it carelessly, or for treating your working obligations negligently. As a true Treveccan we look to you to magnify your work, to apply yourself conscientiously, to carry through grandly.

A minister ventured to commiserate a cobbler upon the lowliness of his task; but the cobbler, with the pride of an archangel shining in his eyes, flung back the preacher's pity: "If I peg shoes as conscientiously as you prepare your sermons, I'll be just as acceptable to God."

True enough. He believed that no useful task is unimportant in God's eyes, that no labor is inconsequential, that no work is to be scorned as ignoble. Indeed one job may require brains, and another brawn; but every one calls for a man big enough to make the job bigger.

Whatever your work this summer, then, put yourself into it; invest each day's labor with all the genius you have. Thus you will enlarge your job; you will surround it with dignity; you will capitalize it with importance; and you will be aware of meriting God's corroborative "Well done."

But how else should a Christian do his work?

Anthropology Offered Here

For the first time TNC will have a three hour course in Anthropology offered in the Fall quarter. Anthropology will be an introductory course which will furnish a little sampling of the whole field of the study of man.

Professor Asa Sparks, of the Department of Sociology will be the instructor; Mr. Sparks has studied in the area at Marshall University and West Virginia University and holds the Master's degree in Sociology from Marshall. He is currently studying Anthropology at Scarritt College (Methodist) under the direction of Dr. Charles Fuller, who is well known for his studies in South African culture, and who is the advisor of Rev. Paul Hetrick, who was recently granted a Master's in Anthropology by Scarritt and is now back on the field in South Africa. Mr. Sparks has reviewed the whole field of Anthropology under Dr. Fuller and plans to continue study at Scarritt, in the Fall, under Dr. Fuller when he returns from an assignment in Botswana, South Africa's newest nation, under Scarritt and Baker University.

Social Problems, a three hour course, will be offered in the Winter quarter and Urban Sociology, which will include a study of the Megalopolis, will be offered in the Spring.

Many books concerning the field of Anthropology and Inter-Cultures have been added to the library recently.

STUDENT WIVES

The Student Wives have had a full and profitable year. Here's a summary of the meetings had since Christmas. January's meeting featured Mrs. Greathouse, the sponsor, speaking on the role of the minister's wife. In her candid talk, Mrs. Greathouse discussed the good and not so good sides of the Minister's role. She gave tips on how to improve one's self in almost any area thinkable. Not only was her advice educational, but enjoyable also. Those girls whose husbands were mere layman gained as much as those minister's wives.

In February, the girls busied themselves making favors, name plates, and arranging flowers, that were used at the Valentine's Banquet. They deserve recognition for the fine job they did at that meeting, don't you think?

In March, Mrs. Greathouse, again shared her experience with the student wives. This time her talents were shown in the area of hat making. She demonstrated how to revive old and out-dated hats and how to make new ones—ranging in style from berets to whimsies to broad brims. This certainly was a profitable meeting for those concerned with economizing, and who isn't?

For the April meeting, the student wives were honored to have speak, the wife of the late Charles Melton, missionary to Japan and graduate of TNC. Through filmstrips and demonstrations, Mrs. Melton showed how to arrange flowers Japanese style. Although this feature of floral arrangement seemed a little strange compared to our American way, everyone appeared to be interested and intrigued by her presentation.

In case you haven't heard, the final meeting of the student wives was May 13 at 6:30 in the Student Center. This get-together was a covered dish supper.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

TO THE GRADUATING CLASS
TREVCCA NAZARENE COLLEGE, 1967

It is a pleasure for me to extend my best wishes as you complete your college education.

You are graduating into a society in which you will be warmly welcomed. Our country has never had so great a need for highly educated men and women. Never have young Americans moved from the college campus into a world offering so broad a range of opportunities for individual fulfillment and contribution to the welfare of humanity.

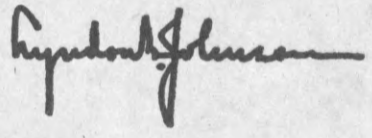

Your generation of students has been distinguished by its fresh and vigorous concern for the quality of American life and its commitment to American democracy. Perhaps the greatest opportunity awaiting you is the challenge to make this a life-long commitment.

Today, Americans from every walk of life are striving together to shape a society that can offer a meaningful and rewarding life to all its members. Never have so many of our countrymen been so deeply dedicated to eradicating the old evils of ignorance, poverty, and bigotry from every corner of the land.

Through your years of study, you have prepared yourselves for positions of leadership in this quest for a better America.

I congratulate you, and urge you to take full advantage of that opportunity.

Sincerely,

What was it?

It all began on Friday morning, May 12 about 8:15. A group of Seniors and Professor Heaberlin gathered in front of McClurkan. The next thirty minutes were spent in rounding up those who had slept late, running back to the dorms for those forgotten things that just couldn't be left and getting Professor Heaberlin's car washed.

After all of this and several starts and stops the group was on its way. The next stop was Bowling Green, Kentucky, and the Town Towers Motel. This was only the launching pad to a number of activities.

The first action stop was Beech Bend Park. There the group forgot that they were dignified Trevecca seniors and did all those things that any well adjusted child would do at an amusement park. Some even got their skating legs to work and spent a couple of hours going around in circles.

The evening was given over to various activities. Some brave individuals reenacted the events of the afternoon. Others made nose dives into very comfortable beds.

The group started out early the next morning. Would you believe 11:30 a.m.? The reason for leaving at this unearthly hour was to arrive at the next action stop on time. They almost made it. Anyway, down they went—down 250 feet into Mammoth Cave. But this was still not enough for this action orientated group.

They then headed to Park Mammoth where they went for a train ride around the mountain. For some reason all the other passengers got off half way around.

It does seem as if all these activities would be sufficient exercise for anybody but not for this group of zealous seniors. They just had to get rid of more energy. One of the cars came to the rescue. It simply refused to start and allowed itself to be pushed for about one-half mile. This helped a lot. Most were now willing to let the Senior Class Trip of 1967 come to an end.

In The Bullpen

by Don Hastings

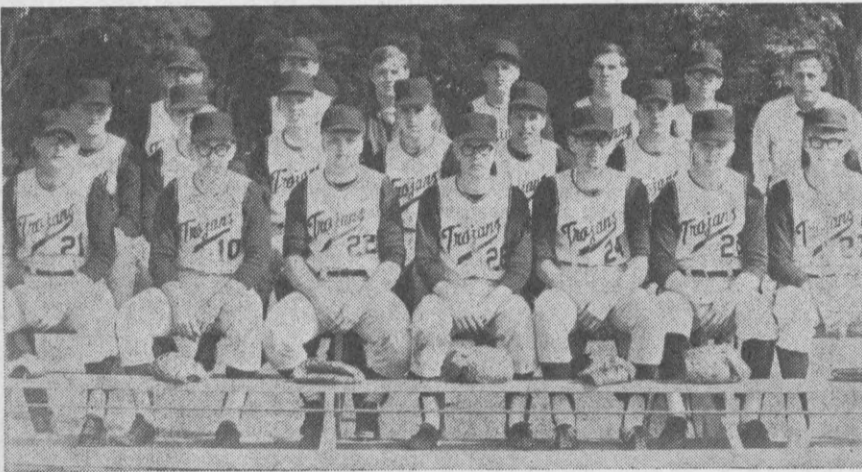

Now that the softball season is over, let us take a brief look over the season past. The mighty Gammas came through again and captured the crown for the intra-mural schedule. They should be commended for winning this honor. It seems that the Big Green sometimes lacked enough players to form their team so they recruited some inactive Gammas and make softball players out of them. Again a salute goes to the Gamma Society. Congratulations. Green.

The other teams made valiant efforts but fell short with their endeavors. The Alpha and Beta tied for second place and the Delta was in the cellar.

With the ending of the softball season bringing what we hope will become traditional and annual, the Trevecca Invitational Softball Tournament. Last year Vanderbilt University won the trophy by defeating the Trevecca Trojans by one run, but the Trojans eliminated the Vanderbilt team in the first game of the tournament and went on to beat David Lipscomb College 12 to 9. My congratulations goes to Coach Heaberlin and the Trojans. Congratulations also go to the student body of TNC for their splendid support of the team. I think this goes to show that if Trevecca engages in other "extra-mural" contests the student body will whole-heartedly give its support although some think that the students will fall short of the mark. I hope Ozzie Smith is well pleased with the response to his "pep-talk" in chapel. I even noticed a few faculty and administration members present, possibly skipping the faculty meeting. I'm sure the team really appreciates this support by all.

Let us all continue this school spirit and support in the intra-mural society contests. Enthusiastic support makes a player try harder thus the game is much more interesting to view.

Members and Coach of the 1967 Trevecca College Championship Softball Team display their trophy, which was won in an extra-mural tournament with Vanderbilt, Peabody, Belmont, David Lipscomb and Freewill Baptist colleges.

BETAS (5-4)

The Beta Society finished the season with three straight wins to nose out the Alphas for second place in the Softball League. In this writers opinion, if a few of the players who were refused the right to play because of grades could have participated, this society could have won the league hands down. Probably the highlight of the season for the Betas was their final 9-0 win over the undefeated Gammas. The stand-out players for the Betas this season were Don Dunlap the centerfielder and also captain of the team, Terry Ricky, first baseman, Ronnie Hall, left fielder, Paul Johnson and Calvin Millam, both pitchers. If the Betas had started their winning stride six games earlier they might have won the championship, don't you agree Mr. Dunlap.

ALPHAS (4-5)

Probably the biggest disappointment of the season was the Alpha Society. Loaded with talent, and a good pitcher, the Alphas could never seem to get started. The Alphas were made up this season of young ballplayers and should really come to the top next year. Standout players for the Alphas were Paul Vann, centerfielder and captain of the team, Don Schrope, right fielder; Preston Ponce, the catcher, and George Whitten the leftfielder. Like the Beta Society, the Alphas, with a little luck this they could have been more successful. Better luck next year, Mr. Vann.

DELTAS (1-8)

The Delta Society unlike any of the other societies, went through the first eight games, winless. The problem which plagued the Deltas all year was the lack of a pitcher. I feel that if the Deltas had had a good pitcher, they would have had little trouble winning games, for the Deltas had a good combination, but needed only a pitcher. Some of the standout players for the Deltas were Dan Jones, the shortstop and captain of the team; Paul Belcher, centerfielder; Ken Berch, second baseman, and catcher Bob Say. Good luck next year Deltas, good pitcher hunting.

GAMMAS (8-1)

The Gamma Society softball team reeled off their first eight games, and were looking much like an undefeated season. But on Tuesday afternoon of the last game, Betas' Paul Johnson pitched a no hitter against the Gammas, beating them 9-0. That afternoon was the exception, because the first eight games were won by timely hitting, a lot of hustle and good team spirit. They were also afternoons when the Gammas beat the Alphas in all three meetings and stopped the Deltas in like fashion. The combination that won the Gammas the championship was—Pinrod at first, Gilley at second, Knight at shortstop, Litton at third, O'Mary in left, McCreary in center and Salser in right field. Larry Abbott handled most of the pitching and Con Wiley was the catcher. Each one of these players at one time during the season added their hit or stolen base that made the Gammas the champions.

TAA Revamps

Trevecca's sports program for the 1967-68 school year will be spearheaded by three divisional chairmen appointed to the T.A.A. general council by the Athletic Association president-elect, John Stark.

Outlined under the headings of the three major team sports sponsored by the Association the program will aim at closer planning of the football, basketball, and softball intra-mural competition.

Bob Duncan, former president of the T.A.A. and recipient of the grid-iron Sportsmanship Award for last season will supervise the football activities. Basketball All-Star Dan Litton will be in charge of cage participation. Paul Belcher will direct the softball planning.

The elected officers of the T.A.A. for the next school year include Stella Taylor, vice-president; Priscilla Warner, secretary; and Jo Ann Fulwood, treasurer. As a council, they face the task of planning activities which will engage the participation and enthusiasm of the student body. Expansion of extra-mural competition opened a new phase of athletics for the T.A.A.
