SCHOOL PAPER HAS OUTSTANDING GROWTH

Student Council Chooses Project For This Year

The purchasing of a six-student-multi-service desk for the science laboratory has been chosen as the major project of the Student Council this year. The desk, which may be used for both chemistry and biology, has facilities for six students, including cabinet and drawer space, gas connections, running water, acid proof sink and removable apparatus rack.

This project was decided upon by members of the Council with the approval of Dr. Gresham, faculty advisor, in their meeting last week with Mr. Richardson, financial secretary of the school.

"To complete the laboratory furniture we should have four such desks", Mr. Richardson said.

He hopes that the Student Council may have set a precedent and that other groups may be interested in purchasing similar equipment for the laboratory.

All students should feel that they have a part in this worthwhile project since the desk will be paid for from the special reserve fund of the Student Council made possible by the activity fee ($1.00 per student, per quarter) included in the general fee paid at registration.

The remainder of the reserve fund will be used for various projects and activities of the Council, such as paying the balance on the High School Junior Class project of '44, which was the purchasing of a Neon sign for the campus entrance; purchasing records for the music department, sponsoring socials at the beginning of each quarter, and giving awards to clubs, classes, and students at the close of school.

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM TO BE PRESENTED TONIGHT

The literary program for this Friday, November 8, will be a patriotic, pre-Armistice Day program. It is being arranged by Miss Madelyn Paschall, Miss Myrtle Hooper, and Mr. J. D. Irwin, whose pupils include an instrumental number, "God of our Fathers", "Freedom Ring" by the girls' glee club, and a piano solo by Peggy Perry. Speakers will be Marian Edwards, Frances Hamilton, Madeline Howe, J. C. Wagner, and Robert Gray. Several of Mr. Irwin's voice pupils will also participate.

This patriotic program will take place in the main auditorium at 8:00 p. m. Let us all come out for an interesting program.

Dr. Harper Welcomed As Chapel Speaker

Students and teachers welcomed Dr. Albert F. Harper, editor-in-chief, of Nazarene Church school publications, as chapel speaker this week. Dr. Harper endeared himself to us when he delivered the commencement address last spring. He understands the problems of young people quite well, having taught at Eastern and Olivet Nazarene Colleges.

Dr. Harper was in Nashville as special speaker for the Nashville Zone Christian Service Training Institute at First Church, November 4-8. The institute courses and teachers were: Enlisting and Developing Workers—Dr. A. F. Harper, Evangelism in the Local Church—Rev. H. H. Wise, Teaching Youth in the Church—Mrs. A. K. Bracken, Teaching Juniors—Mrs. L. P. Gresham, and Teaching Primary Children—Miss Imogene Mackey. Dr. Harper delivered an inspirational message before classes from 7:00 to 8:00 p. m.

Honor Societies Organized Here

Under the sponsorship of the Zeta Chapter of Phi Delta Lambda scholastic honor societies of both the college and the high school have been organized at Trevecca. Following a supper at the home of Miss Person, president of the Zeta Chapter, last Friday evening, Genevieve McMackin, college junior, was elected president of the Trevecca College Honor Society. Other officers of the college honor society elected were: Lesper Heflin, vice-president; Neva Gay Mackey, secretary; and Eva Faye Mackey, treasurer. Other high school honor society officers are: Marcella Cain, vice-president; Barabara Baldwin, secretary; and Smitty Ferguson, treasurer.

Phi Delta Lambda is the National Honor Society for the colleges of the Church of the Nazarene—Phi standing for Philosophia (love of wisdom), Delta for Dikaiosune (righteousness), and Lambda for Latreia (service). Dr. L. P. Gresham, dean of Trevecca College, is vice-president of the national organization. He and Miss Person represent the Zeta Chapter on the Executive Council.

The purpose of Phi Delta Lambda is the promotion of scholarship and friendly relation among students and graduates of the colleges of the Church of the Nazarene: and the stimulation and maintenance of high ideals of learning, character and Christian service.

Each college of the denomination maintains a chapter of the society, the chapter at Trevecca Nazarene College being called the Zeta. Election to membership in each

Dr. Hardy Speaker For Founders Day

Founders Day will be observed next Wednesday, November 13 at Trevecca. Dr. C. E. Hardy will be the special chapel speaker for the occasion. Dr. Hardy, who has been a well known minister and physician in Nashville for many years, was president of Trevecca College from 1915 to 1925 and 1928 to 1937.

Mrs. Bennett is planning a special musical program. Former students, present for Trevecca's birthday, will give a few words of testimony.

News From The Darda Staff

If the most of our work is in the hands of the printers by December 15, and the rest of it in January, we are promised that we will have our 1947 DARDAS in May.

"Your '47 DARDA will be larger this year and will more completely cover life at Trevecca than previous books . . . we hope," Marian Edwards said.

"The kind of book you receive and the time that you will receive it depend in a large measure upon you and your continued help. You've exceeded our expectations so far and I have my fingers crossed now that you will continue to realize your importance in making the annual."

Members of the DARDA Staff are as follows:

Nov. 8 Observed As Trev-Echoes Birthday

In two years Trev-Echoes, student publication of Trevecca Nazarene College, has grown from a one mimeographed sheet to a four-page printed paper (each page measuring eight by ten inches) to a regular-sized school paper each page twelve by eighteen inches.

Trev-Echoes was organized under the sponsorship of the sophomore class of 1944-45. The first issue, mimeographed on one side of legal-sized paper, appeared on the campus on Freshman Day, November 8, 1944. The name Trev-Echoes was suggested by Dr. Bracken and Marian Edwards.

A paper published by students proved so popular that it began to grow immediately. On February 2, 1945 Trev-Echoes changed from the one mimeographed sheet to a four-page printed paper. On the second anniversary of Trev-Echoes we find the paper has more than doubled the size of previous issues printed this year.

Howard Wall, first editor of Trev-Echoes, was editor for two years. Last year the college juniors sponsored Trev-Echoes as an all-school paper. Furnishing Trev-Echoes office located on the basement floor in the Administration Building, was an outstanding project of the junior class. Their plans to make Trev-Echoes a complete student publication have materialized.

Last spring Bernice Roedel, editor, and Marie Peery, business manager, were elected by the student body. Other staff members were chosen by the editor and business manager with the approval of Dr. Gresham, faculty advisor, and the Student Council this year.

Last year the paper was published every Friday. Beginning with this new enlarged copy, Trev-Echoes will be published bi-weekly.

Trev-Echoes is our own paper. Speaking on the importance of a school paper to Trevecca last year, Dr. Mackey said, "I hope Trev-Echoes will publish those big things and happenings that will help our school go forward—those things that are worthwhile for the cause of Christ." The new staff plans an interesting paper that will come up to the expectations of our president.

Students and faculty members will note a number of new additions to the paper: on the editorial page, a new column, "As the Faculty Sees It," on the feature page, a new feature, "Moments of Medi-

College Seniors Enjoy Trip Through Mammoth Cave

The college seniors with their faculty advisor, Mrs. A. B. Mackey, other teachers and guests enjoyed a trip through Mammoth Cave National Park in southwestern Kentucky, last Saturday. The group left the campus about 6:00 a. m. on a chartered bus, stopped for breakfast at the Wigwam Village near Cave City, Kentucky, and arrived at the cave about ten o'clock.

Mammoth Cave National Park embraces an area of approximately 50,000 acres of beautiful forested hill country in addition to its caverns which were first discovered by the white man in 1799. According to a legend Mammoth Cave was discovered in the early days of Kentucky by a pioneer named Houchin, who while pursuing a wounded bear saw it enter the cave. One of the seven wonders of the world, Mammoth Cave has two main entrances, one natural, known as the Old, or Historic Entrance, and the other man-made, known as the Frozen Niagara Entrance.

Greatly impressed by the immensity of the Historic Entrance, the group began the all-day trip with great eagerness and much enthusiasm. This route, said to be the longest cave route in the world, comprises most of the outstanding features in Mammoth Cave—the saltpeter vats of 1812, the largest room in Mammoth Cave, Fat Man's Misery, Bottomless Pit, Mammoth Dome, Martha Washington's Statue, Crystal Lake, Drapery Room, and Frozen Niagara. Members of the group were thrilled by the boat ride on Echo River, the mysterious stream which underlies Mammoth Cave and is 360 feet below the surface. Seniors agreed that geology was required to explain, but it only took eyes to enjoy the spectacular features of Mammoth Cave. Dinner was enjoyed by all (Howard Wall included) in the Snowball Dining Room, 267 feet underground.

Having covered about seven and a half miles enroute, the party emerged from the Frozen Niagara Entrance about 5:00 o'clock. They were back on the campus by 9:30 p. m.

The seniors were accompanied on the trip by Miss Hooper and Miss Paschall, college teachers. Other guests were: Mrs. Jimmy Thrasher, Nora Dean Gillam, Helen Niesner, and Imogene Mackey

Editorials

"It isn't far to Gossip Town"—so runs the first line of a certain poem, reminding us of a word we don't like—gossip. Perhaps we are not guilty of gossip in the fullest sense of the word—running around and tattling or telling idle, especially personal tales, but we are sometimes careless in our conversations. Therefore we may be drifting closer to Gossip Town on the shore of Falsehood Bay than we realize.

Do you know what the character for writing "woman" in the old Chinese alphabet is? If you do, then put two of these symbols together and you have their word for gossip. Strange isn't it? But just because we see two people talking together is no reason we should accuse them of gossiping. Exchanging ideas is one thing; talking about people is another. It has been said, "Big people talk about ideas, mediocre people talk about things, little people talk about people."

Peter said, "let none of you suffer as a busy body in other men's matters." A familiar quotation reads: "If wisdom's way you seek, five things observe with care: Of whom you speak; To whom you speak; And how, and when, and where." Our biggest task then is keeping ourselves in line. If we are successful at this task, we will not have time to be faultfinders, gossipers, and tale bearers. It's permissible to talk about people when we please as long as we talk about them on our knees. Most anyone would rather be called a burden bearer than a tale bearer. If we will spend more time at the throne of intercessory prayer, God will see to it that we are piloted farther and farther from the shore of Falsehood Bay where Gossip Town is located.

—Bernice Roedel.

In school life we are continually meeting with handicaps and limitations. Some of us become victors over our circumstances and some of us become victims of our circumstances. Most of us resent our limitations. One of the hardest things we will have to do is to accept ourselves as ourselves. One characteristic of the college age is a desire to be like others. We say, "If we had only his or her chance, then we would make it." Not so! Did you know that you are a bundle of possibilities? You can play the game of life and make the most of it.

We have seen students come to school, meet with handicaps and limitations, give up completely and fade out of the picture. In looking over the campus from day to day we see those who have handicaps. Have all of them given up? No. We see some who are struggling from a financial standpoint. They have no support from home. Their parents have no sympathy for them. Have they given up? No. They have accepted life as it is and are going on doing the best they can. We see some that have experienced sadness in their lives; the death of a father or a mother. Have they given up? No. We see others who have physical handicaps. Some of their limbs are twisted, and they are deformed in body. Have they succumbed to life and its handicaps? No. They are making their handicaps serve them and are adjusting their lives around them.

The most stimulating successes in history have come from persons who, facing limitations or handicaps, took them as part of life's game and played splendidly in spite of them. Once when Ole Bull, the great violinist, was giving a concert in Paris, his "A" string snapped and he transposed the composition and finished it on three strings. This is life—to have your "A" string snap and finish on three strings. Have some of the strings in your life snapped? Then why give up? Transpose the composition and finish life with the strings that are left.

After a narrow escape from the "witches and goblins" of Halloween, I am back in the tower again. Perched upon an imaginary pumpkin which was probably used to stand on and peek out on Halloween night, I am peeking at you. I have been peeking in the dark too, and saw Lou Ouida Carlton fall. Does anyone know who she fell for the other night? She fell going down the hill and recovered with a slight hand bruise.

It's a shame to be so good-looking you break cameras; especially professional ones. Could it be the poor little camera had taken so many terrible pictures and when it received Homer's it threw up it's hands in despair? How about it, Homer?

Roy Nix was honored by the presence of Miss Paschall at the Carolina Club outing. Congratulations—Roy, you made an extra good choice.

WANTED!! A brainstorm to come to the rescue of Mr. Howard Wall. The disease he has is unknown. Symptoms are: First, Trying to collect money from Ann Rogers who Howard thinks is a Carolinian, but is not. Incidentally, I think he made a restitution to Ann today, after she convinced him that she was a Georgian. Secondly, Saying that Washington discovered America. Wonder if he ever heard of Columbus? Will someone come to his rescue?

I would like to recommend Mary Lee Saxon as an assistant to a publisher. She typed thirteen sermons for Dr. Orval Nease, to publish in his new book.

You've heard of killing two birds with one stone. Well, Miss Myrtle Hooper, did this Saturday night when she let J. C. Wagner and his wife stay in her home, while she went "Possum Hunting."

At the head of Alma Teeple's book list is the book, "Marriage Is A Serious Business." So sudden!!

While sitting in the library, I saw Joe Bates reading his lesson in Economics, but I guess he thinks that he is economical enough, for in class his eyelids seem to get so tired and heavy, he always manages to go to sleep.

Mr. Ed Cox, is the new vocalist on the campus. He had his first audition at the County Work House last Sunday.

Does A. D. Boone think as much of Trevecca as he pretends or is there another reason for his interest? He went home last week-end but stayed only one night and came back to school a day early. Trevecca holds something for him!!!

In speaking of Trevecca holding things, J. C. Tousley went home last week-end to see his wife. I think he will change his opinion after Christmas, for I think he is coming to Trevecca to stay.

Just now I felt a tug at my foot and Mr. Pumpkin softly said, "I am tired of holding you—make me into a pie." What shall I do? I can't cook. Guess I'll have to hunt someone to take care of him. If I can make it down the stairs with him in my arms, I'll be back next week. Keep your fingers crossed!!!

—Ed Phillips.

SPICE of LIFE

An interesting award was given to a small girl in our Sunday School last Sunday, and everyone was impressed by its meaning. She had attended Sunday School for one whole year without one mark against her attendance record. But more interesting than perfection in her attendance record was the tribute to her by her teacher.

"For fifty-two Sundays during last year," the teacher said, "Faye sat in my class and smiled. If she had her way, she smiled and if she did not have her way, she smiled. If she did not get to read the scripture lesson, she smiled. If she did not get to take the offering, she still smiled. If she did not get to sing a special, she smiled some more. Regardless of what happened, she was always smiling. Her sweet spirit has meant much to the class and I shall never be the same myself after having watched her during this time."

The words of Jesus come to us again as this little incident records itself in our minds. He said "Except you become as a little child you cannot enter the kingdom of Heaven". We speak of the children as being the church of tomorrow, but Jesus said that the entire kingdom was made up of such as these little ones. In the light of these statements, it would be much more important for us to assume this little girl's attitude rather than to try to match her attendance record. The real quality of childhood was that of inward rather than outward perfection. Regardless of her desires, she felt that her teacher knew what was best for her and she was perfectly willing to abide by the teacher's decisions. That spirit is what will take you and me through as Christians and enable us to be a part of the Kingdom at all times. He knows what is best for us and He wants us to have that faith in Him which will enable us to say "Lord, you lead and I'll follow. Thy will be done."

As the Faculty Sees It

The student's way is better than the faculty's way if the student's way is as good as the faculty's way. The fact is that the student is the one to be taught and to learn to make a success after we are off the scene of action. We would rather the student would have his way even though it may not be quite as good as ours because the educational program starts with the student at his level and not at the advanced level of the teacher. Of course, it is impossible for a faculty to do what each of the students want; therefore, it is our responsibility to select the way of carrying on a college.

We would like to encourage the student to feel that we are trying to find what suits the student who is the kind of student that will make Trevecca College the best and greatest possible blessing. So we would like to encourage students to consult with the faculty for guidance and let us know your circumstances, then trust us to perform the operation. We will always be glad to learn all we can about the student and any student that will give us information will help us to make Trevecca better.

We are not interested in any student's dictation and, rightly so, our task is teaching and no teacher can teach a student who tries to turn the table and dictate to the teacher.

We would like to encourage the students to criticize provided he criticizes to the teacher's face and not to other students. We are alarmed about criticisms that come if they are of low standards and no restrictions, but we feel happy for those who criticize the faculty and deans who try to hold up high standards and place restrictions on students for their help and guidance. We hope that they will send those criticisms all over the world because there are people who will put money behind the school that will not let students do as they please. In fact, Trevecca College should be willing to pay the postage to send such criticism all over the zone.

ALABAMA CLUB OUTING

Saturday, October 19, at 5:30 a. m. the Alabamians met in front of the Administration Building and from there went to Centennial Park. Breakfast was almost ready when the group arrived, thanks to the Misses Bohler, McCurley, and Blackburn. After the group had thawed out by the bonfire, hot grits, eggs, coffee and dough-nuts were served. Everyone seemed to enjoy everything with the exception of Mr. Richardson who, remarked to someone in the office after returning, that he was hungry. Next time Mr. Richardson, don't be bashful and stand back!

We were glad to have Miss Olive Stokes from Dayton, Ohio; Miss Jo DeSha from Miami, Florida; Miss Sarah Spruill from Nashville and Miss Jean Love from Orlando, Florida with us. We hope they enjoyed themselves. May the Alabamians never be accused of being unfriendly.

Paul Hocutt

MISSISSIPPI CLUB OUTING

On Friday evening at four o'clock a group of half-excited Mississippians piled on a truck in front of the Administration Building. The final destination, after the long trip through town, was a spookily decorated cabin surrounded by big oak trees.

After everybody had made themselves acquainted with the spooks, they played games in a big open field not far away. We are sure everybody enjoyed themselves—just ask Harvey Johnson he'll tell you. We must have had a good time because Dean McPherson lost her shoe and had to hop back (with you know who) to the cabin.

Edra, the Ghost, met us and gave us all the right hand of fellowship (ooey-goey). While we sat around the campfire, A. D. Boone started a ghost story which made Marie Peery's hair stand on end. We wonder why Gladys Paugh didn't take an interest in the ghost story, was it because she was scared, or— Rosalyn Hendershot finished it (the story) and had everybody—even Ollie McCaskell and Pauline Bumpus listening (something more than the rest of us could do.)

While our bones were still rattling, we gathered around the beau-

skimp sketch

One cold November morning on the 15th day of 1919 a son was born to a couple in Alabama. As was the usual custom this boy grew up. We find the year 1942 an outstanding year in his life. In January of that year our hero was saved. In July of the same year he was sanctified and became a member of the Church of the Nazarene. It was during this same year that he first attended Trevecca. The three years following he spent in the Marine Corps. May I pause here long enough to say that he is the only ex-marine that we have at Trevecca at the present time.

After I received this information I questioned him further. When he was asked his favorite color, he blushed and trembled out the words, "red"; when asked his favorite sport, he gulped, "dating," and when asked his favorite food, he boldly answered, "Olives". His hobby is collecting ties.

What does all this spell? We'll let you figure it out. BANHJOMYH.

tifully decorated tables where we were served molded, wormy cheese sandwiches, witches blood and fingernails, and cat's eyes. Ask Oneita Petty how they tasted. Hey Juanita McPherson did you ever get that worm down? After everybody had finished their delicious lunch, we gathered around the campfire to sing choruses.

The closing prayer was led by Prof. Hammond. Then everybody climbed back on the truck asking each other, "Aren't you glad you're from Mississippi."—Barabar Kidd, Reporter.

WHO'S SCARED

Spooks, goblins, dead men, fortunes and death chambers!

Any high school Junior should be able to give you some information on any of these subjects since the outing the seniors gave them at Percy Warner Park on Halloween.

The Junior's scared? Well-yes, but (here's a secret) so were some of those dignified seniors, ask Paul Pappas, Barbara Kidd and LaVerne Case.

The bus parked on the playgrounds where a few games were played and some choruses were sung. Louie Jeter led the group into the woods, over rocks, through bushes, (sticky ones) down in ridges, and to a cabin where Mary Ruth McNaron told a ghost story.

Moments of Meditation

"Doth not the very heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament show forth his handiwork?"

AUTUMN

Just a woodland with tangled vines, some trees and matted undergrowth,

And leaves of every color lightly falling to the earth— As a breeze goes softly stealing through the spaces in between; Not a sound from out the stillness would dare disturb this scene— It's Autumn.

There high up on the hillsides birds whispering in the brush, And sheep and cattle grazing in Autumn's dreamy hush. The creek winds slowly through the pastures toward the sea

As it ripples out the story of things that are to be— It's Autumn.

There's still a splash of red, a tiny hint of green, Some bronze and orange and yellow, and brown all in between. Nature lies with all her colors of every rye and hue For the sun to tone and soften as it shines from out the blue— It's Autumn.

Colored shadows are all there to see, soft melodies to hear— It's golden, mellow autumn— I love this time of year; God comes down from out his heaven on wings as of a bird And tunes the harps of nature with sweetest music ever heard In Autumn.

"Life does not cease when you are old; it only suffers a rich change. You go on loving, only your love, instead of a burning fiery furnace is the mellow glow of an autumn sun."

—Jane Ellen Harrison.

The fortunes were next. We thank Sarah Spruill for doing a swell job.

Now, to the death chamber where the juniors, seniors, Professor Spencer and our honored guest, Mrs. Spencer, all alike got a slap in the face. No kidding (bet you didn't know that it was a piece of liver). Here they also got to shake hands with an oyster. Slimey, huh? Rob Staples looked to be pretty dead with a sheet around him and some flour on his face.

Shirley Phipps screamed the loudest over the dummy, even though she knew that we were going to have one lying beside the cabin.

Have you noticed that Charles Miller has a front tooth missing? Could it be that he was bobbing for apples?

After having fun in the woods we came down to the playgrounds and every one helped himself to hot dogs, (plenty of onions, too) pickles, potatoes, cookies and (believe it or not) pepsi's.

Before I forget to mention it, we had a birthday in the crowd. Of course, I won't give away her age, but Clara McClain isn't in her teens anymore.

Here's hoping the juniors had a good time.—Olive Stokes.

TENNESSEE CLUB HAS OUTING

The Tennessee Club is one never to be outdone so they decided that it was time to have an entertainment. Yesterday afternoon they had a time of fun and frolic out at Shelby Park. By chartering a city bus we had time for several interesting games and stunts and ever had time to eat and get back to school before study hall was over. Yes, we had plenty of weiners and all that goes with them.

All the Tennesseans heartily agreed that this event had started a year of entertainments which we believe will be as successful as those we had last year.

If you have been observing the limping of several boys around the campus, also the presence of mercurochrome in several noticeable spots, perhaps you will have concluded that the football season is underway.

The football league will be composed of five teams: two from the high school, two from the college freshman class (the boys who live in the dormitory and the boys who live off the campus), and a combination team from the college seniors, juniors, and sophomores.

The league officially opened Tuesday afternoon, November 5, with the freshman dormitory team playing one of the high school teams.

There have been two warmup games. The freshman team (who live off the campus) defeated the high school 18-6 last Thursday afternoon. On Friday afternoon the team from the junior-senior classes and the dormitory freshman team battled to a scoreless deadlock.

Any and all players must belong to the Athletic Association, and be in good standing with the association and faculty in order to participate in official games—and just a reminder to all members of the association—you cannot miss two meetings in succession and be in good standing with the association.

In the next publication lineups and scores, as well as league standings will be published.

tation" by Lou Ouida Carlton; on the back page, Nashville Nazarene Church Directory.

A special anniversary subscription price is being offered to students and friends of Trevecca. Over five hundred copies of this first enlarged edition are being sent to pastors on the Southeastern Educational Zone. In previous years the staff has faced many hardships, but we anticipate a good year for Trev-Echoes with the loyal support of our friends.

Staff members are presenting a program in chapel today in celebration of Trev-Echoes second anniversary.

MISS HEFLIN CALLED HOME BECAUSE OF SUDDEN DEATH OF MOTHER

Miss Heflin, president of student body, was called home Tuesday, because of the sudden death of her mother. In her hour of sorrow, the faculty and student body extend their heart felt sympathy. Our prayers are with you Miss Heflin.

NEW SINK IN DISH ROOM

The girls who wash dishes are enjoying working much more since the new three compartment sink was put in the dish room. It eliminates the former lifting of water and it is much more convenient. We are very proud of the new additions which are being made to the kitchen.

OFFICERS CLUB IS ORGANIZED

The New Officers Club, recently organized, is composed of all class, club and association presidents. The editors of the different publications are also members. The purpose of this club is to create interest among the different school organizations. Members will discuss problems and projects of each organization. The primary purpose is for the betterment of the school.

All eligible members should cooperate and take interest in the club. The regular meetings will be planned for alternate weeks. At each meeting a member of the faculty will speak and give advice on problems and matters which are discussed.

Howard Wall, president of the College Senior Class, was elected chairman at the first meeting which was called on Monday of last week.

If your class, club, or organization has some problem bring it before the group at the next meeting. We may be able to solve some of the problems of other groups. Show interest, presidents, and come to the meetings chapter is based upon the standards set by the local college for graduation with honors, provided that during a quadrennium election to the chapter shall not exceed 15 per cent of the total graduation. Membership in chapters is by vote of the faculty of the local college.

SCHOLASTIC HONOR

SOCIETIES ARE ORGANIZED

Under the sponsorship of the Zeta Chapter of Phi Delta Lambda, there is maintained at the college a scholastic honor society, membership in which is determined on the basis of one year's scholarship. The minimum standing required is 2.5. Members of the Trevecca Honor Societies this year were elected during the commencement season at the close of the spring quarter, from students who carried for the three quarters at least twelve hours of work. These students were introduced to the student body by Miss Person during the chapel program presented by the Zeta Chapter last week.

Students Participate In Amateur Program

A program of student talent was given Friday night in the Alumni Auditorium. Each class presented some of their talented members. Fifteen minutes time was allotted to each class.

The class presidents presented their performers. The program began with the audience singing two songs led by Marion Edwards. Lou Ouida Carlton was at the piano. Bernice Roedel, in the absence of the Student Council president, gave the introductory talk as to the nature of the program and its purpose.

Craig Ayers, president of the College Freshman Class expressed his appreciation of the Freshman Class and introduced his performers: Dorothy Smith gave a reading, Brock Speer sang, and Caroline Hall gave a comedy reading.

Ralph Howe, president of the College Sophomore Class, gave a stirring piano solo and received an encore. Mabel Carr and Rosalyn Hendershot proved that two heads are better than one in a comedy performance, and Clayton Langford sang, "With a Song," accompanied by Lou Ouida Carlton.

Wanda Pinaire, president of the High School Sophomore Class, presented two talented students from her class. Carol Haering sang a solo, Ben Speer also sang and then played his invisible trombone.

The High School Junior Class with their president, Jack Williams, were next on the program. A quartet composed of Jack Williams, Joe Benson, Bob McClain and Billy Anderson sang. Willa Dean McPherson, accordionist and soloist, was said to have stolen the evening.

The High School Seniors, who are exceedingly busy these days gave one number. Mrs. Kathryn Green gave a reading. She was introduced by Mary Ruth McNaron, Senior Class President.

The College Junior Class gave three numbers. President Ed Phillips presented Dorothy Williams, who gave a reading, Marie Peery who sang a solo and Genevieve McMackin who gave a humorous reading, "Sister's Last Beau."

FORMER EDITOR CONGRATULATES STAFF

Congratulations, members of the TREV-ECHOES staff! I appreciate your faithful work and I am sure that I speak the sentiments of the entire student body.

TREV-ECHOES had a very humble but sure beginning. I remember the enthusiasm among the student body when the paper first made its appearance two years ago today. The enlarged paper, appearing on the campus today, will be received with the same enthusiasm. This enlarged issue makes the student paper of Trevecca Nazarene College the size of newspapers of other colleges and universities of America.

I feel that the work that was done in the "pioneer days" was not wasted for the goal of TREV-ECHOES was, from the beginning, to increase in size and scope. TREV-ECHOES was not founded as a gossip sheet nor as a means of spreading surmises; it was established to enrich the lives of the students of Trevecca. The staff of '47 had this in mind, when they made the third increase in size of the paper, for they can now, in a greater way, add to the enrichment of school life.

Again may I say—Congratulations, TREV-ECHOES staff!

—Howard Wall
Editor '44-46

Last but not least the College Senior Class, whose president is Howard Wall, gave their program. Florence Eden Morris played the violin accompanied by Miss Madeline Paschall and Marion Edwards gave a comedy reading. The College Seniors will be the largest class in the history of Trevecca.

The Amateur Hour Program was well attended. Students said it was one of the best programs of the school year and all agreed that Trevecca students are talented students.

We were glad to have Shirley Phipps' grandparents from Arlington, Virginia on the campus last week.

SOPH'S ADVENTURE

Yes, that was the high school sophomores and guests who were rushing around the campus Monday the twenty-ninth about four o'clock. We were heading for Shelby Park and got there with the aid of Ben Speer, Bob Benson and Wilson Douglas. Wilson's car was reluctant about going, but after a few shoves by Ben Speer and other spectators along the way, it finally yielded and enabled us to reach our destination, in fact two of the occupants of the car Paul Taylor and Bettelu McAllister became so discouraged after a couple of the car's hesitations they decided to dig in the food.

A fire was finally started by McNutt, Taylor, P. McAllister. Hungry mouths were filled with delicious hot dogs, potato chips and drinks. Sticks for the weiners to be roasted on were supplied by Polly McCosh and Charles Miller's expert carving.

After we had eaten, an exciting game of Volley Ball was played in which Wanda Pinare showed her athletic ability.

We arrived back on the campus in time for Study Hall. An enjoyable afternoon became history.

WASHROOM READY FOR USE

In the basement of the McKay Hall is Trevecca's new wash room. The new concrete floor and painted walls make a very attractive room for wash day. There are six newly painted wall tubs which are large enough to wash the average student's clothing. No more stooping over bath tubs to wash dirty duds.

The Virginia and Kentucky Districts have pledged the money for a new Maytag electric washer. As soon as the dealer can supply the list of persons which are ahead of us, we will have a new washer.
