Series of Lectures to Be Given Feb. 5-10

Dr. H. Orton Wiley's Lectures A Blessing and Inspiration

Dr. H. Orton Wiley, president of Pasadena Nazarene College, was special speaker in a series of services at Trevecca, January 15-21. Dr. Wiley, a writer of rare ability, according to Dr. Mackey is "Dean of theology in the Church of the Nazarene." His messages both in the chapel and the evening services have been a blessing and inspiration to us.

Dr. Wiley also gave lectures from three to four o'clock every afternoon. His lectures were given in Dr. Bracken's classroom. Students wishing to attend these lectures were excused from their regular classes. The lectures were given especially to the theological students as well as others interested in Christian work. These lectures were invaluable to us and the students profited much from Dr. Wiley's wonderful lectures and Bible studies. May we as students and faculty be able to take the truths which he has presented to us and use them in a way that God will be glorified in our daily lives.

Rev. Victor Gray to Speak Tonight

Rev. Victor Gray, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene in Clarksville, will be special speaker for the literary program in the Alumni Auditorium at 7:30 p. m. this evening. His message will climax an interesting program planned by the high school juniors and their sponsor, Miss Madelyn Pashall.

The first part of the program, a singspiration, will be under the direction of Ellis Hicks, music director of the Clarksville Youth for Christ and choir director of Clarksville First Nazarene Church. The program will include vocal numbers by the "Tiny Trio" and a ladies' trio from Clarksville, the high school junior male quartet, a duet by Uncle Bobbie Sullivan and Bro. Wakefield, as well as other vocal and instrumental numbers.

We feel sure that this program will be a good preview for Youth Week, January 26-February 2.

RICHARD GUNN PRESENTS PAINTING TO TREVECCA'S CHAPEL

A beautiful painting of Christ was presented to Trevecca College by Richard Gunn, Nazarene layman, during the chapel service Wednesday morning. Mr. Gunn read an impressive description of

Youth Week To Be Observed at Trevecca

Youth Week will be observed by the faculty and student body in a series of special services next week planned by the Student Advisory Council.

Special speakers for the chapel services are: Dr. A. K. Bracken, dean of the School of Religion, who will speak Monday, Dr. A. B. Mackey, president of the college, Tuesday; Rev. Carl Brown, pastor of the Old Hickory Church of the Nazarene, Wednesday; Prof. W. M. Greathouse, pastor of the Nashville Immanuel Nazarene Church, Thursday, and Rev. Victor Gray, pastor of the Clarksville First Church, Friday.

As a grand climax to Youth Week, Miss Esther Saxon, daughter of the Tennessee District superintendent, and her teacher will present a piano recital in the Alumni Auditorium at 8:00 p. m. As students let us join in giving Christ to the nations not only during Youth Week but at all times by sharing our Christian faith and fellowship.

ary prayer meeting, next Thursday, January 30, at 6:00 p. m. in the auditorium. Everyone is invited to attend this special service.

We are happy to know that one of our own number will soon be carrying the good news of salvation to souls in heathen darkness. Our prayers go with this senior girl, whom we love and appreciate.

LESPER HEFLIN APPOINTED TO INDIA

Lesper Heflin, college senior, was appointed missionary to India by the Foreign Mission Board at the recent General Board Meeting of the Church of the Nazarene in Kansas City. Lesper was informed last week in a letter from Dr. C. Warren Jones, secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, that she would be sent to India sometime this year. Definite arrangements are not complete as yet.

Miss Heflin, who has served as efficient school nurse since coming to Trevecca in September 1944, will speak for the college mission-

ARTICLE WRITTEN BY DR. GRESHAM IS PUBLISHED

In the 1946 edition of the Cast Tennessee Historical Society's Publication is an article written by Dr. L. P. Gresham, dean of Trevecca College. His article is a summary of a chapter taken from his thesis which he wrote in order to obtain his Ph. D. degree. The article is "Hugh Lawson White as a Tennessee Politician and Banker, 1807-1827."

The Cast Tennessee Historical Society's Publication is an annual publication. Since Dr. Gresham is interested in History, periodicals

Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Chapman to Be Special Speakers During Board Meeting

Dr. J. B. Chapman, one of the General Superintendents of the Church of the Nazarene, will give a series of lectures during the week of the board meeting from February 5-10. Dr. Chapman is an outstanding executive, preacher, and lecturer, and a writer of rare ability. His messages are certain to be interesting and inspirational to everyone.

This series of lectures will be sponsored by John T. Benson Jr. in memory of his father who was for a number of years, a supporter and benefactor of Trevecca Nazarene College. He has provided a fund which makes possible a special series of evangelistic services each year.

Mrs. Chapman, the former Louise Robinson and an outstanding missionary, will accompany Dr. Chapman. Students and teachers are looking forward to their visit with us.

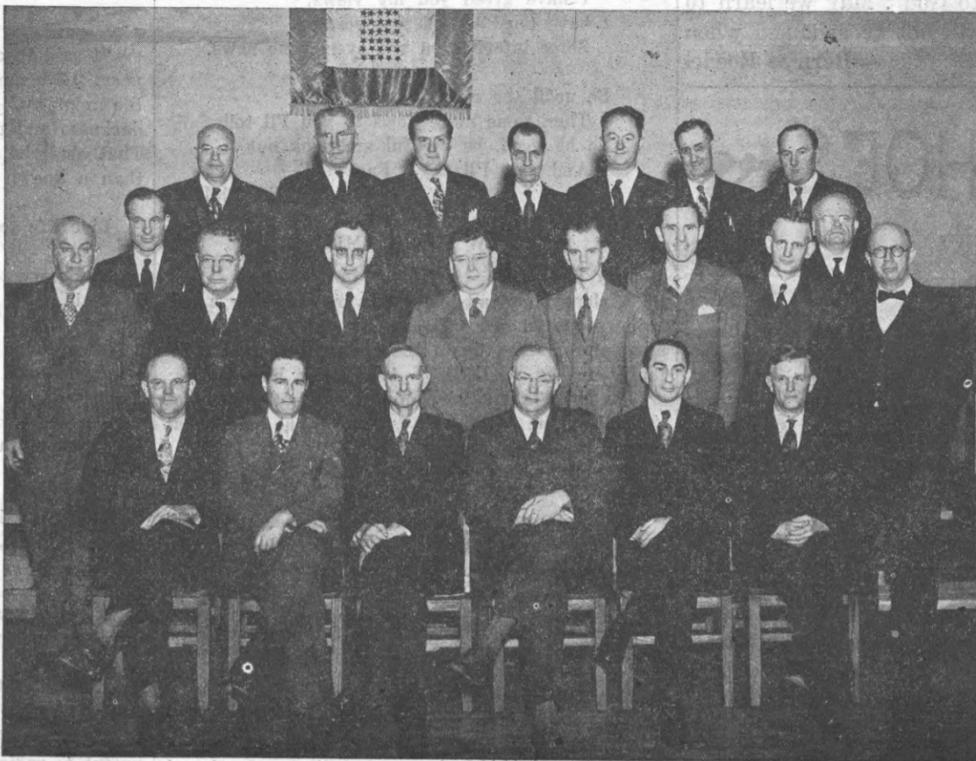

Board of Trustees to Meet Feb 5

The Board of Trustees of Trevecca Nazarene College will meet February 5, 1947. They will discuss the general business, policies and improvements of the school. They will also discuss the requirements which Trevecca must meet in order to become fully accredited. Officers for the following year will be elected.

Officers of the Board of Trustees at present are: Chairman, L. T. Wells; Vice Chairman, W. M. Tidwell; Secretary, E. D. Simpson; and Treasurer, A. B. Mackey. Other members of the board are: Alabama, Dallas Baggett and E. D. Simpson; Florida, C. H. Strickland and L. T. Wells and A. B. Mackey; Mississippi, Cecil Knippers and H. T. Tate; North Carolina, J. V. Frederick and A. D. Holt; South Carolina, C. M. Kelly; Tennessee, J. T. Benson, W. T. Collier, M. E. Redford, J. D. Saxon, W. M. Tidwell, and H. H. Wise; Virginia, C. E. Key and L. B. Smith; West Virginia, R. T. McKinney and E. C. Oney and Alumne, A. W. McManus and J. R. Browning.

Trevecca wishes to extend a hearty welcome to each member of the Board of Trustees.

The missionary program, "They Call Us to Deliver," will be presented Friday, March 7, due to a change in the schedule of literary programs. It was previously announced that this program would be presented January 24.

Editorials

After one's big day there always comes a bad day. After a "red-letter day" there usually comes a "black-letter day." It was true in the past and it is true today. After the great day of our Lord's baptism, He was tempted of the devil. After Paul's third heaven experience came the thorn in the flesh. Look out for the next day after your big day.

Some people's Christian experience consist only of one hilarious stirring into another. Some of us are busy in much ado about nothing. I do think our Christian lives will be injected with joy and emotion, but some seem to think that Christian living is a glorified St. Vitus dance. We are to be willing disciples, not whirling dervishes.

Too many of us are in a hurry. There is always time enough to do what God wants done. What takes up so much time is doing what we want to do. We boast of "go getters" in our church and school these days, but all the most of them get is high blood pressure and a heart attack.

What we need to do is to wait on God. "He who waits on God loses no time." We need to hear the divine injunction, "Be still and know that I am God."

The greatest things make the least noise. The sun draws millions of gallons of water with less noise than we make getting one bucketful out of a well. There is an occasional eruption of nature—hurricane, earthquake, and fire, these cause noise, but the steady and abiding things are noiseless.

While we exhort men to be saved, to be sure, to be sound, and to be strong, let us not forget the call, "Be still." I pray God shall give us all "listening souls." We must be still, make ourselves be still and know that He is God.

—Robert Gray

Responsibility is a long word that most of us have not learned the meaning of. Just for fun let us see how Mr. Webster defines it. "Responsibility is that for which one is responsible, likely to be called upon to answer,—that for which one is accountable". It is quite evident that many of us have not learned its meaning—at least in every-day living.

Lessons are assigned, but it never occurs to us that it is our responsibility to prepare them. It is the teacher's responsibility to explain every little detail and do all the difficult work. We are elected to a club or class officer, but we fill that capacity in name only. Some other task is assigned us, but we forget to perform our duty. Oh, maybe we're not as bad as all this but let's learn the meaning of responsibility in every day living.

Seriously speaking as Channing says, "Every human being has a work to carry on within, duties to perform abroad, influences to exert, which are peculiarly his, and which no conscience but his own can teach." Beecher says, "Nature holds an immense uncollected debt over every man's head, and remember the Bible says, "Every one of us shall give account of himself to God". May we learn to accept responsibility now so we will not be ashamed when we are asked to give account.

Hastening from the supper table to my place in the tower, I had quite a journey. I met several people on the way and they forced an introduction upon me.

My introductions were:

1. Mr. I. C. (icey) Rain—He was quite happy and had millions of little drops working for him.

2. Mr. O. O. (oooh) Wind—He made a conversation right away and as I journeyed on, he was whistling.

Meeting these two mysterious personalities made me hurry to the tower and my job. My job can be compared to these two personalities, in that—Fate has rained the actions of student life to my ears and the ill winds of gossip have blown in material for my article. So here I am back again!!!!

We have twins on the campus at least as far as names are concerned—"Paul and Pauline Taylor." Incidentally, Pauline is trying to originate a new city. She addressed her mother a letter to Akron, Tenn.

NEWS FLASH!!!

Mrs. Bracken, wife of Dr. A. K. Bracken, was found recently, stalled in front of O'Donnileys in her new Studebaker. She was accompanied by Miss Dorothy Williams. They were patiently waiting for the car to muster enough courage to start. A passer-by, Robert Gray, exclaimed, "I'd just as soon have a 'young-un' to put up with."

Wonder if Carmella Eannottie thinks our water fountains are sharp? She went to one to sharpen her pencil.

Rosalyn Hendershot must leave someone to guard her room while she delivers mail, and evidently they lock her out, for when she delivers the mail, she knocks on her own door and awaits an entrance.

Prof. J. D. Irwin has given his hymnology class the authority to plan a church service and use old hymns. The class seemed much interested and responded quite well. Rosalyn Hendershot's responding, we found later, was due to the thought of an offering. Some people think of everything!!!!

Prof. Redford asked Clarence Barrows if his name was "Barrows—Plural", and he said, "No—it is Clarence."

Ray Dunning appears to be "sleeping" his way through college. He slept through the lecture the other day.

I have heard of people being frightened of most everything, but Andy Benson beats all. He was running all over the boys dormitory trying to find a bed. Evidently he was frightened of his own. However, he finally made a happy landing on the floor, under his own bed and put up for the night. Do you suppose he got his beauty rest??????

There was a "head-on collision" on second floor of McKay Hall recently. Clarabelle Hardesty had been working on the radiator in Lottie Phillips room and was attired in her pajamas. She dashed out the door not knowing the night watchman was near, and ran right into him. I don't know who ran—Clarabelle, or the night watchman!!!

Mary Lee Saxon and John Chambers have started this new year by being together. Could it be a resolution??? Good luck, to you, John and Mary Lee, we like you this way!!!!

And now ye people this is all,
I have given you my views,
I have tried to tell you gossip,
Some information and even some news.

So until the next issue,
Then some more news to you I'll tell,
So be good, be careful and look out
And now I'll say, "Farewell".

—Ed. Phillips.

NOW FOR A SMILE

Nobody Laughed

A clergyman and his wife were receiving a call from a parishoner. The clergyman's small son, aged nine walked up to the visitor and gazing intently at her, said, "My! Aren't you homely!"

His horrified mother sought to undo the mischief as well as she could. "Why, Ralph," she said, what do you mean?"

"I only m-m-meant it for a joke," stammered Ralph.

The mother pushed disastrously onward: "Well!" she said, "It would have been a much better joke if you had said, 'How pretty you are!'"

Reinforced

"Laughed that off," said the fat man's wife as she sewed his vest button on with wire.

As the Faculty Sees It

The influence of reading upon development of character is a well known fact. To what extent this is true cannot be measured exactly but we do know that to a great degree our ideals, standards of conduct, ambitions and major interests are changed by the type of reading we do. By observing a student's reading a teacher is often able to learn a great deal about his background and home training. Since the major portion of knowledge is obtained through reading it might be well for us to check up on ourselves to see if what we read is of an elevating and enriching nature or that which might be classed as questionable or even degrading.

We are told that the inventing of the printing press was one of the most important inventions of all times since it has added more to the cultural life of the average person than perhaps any other invention. There is no longer any excuse for a person being ignorant or uneducated, regardless of his circumstances in life.

Mrs. A. B. Mackey

The establishment of our public library system, supported from state or municipal funds has made available to all classes of people a wealth of material which may be had just for the asking. Even if one has not had an opportunity for formal schooling he can still be well informed by forming good reading habits.

Just as the type of clothes we wear and the food we eat indicate our taste in those matters, so the material we read indicates our mental taste and frequently our mental age. The importance of training children and young people in the formation of proper reading habits cannot be over emphasized and cannot be begun too soon.

How bleak and barren our lives would be without good books and periodicals. Through them the wisdom of the world is ours. A love for and an appreciation of the masterpieces of literature adds a richness to our lives without which we would be poor indeed. The whole gamut of human experiences are ours. There is a good book for every mood. If adventure, we may have brave deeds performed before our very eyes; exploration, the glitter of arctic ice or the blaze of desert sun can be our possession. The spirit of discovery, the thrill of invention, hours of wholesome laughter or perhaps moments close to tears—these are only a few of the rich experiences as well as pleasures that can be ours through reading of good books.

What do you read? It is rather a clear indication of your ideals, ambitions and major interests or perhaps even what you yourself are.

—Mrs. A. B. Mackey.

"I said to a man that stood at the gate of the year: 'Give me a light that I might go safely into the unknown.' And he said to me—'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be better to thee than light and safer than a known way.'"

Live life to the full, but always in the open.

Don't try to dodge around God; He is too big to avoid.

There is no better exercise for the heart than reaching down and lifting people up.

The sense of present afflictions should not drown the remembrance of former mercies.—Matthew Henry.

The grave is but a covered bridge, leading from light to light, through a brief darkness.—Long-fellow.

If you insist on everyone being like you, look nowhere but in your mirror.

Ability is the bed-rock of all progress.

To work, to study, to think, to be happy, to be useful, to radiate all the kindred worth while graces of life should be the cherished aim of all.

Moments of Meditation

AFRICA

"I slept. I dreamed. I seemed to climb a hard, ascending track. And just behind me labored one whose face was black. I pitied him, but hour by hour he gained upon my path. He stood beside me, stood upright, and then I turned in wrath. Go back, I cried, what right have you to stand behind me here? I paused, struck dumb with fear, for lo! the black man was not there— But Christ stood in his place! and ah! the pain, the pain, The pain that looked from that dear face."

I PRAYED TODAY

By Grace Noll Crowell

In my quiet room I talked with my Friend today; I opened my heart to Him with its weight of care. I spoke of the burdens I carried along the way; I sought His help as I knelt at His feet in prayer. I told Him my griefs, forgetting He knew them all; I prayed for my own, forgetting that He could see Within their hearts each need, though great or small, Each unsolved problem and dark perplexity. In my quiet room I talked with the Friend I love, As He engineered His planets, His stars, His suns; My little world was what I was dreaming of, My little day, and my own near precious ones.

And He with His hands on the universe, His eyes Upon endless space and the sweys of eternity,

Bent above me, listening to my cries,

And forgetting my faults and failures, answered me.

WHEN LOST IN THOUGHTS OF PRAYER

By Laura Emily Mau

We rise into a higher realm When lost in thoughts of prayer, And meet all those who also pray Who dwell on earth somewhere, United by the Christ to share His peace that follows prayer.

THE CLUE TO A HAPPY LIFE

By Rosalyn Hendershot

A life of love and happiness Is one that God alone can give If we but turn our heart to Him That He within might live. Christ died for all Why turn ye Him away Open your heart And let Him in today. He loves the rich The poor and weak The low discouraged man The Shepherd now doth seek. Listen to His calling voice And heed His message sweet That you may have a happy life, None else could ere complete.

skimp sketch

Are you too old to play Dr. I. Q? If not, let's pretend that I am the Dr. and that you are the contestant. I have for you a biography of a certain senior in high school who is attending T. N. C. You are to tell me of whom I am speaking with as few clues as you can. Are you ready for the first clue? Clue No. 1—This individual was born in Waverly, Ohio, in 1926, but she now lives in Chillicothe, Ohio.

Clue No. 2—Her hobby is men. Clue No. 3—She is interested in wind mills. (You know the kind that blows men in her direction.)

Clue No. 4—Her visions for the future are to take some college work after graduation this spring; then she wants to go to a nurse's training school in Nampa, Idaho.

Clue No. 5—After she receives her education, she plans to go to China as a medical missionary.

Clue No. 6—For the last clue I will tell you what she looks like. She has dark brown hair, brown eyes and olive complexion. Elosti Eksov

FRESHMAN OUTING

The College Freshman Class gave an outing Monday night, January 12, to honor the new freshmen. They chartered a city bus and went to Sycamore Lodge in Shelby Park. Delicious food was served including hamburgers, potatoes, doughnuts and drinks.

Ask Dr. Gresham if the games were fun and if he can hop like a rabbit yet. After playing games for a while, an extemporaneous program was given. A quartet including Homer Benson, who incidentally was said to be the life of the party, Craig Ayers, A. D. Boone and Brock Speer, gave some barber shop numbers. Joyce Oliver gave some of her favorite jokes. Paul Summers, a new student of West Virginia, won the prize by impersonating a metador in a bull fight. He was really good, so they say. Everyone seemed to have loads of fun.

JUNIOR CLASS SELLS PENNANTS

Have you seen the new Trevecca pennants the College Juniors are selling? Their class ordered 204 of them from Lowe-Campbell Sporting Goods Company. These pennants are purple with white felt nap lettering. They are being sold by College Juniors for the benefit of their class.

HELP MR. SPEECH TO GET HOME

A speech major has been added to the curricula of Trevecca College this year but the speech department, in its infancy, is suffering from a lack of material with which to work.

The students in the speech classes decided to do something about this and have pledged $450.00 among themselves to be used for books on speech. Of this amount, $75.00 has already been paid. The students are already buying a recording machine for having their voices recorded in order to discover speech defects.

If you look in the speech room you will see a drawing of a little house with a little man climbing the steps toward home. This is a scale showing the amount of money that has been collected and $5.00 is necessary to let Mr. Speech get to the Speech House. After he reaches the $250.00 mark at the top of the hill he should run down the rest of the steps. We would like to invite you to visit the speech room to see this clever drawing and we urge you to help get Mr. Speech to the Speech House.

NEW SECRETARY OF STATE TAKES OFFICE

The new Secretary of State, General George C. Marshall, was sworn into office last Monday and immediately conferred with the president on problems facing him in his first non-military post.

Marshall received the oath of office from Fred M. Vinson, Chief Justice of the United States, at 11:00 A. M. at a ceremony in Mr. Truman's office. Witnesses were: Secretary of State, James F. Byrnes, and other members of the President's Cabinet.

Shortly before the ceremony, Byrnes signed the peace treaties with the Axis satellite countries—his last official act before Marshall took office. Byrnes was forced by ill health to give up his post.

GOVERNORSHIP OF GEORGIA A PERPLEXING PROBLEM

The right to governorship of Georgia has presented a perplexing problem to every one except Herman Talmadge, son of the late Eugene Talmadge. He said the legislature had elected him and appointed a committee to seat him. The executive offices, he said, were taken over peaceably during Arnold's absence.

M. E. Thompson, who is the Lt. Governor to the governor elect would normally be the rightful claimant to the office, however the Governor elect died before being seated and there was no law by which the Lt. Governor could make claim to the chair.

Young Talmadge has been holding the office, and he said that he would continue to do so, by force if necessary.

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA—(ACP)Two or three years from now there may be more Americans alive than if there had been no World War II. So says Dr. Vern O. Knudson, professor of physics and dean of graduate study on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California.

saved as a result of medical research during the war will soon exceed the number of boys killed in the war." Dr. Knudsen adds that, apart from winning the war and producing atomic energy, more benefits are likely to follow from the researches in the life sciences and medical sciences than from those in the physical sciences.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—(ACP)—Law, the very subject for which Thomas Meunier studied and received his degree at Loyola University boomeranged and prevented him from becoming an attorney. According to Supreme Court law, Tom, who is 19, cannot practise law in Louisiana until he is 21 years old, even though he has already passed the state bar examination.

"It's true I can't go into court as an attorney yet, but think of all the experience I'll have when I'm of age to be admitted to the bar," Tom said. "I'll have two years more than the average 21-year-old graduate." While waiting to grow older, he is doing legal work for the Social Security Administration.

NORMAN, OKLA.—(ACP)—Maybe the third piggy had the right idea when he built his house of brick, but an unclassified student at the University of Oklahoma took a lesson from Tommy Turtle and built his house on a truck so that night may never catch him far away from home.

When G. E. "Skip" Landen, Stuttgart, Arkansas, decided to enroll at the university, and learned the seriousness of housing problems he bought a 2½ ton enclosed army truck. After installing a bed, electric refrigerator, stove and other housekeeping essentials, he fastened them to the floor and drove off to Norman.

Since arriving at the university, he has installed shelves, built-in radio, record player, curtains sink and dozens of other articles to make the model home. This summer he plans to travel without ever leaving home.

LAWRENCE, KANSAS—(ACP)—"This nation is definitely headed for a depression"—John Ise, professor of economics at the University of Kansas is certain about that. But he won't go any farther with his predictions.

The coming depression may be a sort of mixture, he estimates, with some trades like construction and the automobile going full tilt and others in a steep downgrade. The farmers will undoubtedly be hit, he thinks, but may lose their prosperity over a period of years and not in one great drop.

The severity of the depression will depend largely on the actions of the government, he believes, and furthermore, if we think depression is coming, then it will come all the faster. For instance, of a man puts off buying a car or building a garage because he's afraid of depression, he contributes largely to bringing on one, concludes the Kansas economist.

Dr. Gresham was complimented highly by Dr. S. J. Folmsbee, managing editor, for his contribution to the 1946 edition of this magazine.

In the Tennessee Historical magazine, another article was published which was also written by Dr. Gresham. A copy of this edition has been presented to the College library.

SPEECH DEPARTMENT HAS NEW RECORDER

The newest addition to the speech laboratory is a new electric-wire recorder, valued at $600.00 and paid for by laboratory fees from students enrolled in the speech department. This machine will record 13,000 times on the same wire without added expense. It gives accurate recording in regard to tone, time, and pitch.

The reaction of most students, who have made recordings on the machine has been, "Do I sound like that?" According to Milton Turney, member of one of the speech classes, "We hear ourselves as others hear us,"

Anyone not signed up for laboratory speech, students or faculty members, may see Miss Hooper about a recording. For a small fee, according to time used, you may have a recording made of your own voice either speaking or singing. The machine will be operated solely by Miss Hooper, who is head of the Speech Department.

MARCH OF DIMES

The school is asked to cooperate with the March of Dimes. The drive in Nashville is sponsored by the local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The founder of this organization was Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was stricken with this disease.

An interesting article about the child who is pictured on the posters that we see here in the school was written in the home newspaper, The Corydon Republican, of one of our students.

The article reads as follows: "The poster girl for the 1947 March of Dimes, pretty little Nancy Drury, is the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Drury of Louisville, Kentucky. They formerly lived on a farm two miles southwest of New Middletown, Indiana where his brother, Clarence now lives. Nancy was chosen to symbolize the fight against infantile paralysis because of her own remarkable recovery from the disease."

This winning fight against infantile paralysis should encourage us, as students to join in contributing to the Drive all that we can. Containers for your dimes have been placed in the dining hall and in the library.

Dr. Mackey Has Extensive Trip

Dr. Mackey has recently returned from a trip to Kansas City and Boston. In Kansas City he attended the meeting of the District Superintendents and the General Board, in connection with the Department of Church Schools and Education.

He then went to Boston as one of the three representatives from the Church of the Nazarene to the Council of Protestant Denominational Education Boards. The other two were Dr. Mann and Dr. Ludwig. They attended the meeting of the Commission of Christian Higher Education which is part of the Association of American Colleges.

Dr. Mackey also visited the campus of Eastern Nazarene College.

BROWNING-ROBINSON WEDDING

Miss Phyllis Lee Browning and Mr. Doyle D. Robinson, Jr. students, were united in marriage January 11. The wedding ceremony was performed at the home of the bride in Logan, West Virginia with the bride's father, Reverend John Browning, officiating.

The bride wore a street length aqua dress with brown accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. Patricia Carte was the maid of honor and Flora Canterbury lit the candles. Their corsages were of pink carnations. Carson Browning, Jr. was the best man.

After the wedding the couple went to Huntington, West Virginia and Cincinnati, Ohio for a wedding trip. They are now living at Johnson's Tourist Home in Nashville.

CHAPEL ALTAR UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Work that the College Senior Class of 1946 started is still going on under the direction of Christeen Miller who is doing post-graduate work for an A. B. degree with a major in History.

The class had as their project last year to buy a new altar for the chapel. This altar is under construction now. This will be a beautiful addition to our chapel.

PAINTING PRESENTED

Christ, told an interesting history of the picture, and related various experiences he had had as a salesman in selling these pictures.

The company for which he works allowed Mr. Gunn to place a picture wherever he chose. "I could think of no other place where it would do more good than at Trevecca," Mr. Gunn said.

Prof. Irwin sang, "I Know a Name," as the beautiful painting, called "Inspiration," was unveiled by Lesper Heflin, president of the student body. In acknowledging this gift, Dr. Mackey stated it was the most unusual contribution ever made to Trevecca College.

THIS COLLEGIATE WORLD
(By Associated Collegiate Press)

The amusing story is related of the young man who had never seen a fried fish ball until he went to Syracuse. Thinking they were doughnuts, he purchased one for himself and for his female companion. Breaking one open, he sniffed suspiciously of the contents and then swiftly grabbed the young girl's arm as she was about to indulge.

"Don't eat that doughnut, Sally," he shakily warned her, "there's something dead in it."

That's Silly

"I work in a shirt factory."
"Well, why aren't you working today?"
"We make night-shirts."

Senior Girl Has Commendable Record

Iris Harris, College senior from Dickson, Tennessee, has made a commendable record at Trevecca. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winifrey Harris, and is the only girl in a family of seven boys.

She attended Few's Chapel and Central High School at Dickson. Iris was editor of her high school paper, "The Dickson Hi-Spy" for one year.

She was converted at Oak Grove Church under the ministry of Reverend B. Wade Downing, July 31, 1941.

After graduation from high school she worked for Henry J. Seigel Manufacturing Company in Dickson. Later she was influenced by Paul Harris, a former Trevecca student, and her pastor to come to Trevecca in 1942. After a year at Trevecca she taught the primary grades at Hill Crest Elementary School. She returned to Trevecca the next year.

When a sophomore she was president of her class for one quarter. She was a reporter on the Trev-Echoes staff for two years. She is secretary of the senior class this year.

Iris has been active in Christian Work. At the present time she is captain of the work in the women's department at the jail.

When asked about her ambitions, Iris replied, "To build a rock house", but we have evidence to believe her real ambition is to get a Ph.D.

Iris will receive her A. B. degree in June of this year with a major in English and a minor in history.

"Trevecca has meant everything to me," Iris said. "Sometimes I think I never really lived until I came here."
