DEATH OF DR. NEASE

Orval J. Nease was born at Nashville, Michigan, on December 25, 1891, and was called to his eternal reward at 6:30 p. m., Tuesday November 7, 1950. At an early age he was converted and later sanctified wholly. He soon felt the divine call to the Christian ministry and gave himself earnestly to preparation for it.

Dr. Nease graduated from Pasadena College, Pasadena, California, and took his graduate degree in religion from Boston University, seeking always to prepare himself to be an effective servant of God. Along with his brother, Rev. Floyd W. Nease, who preceded him in death, he was ordained as a minister in the Church of the Nazarene at Pasadena, California, June 23, 1918 by the late General Superintendent H. F. Reynolds.

On June 26, 1917, he was united in marriage to Emma Spring, to which union one son, Orval J., Jr., Nease was born. Mrs. Nease passed away March 11, 1919.

On August 29, 1920, Dr. Nease was married to Katherine Miller, who has been his faithful companion until his death. To this union one son, Robert, was born.

Dr. Nease's service to the Kingdom of the Church of the Nazarene extends over a period of thirty-five years as pastor, evangelist, college president, church school executive, and general superintendent. He held pastorates at Phoenix, Ari-

The significance of Trevecca's as it is—The Voice of God speaking!

Christian education was highlighted in both the morning and evening convocations of the Founder's Day observance. Students, alumni, and friends of the school were privileged to hear in the morning service the wife of our founder, Mrs. J. O. McClurkan. Mother McClurkan stated briefly that the school, still a young organization, has now as well as in its beginning, an important part to play in the educating of those who are especially interested in Christian service, her daughter, Mrs. Merle Heath, then delivered the morning address. According to Mrs. Heath the world is now facing its most enlightened days of education and science; yet the world is also facing its darkest days with the terror of atomic warfare close to our very door. She remarked that only Christendom held the answer to the present situations. Her entire address was centered around the importance of the Bible. Mrs. Heath said that her father, Rev. McClurkan, gave to Trevecca a burning torch of light by believing in and presenting to the school, the Bible simply "Pearl of Wisdom" — yes that is the true meaning of the word Darda and the meaning will be especially true of this 1951 Golden Anniversary Edition. The staff hopes to portray in this year's book the true spirit of Trevecca as she has progressed since the founding in 1901.

There will be many of the school's constituency who will wish to obtain this outstanding issue. The members of the Darda staff want to give to the students a chance to help present the annual to their home communities as well as to earn for themselves some Christmas money by soliciting subscriptions to the book.

The Darda will be sold this year for $5.00 With each subscription for the book the staff will give to the student a 10% commission that is $.50 for each book. In addition, the state club presidents will record the number of their organization and then the state club which sells the greatest number of books exceeding twenty-five, will be given their Darda picture free.

So come on everyone—get in the 10% campaign.

While home over the Thanksgiving holidays, see your friends, pastors and N. Y. P. S. presidents and sell them a Darda. This is a contest where everyone is a winner!!!

CHOIR SHOWS PROGRESS

The Trevecca College Choir under the direction of Mrs. E. K. Hardy contributed greatly to the Founders Day services by their selections in song. In the morning convocation they sang the spiritual airs "Deep River" and "Joshua 'Fit the Battle". In the evening convocation they rendered "Cherubim Song", "Beautiful Savior", and "Standing On The Promises".

They have scheduled several other performances including the Following Mrs. Heath's address Dr. James Lantrip, grandson of our founder, told us that he believed the Church world was seeing the need of becoming more united and standing more firmly for the truth of the Bible.

The concluding talks of the morning were given by teachers and former Trevecca students. Professor Redford directed this part of the convocation. Dr. Mackey presided throughout the activities of both this and the evening service.

Dr. C. E. Hardy delivered the evening message. He very vividly related the beginnings of the school and told how God had directed through what seemed to be utter impossibilities. The theme of his message was that as God had a purpose for Trevecca in its early beginning, so He now still has a divine purpose for this institution. His concluding remarks were for us to keep, along with our increasing educational development, a deep spiritual fervor.

Rev. E. K. Hardy concluded the

Thanksgiving and Giving

Thanksgiving will soon be here. Every American loves this day set aside to give thanks to God for His blessings on our land. But have we ever stopped to think just what Thanksgiving means? One-half of the word Thanksgiving is "giving". Take the "Giving" out and the word loses it's dynamic and becomes just an abstract idea. "Thanks" is just a lip expression, but "Thanksgiving" is expressing by acting. The Bible exhorts us to be doers of the word.

Do you get as much joy out of Thanksgiving as you'd like to? If not, perhaps you go about it backward. Several years ago two eminent psychologists developed a theretofore unheard of theory of emotions, called the James-Lange theory. According to this theory the bodily activity precedes the emotion. In other words, instead of getting angry and then fighting, a person fights and then gets angry. Instead of getting scared and then running, one runs and then gets scared. Maybe this idea would help us to enjoy Thanksgiving more. Perhaps instead of being thankful and then giving thanks, we should first give and then we would feel more thankful. If we base our giving upon the degree of thankfulness we feel, we're building our lives on feeling, and feeling is fluctuating. But if we invert the process and let our thankfulness be based upon our giving, we have a definite and concrete foundation upon which to build our lives.

Let's try the James-Lange theory this Thanksgiving. We have a chance to do so by giving to the Thanksgiving Missionary Offering. If we give all we can, then we'll enjoy Thanksgiving more than we ever realized was possible. This isn't just the idea of a psychologist. Even the Master-Teacher said, "Give and it shall be given unto you".

We now have a total of $315.90 in the offering. The goal is $600.00. If each student will give one dollar in the last offering Wednesday, we will exceed the goal. What do you say we do our best?

Next Thursday many of us will sit down to elaborate Thanksgiving dinners. Can we really enjoy it unless we give so that those in the world who are starving in body and soul may be fed on the Bread of Life?

Only by giving to others can we express our Thanks to God for what He has given us. The opportunity is ours. Shall we accept it? Remember that half of Thanksgiving is "Giving."

TIPS TO TREVECCANS

In Fulton Oursler's column in the Nashville Banner an interesting story was told of a psychologist who made a valuable experiment. The head of a factory frightened at a slump in company business, had asked the psychologist to make a talk to a discouraged sales force. The psychologist appeared on the platform carrying a large sheet of white cardboard. Holding it high, he singled out the sales manager sitting in the front row and asked: "Would you mind telling us what you see?"

The manager contemplated the exhibit with shrewd eyes and finally answered:

Man after man in the audience made a similar answer. They were all positive they saw the little black dot. The psychologist, Dr. Edwin Said:

"What you saw is what you chose to see. Except for that one unimportant little dot, this sheet is blank. There is enough white space for Shakespeare to write Hamlet's soliloquy, Lincoln his Gettysburg address, Moses the Ten Commandments. More there is space there to compose an advertisement that might galvanize your sales. But you must decide whether to see a fly speck or an opportunity.

Thus we are all faced with the question of seeing the small things we choose to see or the possibilities that might come out of those situations.

This is our school home. We are here for the year but are our manners, our neatness and the capacity that we have for keeping things clean here, also? Have we brought these along with us and established them in our new home as much as we practiced them back home? Do we see the black spot and not the possibility of making this college campus the cleanest and most beautiful one in the country?

Take a look club presidents and class leaders, this is the opportunity you have been looking for, in regard to those projects which must be decided. Start a campaign to keep the campus clean and beautify it as much as you can this year. When we leave for summer vacation we want the faculty to see the improvements and changes that have taken place by the students of 1950-51 the golden anniversary year of our school.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Question of the week! One that concerns all college freshmen and will determine the vital issue of "who gives who a party" in the spring. These freshmen sound confident that with their wit and wisdom they will be able to solve the cake code. Ye ole inquiring reporter has searched and listened among the freshmen for bits of information about the breaking of the code. Sophomores, take heart, don't give up until the answer is given and after all it might not be solved. So here goes; what do you as a freshman think about the cake code? These are the answers we received.

Virginia Curl: I hope the cake is good when we find it.

Lila Harris: It is a nice custom and I feel sure the freshmen will work out the code.

Ruth Heiftje: It will take a lot of concentration to figure it out, but we are willing.

Frances Foster: The Sophomores have ben so good to us it would not seem right for them to give us another party but we feel like we are on the road to solving the code.

zona, First Church; Meridian, Texas; Columbus, Ohio, First Church; and Detroit, Michigan, First Church. From 1928 to 1933 he was president of Pasadena College, Pasadena, California.

In 1928 Dr. Nease was elected as editor in chief of church school periodicals and executive secretary of the Department of Church Schools for the general church. In this area he rendered distinguished service to the cause of Christian education. In 1940 the General Assembly of the Church of the Nazarene elected Dr. Nease as one of the four general superintendents. He served in this capacity until 1944. H was re-elected as general superintendent in 1948 and served in that capacity until the time of his death.

Although Dr. Nease had not been well for some time, his home-going came as a distinct shock to the church. He had just completed his last district assembly at Miami, Florida, on October 19, and was at home resting from his recent labors. He suffered a relapse on Monday November 6, and was taken to Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena, where he passed away.

Hello everyone! All girls please lean your ear this way, Don Morrow has become well insured. Mr. McManus spoke to the History of Math class and by applying his sales talk in his unique way, awarded him the honor of writing up a policy for Don.

During the Founder's Day exercises we were honored to have some of the Trevecca zone District Superintents visit our campus. Rev. Otto Stucki, Alabama; Dr. L. T. Wells, Kentucky; and Rev. Victor Gray, East Tennessee.

Rob Staples received a letter from a former student, Robert Gray. Robert is very busy as the Student Council president at the Seminary, and also pastoring a church. He says that the Trevecca students at the Seminary are doing fine. They are Ford Boone, Harold Coats, Wallace Thompson, Carl Pratt, Bill Martin, Paul McGrady, and Frank Tuggle.

Mrs. Hardy and Mrs. Bennett attended the meeting of the National Association of Teachers of Singing which was held last Tuesday. The afternoon session was at David Lipscomb and the evening session at Peabody. Present were some of the most outstanding voice teachers of this vicinity who presented some of their students. Mrs. Hardy believes that Trevecca is on the right track aesthetically.

Curtis Spraker doesn't sleep in his shoes and socks but he is hoping to die with his boots on.

Most of the Freshmen and Sophomore boys have decided not to enlist for the Navy because they are not over their sea sickness which they contracted riding in the rented truck to the Freshmen-Sophomore outing.

Julia Ann Sullivan, Herman Slonecker and Rosalyn Appleby met Nashville's Busiest Woman, Sadie Hartman. She is the secretary for the Associated Retailers.

Don't eat too much Thanksgiving dinner and be sure to be back for your first class after the holidays or you may have to pay Miss Person a friendly visit and afterward be a few cents more broke.

While you are away remember: —"Be thankful unto Him, and bless His name. For the Lord is good; His mercy is everlasting; and His truth endureth to all generations" Ps. 100

Skimp Sketch

Accidents do happen sometimes even to the most careful. About thirty days ago, while enjoying a few of those cherished moments, namely "date time", an episode young gentleman of our school, took place involving a certain accompanied by one of our campus queens.

As he backed his blue "Chevy", which goes by the name of "AN-AUS", on the premises of a service station with intentions of turning around, suddenly and unexpectedly there appeared a gasoline pump. Not knowing the danger that lay ahead, he immediately shifted in low and started toward the street. However the rear bumper had become attached to the hose of the pump, and with a sudden jerk over toppled the pump "wight off its hinges". sure, there were damages, thirty dollars worth.

Born in Georgia but later moving to he Sunshine State, he hails from Jacksonville, Florida.

He has been a Nazarene since the age of fourteen, and having a definite call of God to preach, he is now in Trevecca preparing for an A. B. with a major in Religion.

A member of the Freshman class, he is interested in all the various activities of the school. He is presently teaching a young people's class in the church of his choice in the city and is secretary of the Florida club.

"Jesus save and sactifies, and I love none other above Him, is his testimony.

FINE ARTS PROGRAM DISPLAYS NEW TLENT

It has been said, "Music is like a tide. It carries us out of our everyday world and brings us back refreshed to do the tasks better that are assigned to us."

The Fine Arts recital last Friday evening was no exception to this proverb. One can listen to the higher and nobler things of this life and receive inspiration to do a better job of serving God and humanity.

Misses Alma Dell Fox and Betty Murray, pianists did a fine two piano arrangement of "Symphony No. 5 in C Minor" and "Turkish March 'Ruins of Athens'".

The audience was delightfully entertained by two newcomers to the Speech Department. Miss Ethyle Powell gave two readings, "The Potter's Hand" and the "Bird With The Broken Pinion".

Miss Barbara Heath gave a very unique portrayal of all the various "Freaks" that come with "Bargain Day at the Hoisery Counter". "Little Hatties' Chair" was also given by Miss Heath.

A soprano chorus composed of Billie Jean Reedy, Nell Knight, Barbara Wall, and Virginia Taylor rendered three songs, including the vivacious little number, "Come to the Fair".

Miss LaVera Applegate concluded the program with three very excellent piano numbers, the last of which was a very superb rendition of Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

VIEWS OF THE NEWS

Champ Traylor
World War III

World War III is here. Greece, China, Indo-China, Korea are battles in the real thing. Casualties already match a bag war. World War III is not waiting on the United States and Russia. It has been going on around the edges for a long time. It's getting hotter. World War II, as a practical matter, is going on now and the United States is in it. The U. S. and Russia have been enemies for years. Directly or indirectly. The U. S. and Russia have been involved on opposite sides of wars in Greece, Indo-China, Malaya, China, the Phillipines, and Korea.

Korea at the present is the major front, the biggest battle ground in World War III. Casualties officially announced before the heavy fighting just south of the Manchurian Border were close to 28,000, probably now the number exceeds 35,00. If Moscow succeeds in getting the U. S. and China directly involved in war, the fighting in Korea may look like a small skirmish.

In taking a general view of the world situation, we readily conclude that Russia and the United Stated are well into World War III. Russia, conserving its own forces, is out to force the U. S. to exhaust its growing strength in wars in Asia. The U. S., increasingly aware that World War III is already on, is moving warily.

Left to mourn his loss are Mrs. Nease, his faithful companion; two sons, Rev. Orval Nease, Jr., pastor of the Church of the Nazarene at Ontario, California, and Robert, of the home; Mrs. William O. Nease, his mother, of Pasadena; a brother, Byron D., of Glendale; one sister, Mrs. Joseph Herrell, of Pasadena, California; two grandchildren, Joan and Sharon; besides a host of friends across the nation.

The life and ministry of General Superintendent Nease were characterized by a passion to win souls for Christ and loyal devotion to the Church of the Nazarene. He was an able minister of the Word and an effective exponent of the doctrine of holiness.
