Alumni Phone-a-thon Brings National Recognition to Trevecca

By Cindy Wright
Staff Writer

Seventy-five faculty, students, and alumni participated in this year's 5th annual Phone-a-thon. The money raised from the Phone-a-thon provides funds for the operation of the college, student scholarships and teaching improvements.

This year's Phone-a-thon lasted four weeks, beginning April 21st and ending May 15th. As of May 12th forty-two thousand dollars had been pledged with 13 thousand more to go to reach the 55 thousand goal. 1,387 calls were made, with 901 completed and 898 alumni pledging. If the alumni is not reached they are sent materials on the Phone-a-thon asking them to pledge. They are given a year to pay their pledge.

Dr. George Privett, who is in charge of the alumni said that people want us to call. One lady said, "I feel hurt if I do not get a call from someone."

The callers use color coded cards to separate the year's the alumni attended. Gold for 20's, 30's, 40's; Green for 50's; Cherry for 60's; Yellow for 70's; Blue for 80's and White for the misc. These cards are to help the caller keep things in order, keep track of who has given in the past, and who they have and haven't called. The callers are provided with refreshments each night to keep them going and T-shirts for their hard work. It takes a lot of time and effort on the callers part to make the Phone-a-thon a success.

Phone-a-thoners pose for the camera at Phone-a-thon

Privett says, "I am impressed by the goodwill created by the Phone-a-thon and that the callers have fun renewing acquaintances with the alumni."

Because of the 1984-85 increase in alumni giving compared with the previous year TNC is a finalist in the U.S. Steel Alumni Award for having over a 25% increase in alumni participation and giving.

Privett concludes by saying, "When you raise and remember friends, funds come along."

Annual God & Country Day Set for Monday

By Billie Jean Wheet
Staff Writer

As I recall, God & Country day last year was a tremendous event. It took place on Memorial Day just as it will this year. I feel like this year's event will be just as exciting as the last one.

The music department will be taking part on this Memorial Day. The Trevedores and Trevecca's choirs will be performing. Fred Mund will be the music coordinator and in charge of any other special music along with Walter Heck.

Dr. Toby Williams is the coordinator for speakers. As of now, Congressman Bill Boner, poet-laureate of Tennessee "Peck" Gunn, and Pastor Jones from Grace Church of the Nazarene will be speaking.

Bill Boner is married and has two children. At one time, he was Trevecca's basketball coach. He is currently a democratic congressman from the fifth district and will be up for re-election this year.

Uncle "Peck" Gunn has spoken here at Trevecca on many occasions. He is the author of numerous poems and writing. Two of his more widely known poems include "Tumblin Creek" and

"School Yard Bully." He travels all over and is active in the Billy Graham crusades.

Pastor Jones has been at Grace Church for approximately three years. It will be a privilege to have each of these speakers here to celebrate Memorial Day, May 26, 1986, with us at Trevecca.

Wayne Gallup will sing the National Anthem on this special day. There will also be a large American flag used to line the background. Take notice of this flag. It is loaned to us by Mr. Cotton of Cotton's Texaco Station on Murfreesboro Road where it flies most of the year.

There will be a marine color guard to add the finishing touches to this Memorial Day service. The color guard is from Inspector Instructor Staff of the United States Marine Corp training center in Nashville, Tennessee.

It seems interesting that Trevecca is the only college in the area that has a special celebration for Memorial Day. Partly for this reason there will be area media coverage for this event by two or three different stations.

Due to the fact that Trevecca is changing to the semester system, we will only be able to participate in this event one more year since school will be dismissed for summer break early in May. This celebration is one that we as a school will want to be a part.

Sponsorship for this Memorial Day service is held by the Veterans Club and Civitans. They have worked extremely hard to put this service together. Do yourself a favor and do not miss this chapel service. It has been considered to be by some, one of the best chapels of the year.

Editorial

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor,

This is another nasty note complaining. This time I'm complaining about complaints. I wrote a letter, as you know, to you last month for publication into the student newspaper of TNC. I felt confident that it would be published in full. I was shocked at the censoring of my letter. It lost its whole purpose & meaning.

The policy states that "the opinions are not necessarily those of students, faculty or administration or Trev-Echoes staff but those of the author." Then why censorship? You do reserve the right to edit without impairing the meaning but you did. I would like this printed with an explanation. You left so much out it hurt. It is of my opinion that censorship of this kind expressed the opinions of faculty, administration & Trev-Echoes staff.

Sincerely,
Jim Barber

P.S. Why not print the whole letter now so that the rest can understand how much you censored.

Dear Mr. Barber,

The disclaimer printed on the editorial page of Trev-Echoes is required by the ASB Constitution of Trevecca Nazarene College. You do not refute this. However, in that same section (Statute 4, Section 2) it is further stated:

In the delegation of editorial responsibility to students the college must provide sufficient editorial freedom and financial autonomy for the student publications to maintain their integrity of purpose as vehicles for free inquiry and free expression in a Christian, academic setting. At the same time, the corollary responsibilities are to be governed by the canons of responsible journalism, such as avoidance of libel, indecency, undocumented allegations, attacks on personal integrity, and the techniques of harassment and innuendo.

Sir, I must exercise positional authority here when I interpret the above statement of legal responsibility to mean that the governing members of Trevecca have entrusted me with the freedom to exercise editorial freedom — freedom to carry out what I feel is responsible journalism.

I consider the paragraph omitted to contain slanderous material. With consistency, I have verbally told many persons in the past to avoid personal attacks. I have not changed my policy off-the-record. Also, I found your letter and the omitted paragraph in particular to have been written hastily and to have been poorly thought out.

I am sorry that the remainder of the content of your letter could not stand on its own, but that was unavoidable due to the circumstances at hand.

As a final note, should you decide for yourself that such information excluded is vital to the going concern of this college and its members, please research your allegations, have proper documentation in hand and in writing — then it will be duly considered for public scrutiny.

The Editor.

Editorial Policy

Opinions expressed in editorials and letters are not necessarily those of the students, faculty or administration of Trevecca Nazarene College, or the Trev-Echoes staff, but are those of the author.

Letters are welcomed, but they must be typed and should not exceed 300 words. Unsigned letters will not be accepted, but names will be withheld upon request.

Trev-Echoes reserves the right to edit without impairing the meaning.

Hints For The Job-Hunter: How to Prepare and Appear at Your Job Interview

By Rodney Laughlin
Author of The Job-Hunter's Handbook

PACKAGING THE PRODUCT — YOU

Two things should accompany you in every interview: a list of intelligent questions and proper dress. One thing should never go with you: a parent! You're on your own when it comes time to get a job.

QUESTIONS

When you appear at an interview with a set of typed questions there is a subtle message: "I have prepared. I consider this experience important." It constantly amazes me (and other businessmen) that students often appear at interviews without even knowing what a company makes. Do some research on the company well ahead of the interview. Talk to some of its customers, suppliers, and employees. Read its annual report if it is publicly owned. Check with the local newspaper to see if they have run any articles on it. Check the periodical indexes or computer databases in your school library. While you are reading these articles, jot down questions that come to your mind.

Always go to an interview with your questions typed on 8½x11 paper. Until you are used to interviewing, you will find it hard to read your questions with quick glances at your paper. If your questions are typed, you will be able to read them more quickly than if they are handwritten. Typed questions also leave more room for note-taking. Double or triple-space your questions so that there is room for you to make notes between them.

Remember, the interview is for you to learn about the company as well as for them to learn about you. The more intelligent and efficient you are at asking questions, the more an employer will want to hire you. They are seeking college graduates because they want thinking people.

APPEARANCE

Appearance can make or break you. That's why manufacturers will spend over one-hundred million dollars this year simply to determine how to package their products. That's why many companies spend more money improving packaging than improving product quality.

How you package yourself may be more important than how much you know. The reason is threefold. First, employers believe dress affects their offices. Second, every day you are seen by many people who never see your work or hear you speak. Those people will judge you by the way you look. Third, your appearance gives a subconscious message about who you put first: others or yourself. That last point may be a shocker to you. You may never have considered your appearance as saying, "I put you first" or "I put myself first," but it does.

Studies have shown that many businessmen will make hiring decisions solely on the basis of clothes. That may seem ridiculous, but it's not. They know that clothing says something.

The primary principle is "Dress for the job you want." Observe how people in your target occupation dress; then wear similar clothes for your interview.

Whatever you wear, be sure that it is clean and pressed. If you do not care how your clothes look at an interview, the employer will feel that you will not care how you look at work.

When interviewing for an office job, men should wear a suit. Sport coats are a real risk. Women should wear a suit or tailored dress. You might break this rule if you are interviewing with a company with a strong culture that rejects suits and ties. However, if the company simply has a loose dress code that allows casual dress, you should wear a suit. The suit should be conservative (blue, gray or beige for men). Simple patterns are best. Be sure there are no missing buttons or other signs that say "I don't care." Men should wear polished shoes (preferable with laces, not loafers).

Your hair should be clean and cut or styled in a moderate way that puts you in the mainstream of society. Overly short hair may work against you; extra long hair on men will definitely work against you.

If you have a beard or mustache it should be conservative (no handlebars), trimmed, and neat. If you decide to trim it off for an interview but intend to grow it back later you should ask the employer about the organization's feelings on facial hair. There's no sense taking a job with the intention of doing something that is frowned upon.

Your hands should be clean, nails trimmed and clean underneath. Be sure you do not have any food stuck in your teeth, and always carry a breath freshener to use before you arrive. (You shouldn't have anything in your mouth during the interview).

Men should wear only functional jewelry (such as a watch, wedding and/or class ring). Women should be conservative in their use of jewelry and make-up. It should be simple and appropriate to the situation.

By preparing questions and preparing yourself, you will show the interviewer that you would be a positive representative of his company. And you will show your packaging savvy by marketing well your most important product — you. ## Tennis Team Wins District 24 Championship

TNC Press Release

The Trevecca Trojans men's tennis team claimed the District 24 Men's Tennis Championship this past Monday, defeating Carson-Newman, 5-3. This marks the first time Trevecca has been represented in the National Play, in any sport.

Trevecca, which shared the Tennessee Collegiate Athletic Conference Championship with Freed-Hardeman, has an overall record of 21-3.

"This season has been a surprise — an exciting one," stated head coach Alan Smith. "We were fortunate to be able to pick-up Magnus Berglund & Olof Lundin after the school year started. We started conference play by losing to Freed-Hardeman and finished the season by defeating Freed-Hardeman to tie for the conference championship."

Tennis Notes:

—Trevecca Coach Alan Smith

was named TCAC Coach of the year in balloting by fellow coaches. "I feel this award is an honor from the standpoint that it was voted on by the other coaches," stated Smith.

This high-water mark comes in the wake of another first for the Trojan netters. Last week Trevecca defeated Carson-Newman College to claim the District 24 crown and advance to National competition in Kansas City, Missouri.

Tennis Notes:

Trojans: 'Miracle Kids' of 86

TNC Sports Release

The Trevecca Trojan Baseball team may be dubbed the "Miracle Kids of '86". After losing on the opening day of the District 24 baseball tournament and falling into the loser's bracket, the Trojans battled back to play for the District 24 Championship.

The double-elimination tournament which was played in Bristol, TN., opened on Wednesday (5/7/86) with the Trojans knocking off Carson-Newman, 12-7. Eric LaVoie went the distance for the Trojans while Doug Thompson went 5 for 6, 1 HR, at the plate.

In the second game of the day eventual District 24 Champion, host King College, defeated Trevecca 5-3. Ace righthander Bill Moore held the Trojans to 6 hits while striking out 10.

Forced into the loser's bracket, Trevecca played on Thursday (5/8) against Tennessee Wesleyan.

In one of the most exciting games of the tournament, Trevecca center-fielder Dwayne Gunter hit a 1-1 pitch over the rightfield fence for a grand slam home run with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Trojans an 8-7 victory.

On Friday (5/9) the Trojans defeated Carson-Newman for the second time, sending the Eagles packing for Jefferson City. After falling behind 5-1 in the fourth inning, the Trojans rallied to send the game into extra innings. A double by Popcorn Thompson drove in the winning run in the tenth.

In the second game of the day Trevecca downed Cumberland by the score of 5-2. Neil Helton threw 4 2/3 strong innings and Tim Bell went the rest of the way for the Trojans.

Saturday (5/10) set the stage for the dramatic. Could the "Miracle Kids of '86" pull out one more miracle and defeat King College for the District 24 Championship?

In the first game clutch pitching by Orville McCollough and Eric LaVoie stopped King, 7-3. The Trojans collected 13 hits to set up the final battle.

In the second game Trevecca once again faced ace righthander Bill Moore. The big righthander went the distance, allowing only 7 hits, as King defeated Trevecca, 5-1, to claim the District 24 crown and advance to Area play.

Trevecca finished the season with a 39-14-1 record.

Trojan Baseball Note:

—TNC third baseman Popcorn Thompson, was named to the All-District 24 Team.

—TNC pitcher Eric LaVoie was named to All-TCAC Team as a designated hitter.

—Trevecca finished the regular season ranked 16th in the Nation.
