Dedication

Oh, the comfort, the inexpressible comfort of feeling safe with a person, having neither to weigh nor measure words, but pouring them all right out, just as they are, chaff and grain together, certain that a faithful hand will take and sift them, keep what is worth keeping, and with the breath of kindness blow the rest away.

... Dinah Craik

Dr. Mildred Wynkoop, you have enriched our lives.

LIFE'S RELATIONSHIPS

Modern man is being buffeted by many divisive forces. In a densely populated society he is being isolated. As the world becomes a smaller unit, society becomes highly fragmented. More and more individuals are becoming anonymous. This lack of personal identity brings loneliness, a loss of self-esteem and frustration. In part, the solution is for the individual to have meaningful relationships with other people.

Robert S. Weiss, working in a community study with his associates in the Department of Psychiatry of the Harvard Medical School, came to the conclusion that there are five kinds of relationships essential to man. One was the opportunity of parents to nurture children. This procreation fulfills a Divine purpose and is essential to the ongoing of the human race.

Another relationship is knowing people with whom man can share his concerns. This meets man's social need for acceptance.

Knowing and having people upon whom we can depend is a relationship which provides us with "the needed function of assistance." The assurance that someone is there if needed gives poise and confidence.

The warm and intimate personal relationship of having close friends with whom man can express himself freely is vital to well-being. Without it there is an emotional void and a feeling of loneliness.

The last relationship mentioned by Weiss is that of knowing people who respect our competence. We need the reassurance of personal worth which comes from people understanding us for what we are and what we do.

Man's search for such relationships ends when he comes into a personal redeeming relationship with God through Christ. In that moment man is adopted into the "family of God" and in the family there is opportunity for the gratification of human relationships as well as Divine ones.

Although man can and may live a life without God, he will never be deeply and fully satisfied until he finds fulfillment in God through Christ. My personal hope and prayer is that EACH OF YOU will know the fulfilling relationship with God -- now and always.

FROM THE EDITOR

. . . So passes the year 1972-73. The days have gone, but the memories linger. It is my wish that this book will serve as a memory bank that will bring pleasure for years to come. The theme of the 1973 DARDA is expressed in one simple yet complex word—People. I have tried to document the fact that without people Trevecca Nazarene College would not be. A college is not buildings, books, or a campus— what makes a college is the PEOPLE. We the PEOPLE . . . make Trevecca. Let's seek to make it the very best school possible.

IN APPRECIATION:

I may never have a chance to thank all of you personally for your valuable assistance, therefore I will use this opportunity to express my appreciation to: -Mr. Howard Wall, our sponsor, for his patience and guidance. -Co-Business Managers, Richard Pride and Bill Dillon. -Ray Couey and Bob Henninger for long hours of work and willingness to go the extra mile. -Cathy Ray and the art staff for help with artwork. -A special thanks to all the DARDA Staff who helped bring this DARDA into existence

In Memoriam
