THE NAUTILUS

1937

VOLUME 14

PUBLISHED BY THE STUDENTS
OF
EASTERN NAZARENE COLLEGE
WOLLASTON, MASSACHUSETTS

DEDICATION

PROFESSOR LINFORD A. MARQUART

Through the practical emphasis of your teaching you have urged us to overcome our prejudices and to face the problems of life squarely. You have ever tried to show us that the religion of Jesus Christ when rightly understood is attractive, and challenging, and true to human need. We have come to realize that insincerity and inconsistency in any of their forms are ready targets for your withering scorn; and although you have frequently distressed us with moments of hard disillusionment, you have often gladdened us with flashes of mirthful humor. Somehow underneath everything you have given us a deep and lasting conviction that life is truly worth living—but more than that—it is worth living well.

Therefore, as a fervent expression of our gratitude, we dedicate to you the 1937 Nautilus.

"We believe in E. N. C.

"We believe in the achievement of her past, the challenge of her present, the promise of her future.

"We believe in the fidelity of those who guide her destiny, the sacrifice of those who love her, the inspiration of those who follow her ideal of Christian education."

ADMINISTRATION

"THOU WERT MY GUIDE, PHILOSOPHER, AND FRIEND."

PRESIDENT

G. B. WILLIAMSON

Youth, spirit, confidence,—of these has Eastern Nazarene College imbibed under the firm, irresistible leadership of our newly-appointed President G. B. Williamson. We have heard him confide with zest that he delighted in returning to the campus of E. N. C. after an absence. He recognized, he said, the buoyancy of youth and happiness. No less has he himself inspired every member of our school with his God-given optimism, his faith, his unflagging energy.

Yet we cannot measure his influence or success in this single year of his administration. One year of getting acquainted—and who can reject his broad smile and friendly handshake—one year of establishing confidence, of pursuing firm friendship,—he has promoted ideal conditions for progress under God's leadership.

Under the command of such a capable president, seeking divine guidance, Eastern Nazarene College looks toward the utmost of success, financial, educational, and spiritual. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God," "Study to show thyself approved unto God,"—these mottoes are woven into the very fibre of character-building E. N. C., made invincible by the support of choice leaders.

WHEN I THINK OF E. N. C.

Reprinted from The Campus Camera by special request

When I think of E. N. C. I think not of the Administration Building, of the Mansion, of the Cardboard. I think not of the Campus when season follows season in a never-ending procession of beauty. When I think of E. N. C. I think of people.

People. People who have been here before my time and who are unknown to me save as I hear mention of them—people who are here now, whom I know and who become part of my life—people who will come after me and who in turn will know me only through hearsay. This is the true E. N. C.

When I think of E. N. C. I think of the tremendous sacrifices many are making in order that E. N. C. may continue. I think of loyal professors who uncomplainingly give their all, their talents, their strength, their finances, that E. N. C. may exist. We read of heroism on the battlefield, in face of sudden dangers, but do we stop to think of the unsung heroism of those who daily take up their task of saving E. N. C.? The unflinching faithfulness of our professors is far greater and requires more courage than do deeds of heroism during moments of stress and emotion.

When I think of E. N. C. I think of friendships I have made, friendships that have molded and colored my life. Across the land is an ever increasing number of homes where the mention of E. N. C. is an open sesame, homes where live those I've known and loved here at school and homes of their loved ones,—all part of E. N. C.

When I think of E. N. C. I think of the Way of Holiness. Here it was that I found the Lord not only as my Saviour but as my Sanctifier. Here it was that I learned the preciousness of His promise, "I am with you always". Here I found rest and peace in the Lord.

When I think of E. N. C. I think of rank upon rank of those who have gone from these halls, who are fighting the forces of evil. To all parts of the globe they go carrying the Cross of Christ. To all parts of our own land they go fighting the world and its unsatisfying, empty pleasures.

Yes, when I think of E. N. C. I think of people, people who have enriched E. N. C. and who have in turn been enriched by her.

I salute you. Whoever you are, wherever you are, known to me or unknown, if you have a love for E. N. C. in your heart, if you have gratitude to her for benefits received, if you have an earnest desire for her welfare and progress, I salute you. We are all part of E. N. C.

"With eyes of microscopic power."

Mosses by a meadow brook—Gurth studying logic—yellow trumpet flowers.

When we think of Verner we immediately think of our beautiful campus and the part he has had in improving it. Verner has never actually painted the lily, but he has pruned her and petted her and coaxed her along until she has blossomed forth in her most gorgeous array and shown us what a lily really could be when she got a little flattering encouragement.

As president of the newly formed Honor Society Verner has introduced many worthy innovations, one of the best being the magazine drive for our library.

DOROTHY L. CARLSON
 Wollaston, Massachusetts
 English

"She has an eye that could speak, though her tongue were silent."

White violets—Buddha smiling—Portia playing tennis—May morning—spice cake on a Dresden tray—black opals.

"Dot" has come into her own at last. Living at home as she does, Dorothy was longer in showing us her talents; but true worth cannot be hid for long, and little by little we discovered that we had a thoroughly intellectual (as well as a thoroughly charming) classmate in Dorothy.

It was in the English Novel course that I really got to know Dot and to respect her judgment. She dissected and analyzed the characters with surgeon-like precision and diagnosed their actions as thoroughly as did ever a doctor diagnose a wealthy patient's blood pressure.

SENIORS

NAOMI J. CREAN

New Britain, Connecticut
English

"Persuasive, yet denying eyes, all eloquent with language of their own."

Pink mallow blossoms—vanilla creams — a Florentine silver cross — Cleopatra darning socks—acacia perfume.

I would not call Naomi a lady. She seems much more than that. She seems a woman. Graciously matured, serenely self-possessed, vibrantly alive, Naomi typifies Woman in the deepest, truest sense—a sense which makes "lady" weak and characterless.

To me a lady is a sort of model upon which are draped pretty manners, but within which the deepest chords of life's rich symphony are seldom struck. Naomi is not this. Naomi is the sort of girl who could greet princes with equanimity though she were dressed in gingham.

RUTH L. FADER

West Somerville, Massachusetts
Music

"One of the most wonderful things in nature is a glance of the eye."

Sparks of the Bostonian scintillate from "Ruthie's" personality. With her conservative New England habits you would never suspect her of impulsiveness or absent-mindedness. That is, until you talked to her for a few minutes and then had her suddenly revive, saying, "Oh, I'm sorry, what were you telling me?"

But these turns of individuality are Ruth. You tease her; roguishly she turns her eyes toward you and breaks into a tiny snicker which only urges you to tantalize more. And whence she draws her enthusiasm for winding out those endless fundamentals of piano playing we should all like to know.

SENIORS

MILDRED E. FISK

Edgewood, Rhode Island
Psychology

"A kind eye makes contradiction an asset."

A lace fichu—candied lemon peel—Lady Macbeth doing home mission work—cactus blossoms—garden peas.

We've all but lost our "Milly" of yesteryear, the Milly of the infectious laugh and raucous "Oh shoot!" In her place we have a self-contained and self-composed, dignified young lady whose third great commandment is, "In everything be neat."

Having tasted the evidence of her culinary prowess at our Senior dinner party, I am wondering if she is choosing wisely in adopting the teaching profession—but of course she can always avail herself of her woman's prerogative to change her mind.

C. BEVERLY GORDON

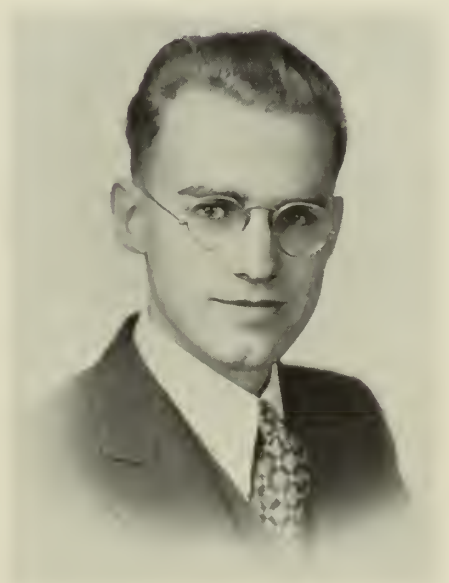

North Chelmsford, Massachusetts
English

"Men with gray eyes are generally keen, energetic."

How true this quotation is in "Bev's" case. Not only is he keen and energetic; he's methodical and foresighted as well. What's more, he always keeps his promises—and expects you to do likewise.

He came to me about the third day of school last September and said my Nautilus work would be due the third Tuesday in March. The day came, and before I was decently clothed and shaved "Bev" knocked on the door and said he'd take my write-ups over to the staff room and save me the bother. What a man! There's still some balm in Gilead, though—he once got C- in an exam.

The best of luck to you, Bev.

"Young men's love then lies,
Not only in the heart, but in the eyes."

It seems a bit strange to think of Jack having a church with all its problems and details. His light-heartedness reminds me of Chaucer's Squire in a Ford V Eight rather than of a preacher-man whose adoring congregation calls him "Brother Lanpher."

Too, he reminds me of Chaucer's Squire (who was a "lovyere") in that our Jack, it seems, is enamored of a ladye faire—in fact, we have it on good authority that he will soon middle-aisle it with the charming Gertrude.

We wish you well, Jack, in all your undertakings. May Life be kind to you and may each passing year enrich you and bless you.

ALICE E. NIELSON
Collingdale, Pennsylvania
English

"Through her expressive eyes her soul distinctly spoke."

Alice quickly outgrew her early reputation of being Marion Nielson's sister and became a personage in her own right—and justly so, for Alice has charm and talents to spare.

Quietly serene and self-confident, Alice moves unfalteringly toward her desired goals, be it the mastery of a difficult piece of violin music, a "lit." assignment, or a reluctant student. Oft times I've seen Alice raise her little pointed chin to a forty-five degree angle, looking uncompromisingly at someone (too often it has been myself) and saying in softly sweet accents, "Do you think you're the only busy person here? I shall expect you to be on the committee!"

Have you ever heard her play Gounod's Ave Maria?

SENIORS

RAY H. QUIGGIN
Cleveland, Ohio
Psychology

"Those eyes affectionate and glad, which seemed to love whate'er they looked upon."

Ray has the faculty of making you think you are the most important person in the world at the time he is talking to you. Very likely, however, he is practicing business psychology and is mentally calculating the number of "wimpys" he can sell you at the Dugout.

Modern advertising schemes are Ray's hobby. For example, he told me of a scheme whereby a restaurateur could make a fortune by blowing the tantalizing aroma of steak and onions over hungry street throngs while a torch-singer moaned, "You're the Cream in My Coffee" through a megaphone.

Clever, eh what? Ray's personality and ready smile will take him far.

MARY L. ROUNSEVELL
Brooktondale, New York
Psychology

"Two starry eyes hung in the gloom of thought."

Crocus blossoms—Mother Goose writing philosophy—beach plum preserves—starched pinafores.

When Mary looks up at you demurely you probably think of Little Women, or of the jingle telling that little girls are made of sugar and spice and everything nice. Be not deceived.

Of course far be it from me to deny that Mary is anything other than sugar and spice—but methinks the spice has a bit of a tang. Her drolleries, her good-natured mimics, her wit—be it ever so ladylike—all have a subtle flavor which takes them from the realm of the usual. In other words, she is the caviar canape rather than the baked rice pudding.

SENIORS

ARVIN A. SCHARER
Cleveland, Ohio
English

"When did morning ever break
And find such beaming eyes awake!"

Since "Arv" has taken unto himself a newspaper the above quotation hardly fits, for ofttimes morning finds him very much awake—he not yet having gone to bed.

"Arv" certainly deserves an orchid for editing such a splendid paper, which has necessitated numberless hours of work and devotion in the Campus Camera room.

So interested has he become in the various phases of college activities that he doesn't contemplate longer than ten minutes as to which suit he'll wear of a morning, and I haven't seen him twiddle his ears in months.

A toy soldier come to life—a spice geranium—candle flame—Beau Brummel.

FLORENCE L. SMITH
Flushing, New York
English

"An inviting eye; and yet methinks quite modest."

Well, well, well, Florence, here we meet again—and this time I shall do the talking. Do you recall Thomas Bailey Aldrich's poem Memory, wherein he forgets great things like wars and kings, and remembers two petals falling from a wild rose tree? That's what I shall do with your write-up.

I shall not mention the many ways in which you've shown your practical efficiency, your spirituality, and your other outstanding qualities. Long after I've forgotten those great things I'll remember a little hand-made card you sent me when I was sick—a card about The Road Beyond Tomorrow, do you recall it?

Truly I am rich in friendships I've made here at E. N. C.

"Her large eyes look at you with a royal indifference."

Esther might look at me with royal indifference most of the time, but in Spanish class—ah, that was different. There we had a common bond, so to speak. Esther's look of calm indifference gave way to one of hopeless resignation, which lightened by degrees as the hour passed, and with the ringing of the bell we both banged the covers on Don Quixote and the beautiful Dulcinea and grinned at each other with sympathetic comradeship.

Oftimes I've wondered if Esther was not sitting back contemplating, Buddha-like, upon the world and figuring out if possible why we behave like human beings.

MARION E. GALLUP

Danielson, Connecticut

Graduating in January, 1938

"In her eyes a thought."

Marion is not spectacular. Gently quiet and quietly gentle she goes her way, always gracious, always friendly, with just a hint of wistfulness and sadness.

Marion has known sorrow and this knowledge has left its imprint upon her—an imprint vaguely undefinable, but none the less real. A trace of mellow womanliness? Of sympathetic understanding? Both, I think, are found in her.

Marion reminds me of delicate porcelain, a cup of Chinese rice-ware, say. Nothing flamboyant, nothing spectacular, but charming in its translucent delicacy—a delicacy that denotes true fineness.

"All looks yellow to the jaundiced eye."

"Bev" asked me whom I wished to have do my write-up, but after thinking over the matter I decided perhaps I'd better do it myself. After all, I can't afford to take any chances.

I imagine several of my good friends would like to write me up—in fact, several have expressed a desire to string me up—but I'm not one to take chances. I shudder when I think what Ruthie Fader or Parson Bob might say. No, I'll play safe and write my own. Here 'tis.

I'm not such an awful bad sort after you get to know me.

*(Editor's Note: Mr. Garland is the author of the Senior write-ups.)

RUSSELL A. KLEPPINGER

Easton, Pennsylvania
Psychology

"The curious questioning eye that plucks the heart of every mystery."

I must tell this on Russ. He was cutting my hair one time long ago and when he got to the "shall-I-shave behind-the-ears" stage I, being lulled into a false sense of security, told him to go ahead. He shaved the left side and then, with a self-satisfied voice of achievement, acknowledged confidently, "D'ya know, this is only the second time I've ever done this?"

Isn't that like Russell, though? He faces each new problem confidently and says with great self-assurance, "Sure, I can do that"—and goes ahead and does it.

Picture: "Kleppie" unfastening his coin purse to make change for a customer.

EUNICE S. LEVENS

Newport, Rhode Island

“There are eyes half defiant.”

Wild strawberries — sage tea — Lady Rowena polishing brass—yellow water-lilies—clouded amber.

Eunice begged me not to mention a certain blond young man in her write-up and so sweetly did she plead that I'll say nary a word about him—nor will I make mention of the oversized portrait she has of him. Rest easy, Eunice, your wishes will be respected.

Being an assistant dean hasn't dampened Eunice's light-heartedness, albeit she couples it with a sweet, womanly dignity—and a trace of feminine curiosity.

Don't misunderstand me. From her honest eyes of blue shines spirituality; shines seriousness of purpose; shines gentleness of spirit—shines the soul of noble womanhood.

RUTH E. MOORE

Warren, Pennsylvania
Biological Science

“Eyes so transparent,
That through them one sees the soul.”

Faithful, persevering Ruth. What shall we say of her? Those of us who have associated with her through the past few years have often been put to shame by the sight of her industriously tracing the nervous system of a mudworm.

Put an amoeba on one end of a microscope and Ruth on the other, and you have a picture of a perfectly contented science student.

Too, Ruth is famous for her parties which are so enjoyable that those fortunate enough to be invited just can't break away, even though the bugaboo of the retiring hour hangs over them.

May your paths lead into pleasant places, Ruth, paths of contentment and peace.

"People forget that it is the eye which makes the horizon."

Although Naomi Ruth was here before, it is only during the past year that I've really begun to know her. At first I was a bit dubious about Naomi Ruth (especially when she asked me if I ever went to Simmons College), but her constant cheerfulness and jolly disposition completely disarmed me and I am glad to know her as a friend.

You who read this doubtless applaud her efforts in building up our library and admire her for her lady-like qualities (Chaucer would call it "gentillesse"); but unless you saw her impersonating a man shaving himself you've missed seeing one side of Naomi Ruth's personality.

ROBERT J. YOUNG
Cleveland, Ohio
Theology

"The language of his soul told through his eye."

I recall the cadence of your voice, the twinkle of your eye; your smile whimsical and your lazy grace—I recall your little inconsistencies which make you so delightfully human.

My first recollection of you, Bob, was in English Lit. class where you wore a look of utter hopelessness as the career of Beowulf unfolded. Hopelessness gave way to dumb despair, and taking your Celtic courage in one hand and your books in the other you tiptoed from the course.

You have a blending of idealism and materialism in your nature, Bob, a blending that I can best describe by comparison—Don Quixote selling real estate.

May the Lord bless you—and our friendship.

THEOLOGICAL PREPARATORY

THEOLOGICAL GRADUATES

HERMAN HANSON

New Britain, Connecticut

"Hell trembles at a heaven-directed eye."
 Did you ever hear "Herm" sing The Stranger of Galilee? If you have there will be no doubts in your mind as to his success in song evangelism. And "Herm" deserves success. He has worked diligently and sacrificed much to fit himself for the ministry—the sacrifice being in part his temporary separation from his wife and two pretty daughters.

It was under "Herm's" regime that the laundry reached its peak of social success—the high light of the year being the annual Laundry Banquet.

Yes, tenacious perseverance was "Herm's" policy in the laundry. Even though the pillow-case was new and firm he quickly reduced it to limp subjection. "Herm's" motto: "No matter how strong the sheets we mangle 'em."

HOWARD RANDALL

Wollaston, Massachusetts

"Eyes are bold as lions, roving, running, leaping here and there."

Do you remember "Doc's" old car of many colors? I thought for a long time it was one of the antiques that came from the Quincy Mansion School, until one day I saw "Doc" proudly piloting it along Elm Avenue in all its pristine glory.

Let me give you a tip, folks. If you ever need an energetic worker on a program committee, go hunt up "Doc" Randall and enlist his capable aid. If you get "Doc's" enthusiasm aroused he will work tirelessly—but I imagine he would be better in decorating the dining-hall for a Valentine Party than he would be in chiseling out a Medieval Cathedral.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

ROBERT YOUNG	President
RUTH FADER	Vice President
DONNABELLE RUTH	Secretary
PROFESSOR MANN	Faculty Adviser

"There are rumors that the Council is headed for a truly progressive year." Our council has become one of the most active, contributing organizations of the college. During the year the social committee planned a schedule of Friday night programs for both semesters which were of interest to faculty, friends, and students.

The "I didn't hear the bell" alibi is no more. Through the council's "Christmas Fund Drive," Robert Young, president, in a chapel service, January 7, presented $44.00 to Professor Mingledorff for a new clock and bell system and a new bulletin board. The administration matched this amount dollar for dollar, and now new bells buzz the class hours, and professors no longer can hold their classes overtime. To celebrate the end of the drive, the members of the council had a delicious dinner at the home of Professor and Mrs. Mann.

Next year's council will find a workable constitution since the revision of the old one and the addition of new by-laws which will pertain mostly to the organization and membership of various societies on the campus.

As a result of council plans, the winning society in the "Student-get-Student" Campaign will receive next fall a loving cup besides $15.00 toward rush week expenses.

"The Campus Camera is the best school paper I have seen in any of our colleges."
 Rev. J. B. Chapman, D.D.

The "Camera" celebrated its first year as an official student paper in February. In September, it stepped up into the same line with the college newspapers, a larger, well-printed one with a regulated schedule of publication. It contains school news, humor, editorials, literary columns, sports writeups, and special features. Throughout this school year the staff has published sixteen issues, and in each one the special features always have given added interest to the paper. Among the special features during the first semester was a column, continued in each issue, which gave the historical background of E. N. C. Another which has added color to the paper is a column called "Pot Pourri", written by our word artist, William Wallace Garland.

HONOR SOCIETY

OFFICERS

VERNER BABCOCK	Chairman
DOROTHY CARLSON	Vice Chairman
DORIS GOODRICH	Corresponding Secretary
ALICE NIELSON	Secretary-Treasurer
JOHN COLEMAN	Chairman of Activities Committee
ETHEL KING	Chairman of Program Committee

Aim: To stimulate scholarship, and increase interest in maintaining a higher type of curricular activities; to do our best by word, spirit, deed, to advance the cause of E. N. C. educationally, based upon the interpretation of E. N. C. as to what constitutes truth.

Qualifications: Active members shall be all returning college students who shall have been elected by faculty of E. N. C. at commencement time. Students of Preparatory and Theological Departments who maintain honor standing shall be associate members.

December 14 the society had charge of a chapel service. The dean of the college gave practical suggestions for establishing traditions of genuine scholarship and for banishing those that are unworthy.

As a result of a special drive, the society has made possible the adding of eighteen new magazines to our library this second semester. In addition, it has established a means by which magazines will be provided for the library each year.

One sixty-dollar scholarship is supported by the society itself. Further contacts have been made which will result in five more scholarships within a year and a half.

The society is taking definite steps toward the forming of an honor society association in the Nazarene Colleges. It has also recommended the establishment of departmental honors to be given at commencement time to graduating students.

April 2—The Honor Society presents the "College of Fun." Did you meet Prof. "Ed. U. Cator"?

"One of the most active of E. N. C.'s many societies." Aims: To promote a general interest in history; to acquaint its members with current affairs, both national and international; and to promote an intellectually social atmosphere both in its meetings and on the campus at E. N. C.

September 24—In a chapel service, the society displayed its banner and outlined its program for the year. The historical trips conducted by the society were enjoyable to other students besides those historically minded. On a crisp autumn day, October 3, forty-five students went sightseeing to places of historical interest in the North Shore area, such as the Wayside Inn, Concord, Lexington, Salem.

In addition to the annual outing, with Bill Garland acting as guide, several walking trips were conducted to the many points of interest in old Boston, two to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and Boston Public Library, and two to the Harvard museums in Cambridge.

The society sponsored two illustrated lectures during the year. On November 20, Rev. Selden Dee Kelley, pastor of the Malden Nazarene Church, presented motion pictures of the Holy Land. On February 5, Amory Waite, an outstanding member of Admiral Byrd's second Expedition, lectured on his adventures in the Antarctic.

On December 11, Don Metz, one of the prominent members of the society, was sent as a delegate to the Convention of the International Relations Clubs of New England, held at Clark University, Worcester, Massachusetts. In addition, the society donated a subscription of the Current History magazine to the library.

Friday night, September 18, Oxfords and Nobels gave a joint program for the enjoyment of all new students. We'll never forget "Lucky Jim", Nobels. Monday, September 28, was "Rush Day", and each new student was urged to become an Oxford by red anchors flaring from every possible place and person. The Oxfords won by two members, but they had to step in order to keep up with the Nobels. Anyway, the Campus Camera subscription contest, launched October 6, was won by the Nobels. Hats off to you, Nobels!

True to their promises, old Oxfords planned a boat ride for the new Oxfords. We'll never forget those dips in the Atlantic Ocean, out beyond Boston Light into the rough, choppy waters of the main ocean. Then, too, one morning at 5:30, ambitious and hungry Oxfords hiked to Squantum, where they had (Shall we call it breakfast?) roasted frankfurts, marshmallows, and coffee.

In the college chapel, darkened except for the platform, which was lighted by candles and an illuminated stained glass window picturing the Madonna and Child, the Oxfords presented their annual program, which was devoted to Christmas themes.

Up to date, the Oxfords and Nobels are racing neck and neck in the Nautilus Subscription Contest. The old "Cog Railway" has never yet failed to make the grade up Mt. Washington.

The Nobels joined with the Oxfords on September 18 to present a program typical of the two societies. On Rush Day, the Nobels called to new students to "Sail on with Nobels." Balloons over the "Ad" Building door, tags in the form of a blue sailboat, placards on trees, all showed that the Nobels were alive and enthusiastic even if they didn't arise at 1.00 A.M. to usher in the great day as did the Oxfords. With Rush Day scarcely out of the way, Nobels were busy getting Campus Camera subscriptions. With due respect to the ambitious Oxfords, these energetic Vikings won the loving cup. (But they had to work hard for it.)

Old Nobels soon had planned a "Get-Acquainted" Breakfast for new members. "Ringing bells—rising Nobels—morning hikings—these blue Vikings"—October 15, at 5.00 A.M. they hiked to Squantum, where they had breakfast at Peaveys' cottage.

January 15, the Nobels presented their annual program, reminding us "'Tis Winter". A splendid group of musical numbers and appropriate readings with a background of an Arctic sky and floating icebergs showed us life in the regions of the far North.

Then too, in this Nautilus subscription contest, the "Model T" is forging straight ahead. Have you ever known a Ford to fail?

LEAGUE OF EVANGELICAL STUDENTS

ALBERT LEWIS	President
GRACE SWEIGERT	Vice President
JUNE ROMIG	Secretary
EARL SCOTT	Treasurer
PROFESSOR EARLE	Faculty Adviser

This year the League has been organized under a new plan.

1. Special contacts: Contacts with any religious body not regularly scheduled with the League.
2. Regular contacts: Covers all scheduled contacts, such as missions.
3. College contacts: A field of primary concern to our chapter, which plans religious services in other colleges.
4. Home and hospital contacts: Concentration upon personal work in local homes and hospitals.

Among the regular contacts are the Sunshine Mission, Morgan Memorial, Good Samaritan Mission, Union Rescue Mission, and Merrimac Mission, all of Boston; Quincy City Mission, Seavey Settlement, and Dover St. Mission. This year the L. E. S. has conducted services in eighty missions, sixty-four Nazarene churches, thirty in other churches, three in hospitals, four in jails, and twenty miscellaneous services.

There have been several outstanding meetings during the year. December 14, a group of E. N. C. students visited Gordon College. Dr. Gordon Brownville of Tremont Temple Baptist Church was the speaker. Mr. Lester Holder and Mr. Layton Tattrie, both of E. N. C., sang a duet. On December 31 two League members of E. N. C. held a joint meeting with six students of Columbia University. March 10, E. N. C. students met with a group of twelve from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

We Alumni of Eastern Nazarene College mean to offer her a stimulating moral support. We want her to feel the impact of a united Alumni mind. Keeping abreast of the times and maintaining a high standard of cultural and intellectual life ourselves, we expect the same of her. Maintaining a deep and fervent Christian experience, we expect her to keep alive her glowing spiritual fires. But we cannot expect much from her if we do not offer her consistent example and encouragement, and very definite material support. This we have always tried to do.

During recent years our Association work as such has been limited because of the distressing financial need of the College and because we have opened our mailing list to the Administration for its urgent appeals. There can be no change in this regard, for the need remains and we must continue our emergency giving. But while doing this, and to aid this, we must do two things for ourselves.

First, we must improve our organization. We have more than three hundred members now and we must perfect our rudimentary district and class machinery if we are to have a fair degree of efficiency. The change to ballot by mail has given the whole of our group a voice in the annual election; an annual P. C. I. celebration has aroused the older Alumni; district club leaders have been appointed; and five-year class reunions started. But we need another wheel or two, and we need to use what we have.

Second, we must increase our contributions through the payment of Association dues and of pledges made at the Annual Banquet for our special project each year and for our Permanent Endowment Fund. It is time we began to rise out of our depression slump.

To accomplish both of these purposes we need an Alumni Headquarters with more regular communications to and from our growing ranks. Come to the Annual Meeting, the Saturday of Commencement, and we will talk it over.

JOHN E. RILEY

Alumni Day in Pictures. The secretary has recorded the morning sessions but the camera tells the story of the afternoon. Do you see the ball players? Those three stout men? A little too heavy now for swift running on the diamond. Remember the year when Irwin French was presented with "split-proof" trousers? Time out for a refreshing drink of lemonade. On the sidelines a group of spectators find something interesting in the Alumni snap shot album. Here comes the ticket committee—"Have you a ticket for the banquet?"

CAMPUS LIFE

“PURSUIT OF KNOWLEDGE UNDER DIFFICULTIES.”

THE STORY OF THE YEAR

SEPTEMBER

TUESDAY, 8—Registration Day—School opens, methinks, a bit early! 8:00 P.M. Faculty Reception and our introduction to President Williamson.

SEPTEMBER 9-13—The opening convention. In the capacity of an able leader and a paramount speaker, President G. B. Williamson serves as evangelist. It is a rallying time for old and new students.

FRIDAY, 18—Homesick freshmen no longer feel "blue"; the upper-classmen prove to them they're "green" by way of hilarious initiation.

FRIDAY, 25—In chapel the Reverend Howard Sweeten speaks with convincing logic on the complete Christian experience. 8:00 P.M. Oxfords and Nobels wave a flag of truce and unite talent to entertain new students.

MONDAY, 28—Rush Day! Colorful, enthusiastic activity winds up an almost even number of new students for each society.

TUESDAY, 29—Age-old hymns live anew in chapel in the tones of the vibra-harp and cathedral chimes played by the Reverend and Mrs. Teasdale.

WEDNESDAY, 30—Trustees meet. The lengthy session ends at 2:45 A.M. Thursday. The chapel and prayer meeting messages of the day given by the trustees prove helpful and instructive.

OCTOBER

THURSDAY, 1—Scene: library; Time: 8:30 P.M.—Snap! Clank! Bang! And it's the heat coming on! How welcome!

FRIDAY, 2—New students aren't so green. Original wit, promising talent, "hopes" for E. N. C.'s future are displayed in their program.

SUNDAY, 4—Mrs. G. B. Williamson measures, in Young People's Meeting, the dimensions of a truly Christian life: breadth of vision, length of endurance, height of ideals, and depth of conviction.

TUESDAY, 6—A full day! Big league baseball final. Steve Bennett evidently has witnessed such games, for he remarks, "You know it's a spectre just to see all those people!"

Nautilus "picture day"—which means a holiday? Ask Beverly Oxford motor-boat ride. It's "Anchors Aweigh" for Oxfords old and new.

Faculty wiener roast. "Who forgot the wieners?" may we ask.

SUNDAY, 11—The Sunday message by Dr. S. S. White emphasizes the great maxim from Proverbs 16:32, "Better is he that ruleth his own spirit than he that taketh a city."

MONDAY, 12—Holiday? Several carloads of students obey the lure of autumn beauty in the White Mountains. Homer Smith, one of the group, won't "take it." He just answers, "You incinerating thing, you; you burn me up."

THURSDAY, 15—Nobel breakfast at Squantum: "Ringing bells,—Rising Nobels; Morning hikings,— these blue Vikings! Nobels feasting,— Oxfords sleeping!"

Scenes that linger

1. Bob X, caveman! 2. Superfluous, Rudy. 3. Batteries: Hubbell pitching—Bell catching. 4. Ah, youth! Studious Ruth. 5. An unnecessary warning. 6. Vengeance is mine. 7. Don't take life so seriously. 8. On Duty!! 9. Master (see 13). 10. Ticket, please. 11. The pause that refreshes. 12. Coincidental? 13. Apprentice (see 9). 14. Through the laundry window. 15. Official. 16. Overseer. 17. Classes are over. 18. Nurse goes social. 19. "Transplant the carnations today"—V. B. 20. Happy family, we three! 21. Turn on the heat, please.

IT IS LOVELY TO BE YOUNG —

O rainy, foggy, February twilight, your beauty is dusky, and cool, and compelling. Beaded ice hangs from every bush, and the campus paths are dark with melted snow. Through the ancient pine trees, clad in thin ice, mourns the wild, low-singing wind. Its cry is that of a woman wailing a dirge for her old, dead dreams.

Yet spring is in my heart tonight. Some strange, mad joy wells up from within me, and I dream of a cool, intoxicating night in April. Moonlight on the Mansion lawn, sweet perfume of soil and new leaves, soft music in the air, tang of the sea! Laughter on a campus in New England, half a dozen eager voices,—careless children on an April night.

It is lovely to be young and gay and innocent. Let the wind moan, and wail her dirge of broken dreams; we shall not mind. We cannot know the torment of her grief. Youth is too fleeting for sorrow—too happy for pain.

Some day not far from now we shall be wise and mature and subdued by the years. Time will cover this young exultation, age will soften this sharp joy, and we can look back with a smile at the naïve children we were. We may pity their ignorance, perhaps,—but we shall not be happier than now.

THE STORY OF THE YEAR—*Continued*OCTOBER—Continued

FRIDAY, 16—Once more we are privileged to hear Dr. E. A. Thompson in a charming miscellaneous program.

SATURDAY, 17—Historical Society conducts its first Walking Trip through Boston, combining Fine Arts with History, under the able direction of William Wallace Garland.

TUESDAY, 20—Football holds the stage. Oxforvs vs. Nobels at that. The players may have enjoyed the game; no one seems to have witnessed it.

WEDNESDAY, 21—A "profit-sharing" prayer meeting—opportunity for all to take part in the service through quoting Scripture, prayer, and testimony. Theme song—"Blessed Assurance."

FRIDAY, 23—The Forensic Club in a spectacular debate predicts a Landon victory.

Oxford breakfast—an invigorating outing with minor casualties such as the ducking of Olive, Ruth, and Louise by Abe and Ross.

SUNDAY, 25—The Young People's Society under the direction of "General Superintendent" Williamson installs its officers and pastors: "District Superintendent", Robert Young; "Pastors", Naomi Crean, C. Helen Mooshian, James Shaw, and John Coleman. Slogan for 1937—"Deeper and Farther with Christ."

WEDNESDAY, 28—Professor Munro's Sunday School Class has a wiener roast in the Blue Hills. Perfect weather, ideal scenery, and—nobody forgot the wieners!

FRIDAY, 30—Hallowe'en Party—a literal nightmare full of ghosts, goblins, monsters, and witches!!!!?

NOVEMBER

TUESDAY, 3—Election day. Our E. N. C. debaters can never be political commentators.

FRIDAY, 6—"A Story in Song—From Egypt to Canaan" . . . Headlines and posters announce the original L. E. S. program.

Oxforvs and Nobels divide honors in basketball—in the usual way.

NOVEMBER 9-15—Revival days. Our evangelist, Reverend J. Glenn Gould, preaches forcefully, dynamically, inspiring many to deeper and fuller consecration.

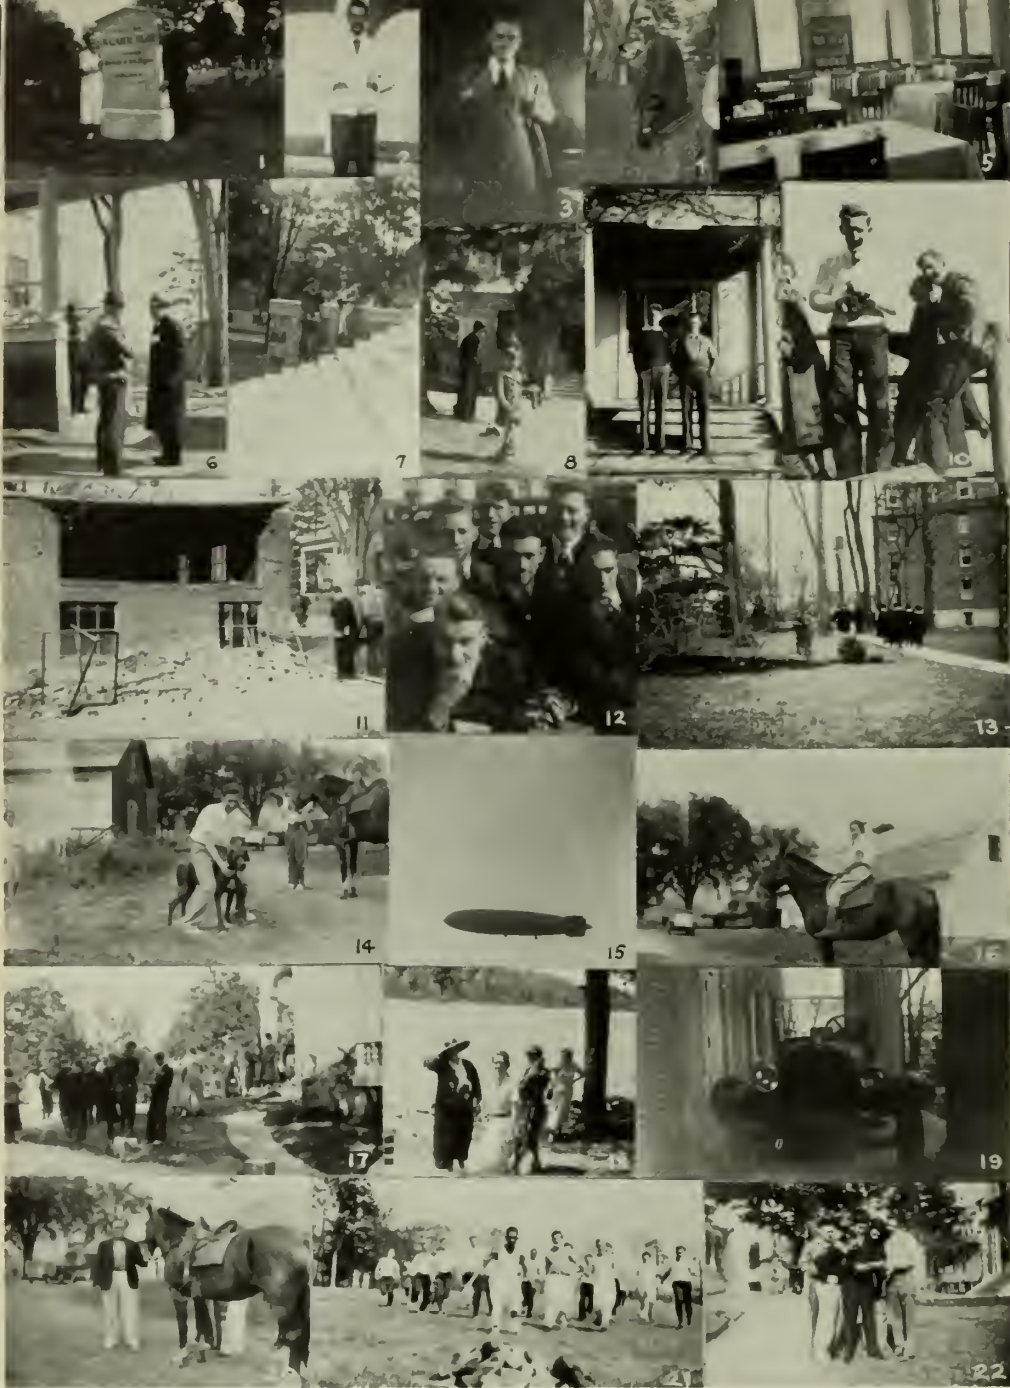

TUESDAY, 10—A lethargic campus is aroused rudely by the unexpected explosion of the heating plant. The damage fortunately is covered by insurance.

FRIDAY, 20—"The Holy Land" shown us by motion pictures and a travelogue lecture by the Reverend Selden Dee Kelley impress upon us the historic background of Christianity. The lecture is sponsored by the Historical Society.

MONDAY, 23—The Thanksgiving spirit takes on originality at the Senior Class Party held at the home of Dean Munro, the faculty adviser. Distinguished guests at the dinner are President and Mrs. G. B. Williamson, both of whom take part in the entertainment.

NOVEMBER—Continued

NOVEMBER 25-29—Thanksgiving Recess! Most of us are privileged to go home, but those of us who remain enjoy immensely the old but ever resourceful "Poverty Party" which is becoming an institution at this vacation period. Also, a Thanksgiving turkey dinner donated by the Nazarene preachers of the New England District. Every one is happy and thankful.

NOVEMBER 30-DECEMBER 2—The Reverend and Mrs. L. C. Osborn, missionaries from China, transport us, in a series of meetings, around the world, taking in China, Egypt, Syria, and the harbor of New York. The emphasis is upon missionary work in the heart of China, where raw heathendom and sin-hardened countenances are in contrast with the advent of Bible salvation and shining faces.

DECEMBER

THURSDAY, 3—Poet, evangelist, journalist,—Lon R. Woodrum in party with N. B. Vandall, "the golden voice of the air", provides an interesting, helpful, entertaining chapel period.

FRIDAY, 4—Yes, we recommend our Fine Arts Department. Its program given by Professors Cove, Williamson and Simpson, reveals sources of art which indicate splendid development under favorable conditions.

SUNDAY, 6—The Wollaston Church of the Nazarene takes on importance in this great Rally Day. 250 in Sunday School! 26 new members in the church! And a rising tide of forward-moving spirit!

WEDNESDAY, 9—Do you remember the Christmas Chest? Perhaps you are reminded of it every hour or so by the accuracy and promptness of our bell system. Orchids to the Student Council.

FRIDAY, 11—The Oxforde usher in the Christmas season early with their program of Yuletide spirit. Attractive, dignified theme, the hour closing with the pealing of distant chimes.

WEDNESDAY, 16—Once again rings Handel's "Messiah" in the chapel. The chorus and orchestra present selections from the famed oratorio.

DECEMBER 18-JANUARY 4—Christmas Recess! Nuf sed!

JANUARY

TUESDAY, 5—Nautilus Staff Meeting. Fully organized, the staff plans concentrated work.

FRIDAY, 8—Class parties. Individual classes meet in places of their own planning: the dining hall, a Maine fire-hall, Professor Marquart's home, the recreation rooms,—all are transformed into places of frolicsome gaiety.

TUESDAY, 12—Campus Camera hails Henry Hadley winner of the great subscription contest. "Bumps" had persuaded fifty persons to subscribe.

FRIDAY, 15—Nobel Literary Society appears in a snow-covered Arctic to entertain us with lore of Northern lands.

JANUARY 14-22—Mid-year exams featuring cramming and midnight oil.

FRIDAY, 22—Revival sparks fly up in chapel as students earnestly testify to the reality of God's promises.

TUESDAY, 26—Another Registration Day. Some seniors are heard moaning in the hall because it is their last registration. None but last year's seniors can sympathize.

OUR "MODEL T"

With a whir and a bang the motor of Captain Babcock's "Flying Model T" roars and sputters across the field carrying a heavy load of dirt. Then, after being unloaded the truck comes taxi-ing back to the starting point. Picks and shovels immediately come to life, and within ten minutes our "Flying Ford," filled to capacity, stutters bravely for an instant and then saunters nervously on its old trail again.

THE CAMPUS DUGOUT

Eastern Nazarene College, like most colleges, has a favorite place for students to gather for good times and good food. Ours is dug out of the side of the Chapel and is reached by descending a few steep, crooked steps. Over the door a flashy red and white sign declares loudly that THE DUGOUT is operated by Ray and Jack. These handsome young men are courteous and obliging, and aim to please the most particular customer.

Any time of the day we see students beating a path across the campus to THE DUGOUT. In the morning the sleepy heads spend their last dime for coffee and doughnuts. If we have soup for dinner those not in sympathy with a vegetarian diet make a bee-line for THE DUGOUT and a hamburger. In the evening truant students go there seeking release from the mad struggle of declining nouns and writing themes.

THE DUGOUT is no respecter of persons. All types of students mingle freely. The small, peering bookworms laugh with the weighty, obstreperous sport fiends. The gracious, level-headed seniors joke with the flighty, cock-sure freshmen. Conversation quite remarkably includes everything from the Oxford-Nobel games to the abdication of King Edward. Quite often we are the victims of bewhiskered jokes and tuneless songs, but what would a dugout be without them?

This is the first year in the life of THE DUGOUT, but I feel that it will live to a ripe old age. Maybe our grandchildren will be following the same paths that we are now making to it. Who knows?

A DISSERTATION ON BULL SESSIONS

"Bull Sessions" are not modern. They have played an important part in the lives of gods and men since the pink rays from Aurora's chariot first trickled through the mists of the virgin world.

Down through history, in every age that we have record of, stories filter through about great and mighty men, as well as ancient gods and goddesses gathering unannounced and unsummoned in someone's quarters, or some secluded spot, to indulge in the luxury of unguarded free thinking. Sprawling, munching, drinking—laying aside all pomp and splendor just to be themselves for a few short moments.

The Greek gods, when they were having that great session to decide what was to become of Troy, between debates, wranglings, and committee reports, must have sneaked off to secluded ethereal dens to discuss their own personal trifling problems while the Greeks moved in by means of a great hobby-horse.

In Rome, while waiting for the latest news flashes from Egypt, where Cleopatra was demoralizing their military geniuses, the senators might be found behind the statues of Venus or Apollo swapping the latest stories and laying bets as to who would take Mark Antony's pretty niece to the next month-long banquet.

The Knights and Ladies of E. N. C. enjoy this sport of gods and men. Any night, regardless of exams, stiff classes or work, you find these lovers of Bull Sessions gathered in the dorms, be it the Cardboard, the Mansion—or even Munro Hall, settling the problems of the world with ease. Topics range from philosophic discussions on the revolutions of industry's wheels to "Who's the new girl", or fellow, as the case may be. More often than not these debates take on the form of an Abnormal Psych class gone haywire.

A lunch miraculously appears from nowhere only to vanish still more miraculously.

WEDNESDAY, 27—Sleepy students bob down the front walk to the Administration Building at 8 A.M. for the first class of the new semester.

THURSDAY, 28—More Nautilus pictures taken with our friendly photographer again on the job from Purdy's.

FRIDAY, 29—Nautilus Subscription Campaign is on. Nobels find themselves in a "Motel T Gas Machine" and the Oxfords in a Cog Railway Train. Both are aiming to reach the top of Mount Washington first.

FEBRUARY

THURSDAY, 4—"The Dug-Out" opens for business. Step up, folk—free Coca-Cola for all.

FRIDAY, 5—Amory Waite, a local resident and a member of Admiral Byrd's second Antarctic expedition, draws a large crowd for his illustrated lecture. We are again grateful to the Historical Society for the evening's entertainment.

THURSDAY, 11—Best party ever given in honor of St. Valentine's Day at E. N. C. Open House is observed in Munro Hall for all the boys, a big dinner, lively games, and barrels of fun as a campusful of couples roam around.

TUESDAY, 16—Mrs. G. B. Williamson continues her dining hall etiquette chats. This time it's "Watch your table talk".

WEDNESDAY, 17—E. N. C. joins in day of prayer for colleges.

THURSDAY, 18—Again E. N. C. goes "on the air". Tune in Station W-M-E-X every Tuesday at 9:00 A.M.

FRIDAY, 19—The American Literature class helps Professor Munro celebrate her birthday with cake and greeting cards.

Ruth Moore gives her annual party. The "elite" (according to Bill Garland) of the campus return at 12:20 A.M. and for the next week enjoy "The Prisoner's Song" and "Happy Campus". Ask Eunice Levens or Flossie Smith for full particulars.

SATURDAY, 20—Students declare unhesitatingly that the dining hall's best meal is a roast beef dinner topped off with chocolate cream pie.

SUNDAY, 21—Church Joining Day in the Wollaston Nazarene Church.

TUESDAY, 23—The greenhouse, class gift of '36, is completed. Edgar Smith promises carnations for Mother's Day. Verner, the campus gardener, solicits bulbs and roots from E. N. C.'s friends.

THURSDAY, 25—Bill Garland conducts a Historical Society trip to the Fine Arts Museum in Boston. "Art" becomes real and tangible.

Ten Minutes After Supper!! "Open House" in all Boys' Dormitories. More than one admiring young lady remarks ecstatically, "What spacious palaces they have to live in!"

FRIDAY, 26—Y. M. C. A. presents varied program of skill and precision. Speed Rogers with his unique rope demonstration brings up a fitting climax.

The Campus Camera, E. N. C.'s official newspaper, observes its first anniversary today.

SUNDAY, 28—Quarters, dimes, nickels, pennies make $100.00 as S. S. Superintendent Henry Reeves urges members to contribute to the College Fund.

MARCH

MONDAY, 1—Are you an E. N. C. Booster? Red and white buttons alone do not tell the story.

TUESDAY, 2—Five days early, students give Professor Marquart a surprise party to celebrate the anniversary of his birth.

THURSDAY, 4—More Nautilus pictures. Economics class debates. Result: "No Consumers' Cooperatives for the United States."

FRIDAY, 5—"Men Ought to Pray". The Reverend Lloyd Byron, pastor of the Lowell church and an E. N. C. alumnus, with convincing truth tells us why in chapel.

In the evening, Professor Cove acquaints us with the three great B's in music—Bach, Beethoven, and Brahms, who speak anew through their musical compositions. The college orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. G. B. Williamson, finds an eager reception of its initial appearance.

WEDNESDAY, 10—Scene: in a psychology class. Earl Wolf: "If there were only one fish in the fish bowl and you could see two fish, which one would be the real one?" Prof. Shields: "The one outside the bowl."

FRIDAY, 12—The Expression Department and the Men's Glee Club combine to pay an early tribute to Easter in the cantata "Gethsemane and After" by Brady.

SUNDAY, 14—We look forward to the time of special meetings fast drawing near. Professors Rosenberger, Marquart, and Munro as platform speakers tell us of revivals that were, of those we can have today, and of the revival we need NOW.

MARCH 14-28—Rock-bottom foundations of individual spiritual experience are laid as our president, the Reverend G. B. Williamson, preaches healthy, soul-stirring messages of truth. It is a time of deepening spirituality for some, and for others a time of awakening to the reality of Christ as a living Savior.

WEDNESDAY, 31—Scene: science survey class. Prof. Soteriades: "Now just imagine if my arms were wires and my head were an electric light bulb, and you passed a current through it. What would happen—?"

APRIL

FRIDAY, 2—Honor Society presents "College of Fun".

MONDAY, 5—1937 Nautilus goes to press.

“SAD, SAD TO THINK THAT THE YEAR IS ALL BUT DONE”

Business Men

use Babson's Reports as a guide to the trend of fundamental conditions. Based upon Newton's Law of Action and Reaction, the Babsonchart helps executives to profit by past experience, appraise the current situation, and prepare for future tendencies.

Besides interpreting and applying basic statistics, the Reports advise on commodity price trends and opportunities in advertising, merchandising, and credit granting. Practical information and advices are also given on labor conditions, living costs and other topics of timely importance.

Investors

find in Babson's Reports unbiased counsel. These Reports are not concerned with attempts to pick winners or play the short-swings. Rather they offer the safeguards of diversification and long-pull planning. Their appeal is to seasoned and conservative investors.

A feature of the Babson financial service is the Supervised Stock List and the Supervised Bond List. These provide a diversified portfolio of securities,—carefully selected and constantly supervised. Acquaint yourself with this forward step in investment service.

In the long run . . .

You and your friends will prize the portrait that looks like you—your truest self, free from stage effects and little conceits. It is in this "long run" photography that PURDY success has been won. Portraiture by the camera that one cannot laugh at or cry over in later years.

For present pleasure and future pride protect your photographic self by having Purdy make the portraits.
